Big Celebration Tonight and Tomorrow Set for Start

The final plans are made and the stars are set for the big celebration. Opening tonight with the banquet and dance in the town hall, the men in service in this town will be treated to the time of their lives. Decorations are up, the menu is prepared, the orchestra, bands and drum corps are on their way, and it remains only for the actual participation to test out the extent and magnitude of the program.

Tonight's part of the program consists of the banquet and dance in the town hall. Chairman George E. Willey of the dinner committee has already gained a local reputation for his work in arranging for such affairs. In the present event he admits himself that all previous records have been surpassed. The menu is to be such that everyone will not only have all he can eat, but he will be treated to a variety which will instill him with joy.

The entertainment will be in keeping with the rest of the program. This part is not being announced beforehand, the committee desiring to spring a surprise which will make it doubly effective, but one feature alone will serve to give an idea of what will be enjoyed, and that is the singing of the new patriotic song entitled "To America's Flag," by Mrs. Helen Barr.

Lieut. Governor Channing Cox will be the guest of honor, and hailed as the next Governor of Massachusetts, he will undoubtedly be the most popular figure present, next to those for whom the evening is given—the men in service.

The dance is to be in charge of the Fortnightly. The ladies have spared no expense or effort to make it the biggest and best dance this town has ever had. The best music obtainable will be at the hall and plenty of refreshments will be served the dancers. Members of the Executive Committee of the club will serve as matrons.

So much for tonight. Of the 662 old names on the town honor roll of men in service, 350 had applied for tickets up to this morning. In addition to those attending the banquet and dance, parents and relatives will be accommodated by ticket as far as the limited space allows in the balconies, and on the stage.

Tomorrow's program opens at 10.30 with the ball game on Manchester Field between the Soldiers and Sailors. This game is to be under the direction of the newly formed Post of the American Legion. Information regarding the make-up of the two teams is lacking, but it is reported that both sides will put the very best players available in the field and that a rousing game is anticipated. During the game there will be a band concert to enliven things.

Manager Edward McKenzie is making every endeavor to have the afternoon ball game, scheduled for two o'clock, the best match of the season, and it is anticipated there will be a record crowd present to witness it.

The parade promises to break all records. Through the week men have been busy under the direction of the decorating committee hanging up flags along the whole of the three mile route, and as reviewed yesterday it will make a fitting setting for the marchers. Many handsome flags have been loaned for this part of the decorations, and all of the houses on the route will fly flags and the national colors.

The stores about town are now decorated and make a fine showing. All of the public buildings are decorated, and the town hall will be surrounded by colored electric lights, making this a central point for the evening display. Many canoeists have signified their intention to take part in the illumination of the river, and this will be another feature. Autoists in great quantity have also signified their intention of illuminating their cars in the evening.

Of course everyone will wear a Winchester button tomorrow, and it is expected the stores will sell out their supply today.

The display of fireworks in the evening is said to be the best ever provided for the town, and as Winchester has already had some fine exhibitions, this statement should arouse anticipation among all of us. The music, engaged weeks ago, includes bands and drum corps, which are well known throughout this section as standing at the head of musical organizations. That each will endeavor to prove its superiority, both by its effort and program, promises well for that part of the big program.

Shelf paper, wax paper, drinking cups and paper napkins at Wilson's Stationers.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

June 30, 1919.

The Board met at 7.30 p. m. All present.

The records of the meeting of June 23, 1919 were read and approved. Fire Dept. (Fire Alarm). A report was received from the Chief of the Fire Department stating that all the fire alarm boxes (except school house boxes 12, 13, 14, 15 were not tested on account of buildings being closed) were tested and found to be in good working condition.

Band Concerts. A letter was received from Charles W. Miller, Treasurer of the Commonwealth Band in regard to supplying music for band concerts held in Winchester. The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Miller that the band concerts given in the Town were given by the Metropolitan Park Commission.

Licenses, 1919, Hackney Carriages. A license of this class was granted to Mr. John R. Russell, 32 Harvard street. This license is effective to May 1, 1920 and subject to the usual fee of one dollar ($1.00).

Measures of Leather. Frank G. H. Finnimore, Verplaat avenue, Michael J. Sullivan, 26 Canal street, and Andrew J. Lynch, 9 Grove place, nominated on June 23, were appointed as Measures of Leather under provisions of Chapter 502, Acts of 1913, to serve until June 30, 1920. Under suspension of its rules, the Board appointed Thomas H. Mathews, 12 Sheridan Circle and James V. Haley, 31 Canal street, measures of Leather under the provisions of Chapter 502, Acts of 1913, to serve until June 30, 1920.

Scholarships. The Clerk was instructed to send to the American Legion a copy of Senator McKnight's letter relating to a scholarship which he offers to three Winchester men who have returned from service.

Licenses 1919 Explosives and Inflammables. Mr. Cox reported that Mr. Willis O. Blaisdell who had applied for a license to store gasoline in a tank near his garage on Wedge Pond Road wished to withdraw this application. An unfavorable report was also received from the Chief of the Fire Department in regard to the matter.

Wildwood Street. A letter was received from Mr. A. M. Paul calling the Board's attention to the condition of Wildwood street and its east sidewalk. This matter was referred

AUTO SMASHED SUNDAY

Collision With Electric Injures Two Men

Two Winchester men were badly cut and bruised early Sunday morning when the auto in which they were riding collided with an electric car on Main street in front of the residence of Mr. George G. Stratton near Swanston street. Both men were arrested by the police, charged with intoxication and the driver was further charged with operating a car without a license.

The men were William L. Coleman of 18 Kendall street, night watchman at a local garage, and his brother-in-law, John McKulty, who resides with him.

It is charged that Coleman took the new Dodge touring car owned by William J. Murray of Main street to take his brother for a ride. Murray claims the car was taken without his knowledge or permission. When on the hill near Swanston street the auto collided with an electric car, which hit it just at the rear seat, sending it across the road and against the stone wall at that point. The car continued on until it struck a lamp post in front of the store of Patrick O'Connor. The top was ripped off the auto and its mud guards badly bent.

Both men were treated at the emergency room at the police station by Dr. Sheely. The inbound trolley car was in charge of motorman James J. Fitzgerald and conductor William Parker of Woburn. The electric had its stop, door and handles smashed.

In the Woburn court Monday morning a continuance of the case was granted until next Tuesday.

ARMY AND NAVY BASEBALL

JULY 4th

The Army and Navy game in the morning of July 4th will be handled by the Legion of War Veterans, and they will have entire supervision of players, etc. "Mack" has agreed to furnish bats, balls and bases, so that the game can be staged with no expense to the boys.

If the game is played with the army it will be a good one. The people should be notified in advance what they may expect to see before going to the field.

There will be a band concert during the games, and a collection will be taken on the field by the officers of the Legion which will be turned in to their fund.

MRS. EMILY V. LITTLEFIELD

Mrs. Emily Vreeland Littlefield, age 75 years, widow of Charles H. Littlefield, past department president of the Woman's Relief Corps of Maine and past National chaplain of the Woman's Relief Corps, died on Monday at her late residence, 14 Salem street.

Mrs. Littlefield was born in East Cambridge, March 8, 1844, and came to Winchester in 1849. She married in 1864 Charles H. Littlefield, a captain in the Union Navy in the Civil War.

In 1885 she was elected first department president of the Woman's Relief Corps of Maine. She moved to New York in 1892 and was elected National chaplain of the Woman's Relief Corps about that time. She returned to Winchester in 1905 and had made her home here since.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Patrick Higgins, a sister, Frances Vreeland, two granddaughters and one grandson. Funeral services will take place at 2.30 o'clock this Thursday afternoon at her late residence.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL

The Dorchester pupils of Miss Sadie F. Bowser of Winchester gave an interesting recital last Saturday afternoon, assisted by Mr. William Lawrence Bowser, Tenor, and Mr. Everett Walker, Tenor. Several of the advanced class made an excellent showing of the year's work as did many of the second and third grade pupils, the program with one exception, being rendered without notes. Mr. Bowser's solos followed by encores were well received as also were Mr. Walker's. Roses and ferns were used in decorating.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Winchester troops will assemble at the Council headquarters, Friday, July 4, at four P. M., to participate in the parade for the returned service men. Every Scout in Winchester should be present and in full uniform. W. E. SMITH, Scout Executive.

GO OUT FOR BIDS

Highway Work to be by Contract During Strike of Men

Following a conference with the Selectmen on Monday night, at which no satisfactory agreement could be reached, the men on the town highway department have continued to remain out on strike. Latest reports are to the effect that the men and the Town will stand firm in the matter, the latter as represented by the Selectmen, claiming that without authorization the requested raise cannot be met.

Meanwhile it is reported that the Town will go ahead with new construction and will ask for bids to build Westland avenue and Swan road, two highways it was decided to build at the March meeting. It is said that the Town is not averse to undertaking this construction in this manner as a comparison of the cost of doing work under its own departments and that of contractors.

Members of the Sewer department still continue on strike in support of the Highway men, but the Water department men have continued at work with one exception noted last week.

SUMMER FESTIVAL

One Thousand Guests Make Affair a Success at St. Mary's

There was an attendance of over one thousand at the annual summer festival of St. Mary's parish on Saturday afternoon and evening on the grounds of the rectory on Washington street. Rev. John W. H. Corbett was in charge, assisted by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, rector of the church, and Rev. Francis E. Rogers, also of St. Mary's.

A large committee headed by Mr. Daniel Murphy and including Joseph A. Blackham, Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mrs. Patrick Martin, Mrs. Daniel Lydon, Mrs. Hugh Skerry, Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, Mrs. Harry Benet, Mrs. Thomas Macksey, Mrs. Mary Cox and Harry Donovan assisted in making the affair the best event yet in the history of the parish.

A band concert, vaudeville show, dancing and sports for young and old made up a program which fully occupied the time, while refreshments served by ladies of the parish were a feature which appealed to all. The attendance included over 100 men who are or have been in the service, and in that respect made an additional reunion for many.

SCHOOL GARDEN

Miss Mabel F. Ryan, Supervisor of School and Home Gardens, has this message for pupils of Winchester:

To the Boys and Girls of Winchester: Plan your home gardens so that every available spot will be used. When one crop matures, put in another. Make the land work. Remember the exhibition in the fall. Plan for it now!

BASE BALL JULY 4 AND JULY 5

On the Fourth of July we play the St. John's Catholic Club of Cambridge, and this is another strong team with chances against Winchester beating them. But at least we can try. The game starts at 2 o'clock, and is free to all, the town paying all expenses of the game, so every one can enjoy themselves. There will also be a band concert. So get down and root for your team.

Saturday, July 5th

No game here, as we go to Lynn to play the best team we will be called on to play this season—The Cornets. The grounds are at Little River, near the Saguas Depot, and can be reached by train from Boston or trolley by way of Woburn and Melrose. Trains leave Boston at 1.17 and 2.12. It is hoped as many rooters as possible will follow the team. It makes a nice auto trip.

STOLEN AUTO FOUND

Boys picking berries in the woods just over the Woburn line found a stolen automobile in the brush Sunday. The police were notified on Monday morning and found the car, an Overland touring car with wooden top, in the woods near Flynn's nursery. The car had been stripped of everything removable, tires, lamps, speedometer, cushions and everything which could be taken gone. As the car was in Woburn, the police of that city were notified.

Investigation revealed that the car had been stolen June 17th from a garage at East Boston. It is still in the woods, the owner having turned it over to the insurance company. It will be a difficult job to remove it.

JOHN S. LYNAM

John S. Lynam of 21 Nelson street, a well known resident of this town, where he had made his home with his sister for the past 35 years, died suddenly yesterday morning. He was 75 years of age.

On Wednesday Mr. Lynam was in his usual health and went to Boston. Early in the evening he was stricken with an attack of heart disease, from which he never rallied.

He was a native of Derbyshire, England. He came to this country 40 years ago and went to work for the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad as an engineer. Later following the same occupation on the New York & New England Railroad. In 1882 he went into the employ of the Union Switch and Signal Company of Pennsylvania. In 1884 he came to this town and entered the employ of the Boston & Maine Railroad as supervisor of interlocking signals and later as signal inspector. He retired last October.

He was married to Miss Ruth Parkins of Derbyshire, who died in 1897. He leaves one daughter, Miss Fanny Lynam of this town, with whom he made his home, and four daughters and one son in England. He also leaves one brother and one sister, and 40 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren. Three grandsons were killed in the war.

The funeral services will be held from the residence on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 and will be conducted by Rev. Henry E. Hodges of the First Baptist Church. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

DAUGHTER OF ISABELLA FLOAT

The float of the Daughters of Isabella in tomorrow's parade will consist of a large truck decorated in the colors of the order, purple and gold, and a large truck decorated in the colors of the order, purple and gold. The women who are members of the Santa Maria Court and also mothers of Soldiers and Sailors. There will also be three small children who will represent the three sons and brothers of members of the Isabellas who died in service; William Glendon, William Noonan and Captain George Campbell.

TORE DOWN FLAG

The police arrested John Brady of Boston late last night for tearing down an American flag at the corner of Main and Water streets. He will be in court this morning. The flag was one of those hanging over the street on the route of the parade. Brady is said to have been riding on top of a truck.

MASSE-RYAN

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ryan of 6 Lebanon street announce the engagement of their daughter, Rose A., to Mr. Augustus Masse, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Masse, of 40 Stephen street, Back Bay, formerly of Everett. The wedding will take place August 15th.

Conducted by

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

The farmers and gardeners who are located within the European corn borer quarantine district have become alarmed over the news that their crop will be destroyed if found infested with the European corn borer. The latest official ruling of the State Department of Agriculture, however, states that corn found infested with the European corn borer will not be destroyed until fall when a grand cleanup of the infested area will be made. The quarantine will be enforced and everything done to keep the borer within the infested district. It is up to every one of us to help in the control of this dangerous pest which threatens the corn crop of the country.

Don't forget that it isn't too late to plant another crop of shell or string beans, beets or carrots. Try some coss lettuce, Kohl-Rabi, or Chinese cabbage if you have not grown any before. They are all easy to raise and it's ten to one you will never be without them again. Late cabbage and cauliflower plants may be set out, too. You will harvest them before frost if you keep them growing.

Your cucumbers, squashes, and melons need a thorough spraying of Bordeaux and arsenate of lead every week to 10 days. Don't neglect them. The plant lice or aphids have ruined many pea crops already. Inspect your potatoes and tomatoes every day or two for lice. In spraying for the plant lice you have got to hit the culprit himself. Spraying the foliage won't go. When spraying with "Black Leaf" for plant lice use the mixture stronger than what the manufacturers recommend and be sure to use soap with the mixture.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Not long ago a Winchester gentleman presented and urged his argument in favor of amusements in such a way as to create the impression that there is a lack of them, precisely as men discourse of the indisposability of political parties when there is no way of getting rid of them; even if one wished to. The really important question is whether the business of amusing men and women is not greatly overdone. It can be contended that there is anything wrong in amusements, but surely there can be a wrong use of them, and they can be used to excess. It will be agreed that time, even out of working hours, is needed for other things, and that no man who does not give some attention to these things can realize his best self. That day that is divided wholly between labor and amusement cannot be said to be profitable. People must read, think or try to develop a home life, and cultivate a self-dependence even in the matter of amusement and entertainment. Unless there is something of all this there can be little depth of stability of character. Indeed, those who always have to "be amused" are hardly more than grown-up children. The problem involves social interests of the highest importance. There are, for instance, young people who spend all their unemployed hours in sports and amusements, devoting no time to self-improvement, and then when they find in later years that they are unable to get ahead in life, they become discontented, and indist society for their failure when as a matter of fact, it is wholly due to their neglect of opportunities. In these days of free schools, night classes and public libraries there is no American youth who cannot get a good education. But he cannot get it without working and making sacrifices. The time for self-culture must be taken from that now devoted to amusements. The whole question indeed is one of the proper use of time. Amusements ought to be regarded as a relaxation, a harmless dissipation, and not at all as the business of life. I feel that they will, if they are what they should be, exert a helpful influence. Over-indulged in, their influence is exceedingly harmful.

It is very dangerous to attribute any phenomenon to a single cause, since it is usually the effect of many causes. Indeed, the supposed cause is often itself an effect. But that there is some connection between the American race, on the one hand, and the American restlessness, the Spectator does not doubt. Home, as a Winchester pastor not so very long ago again emphasized, is no longer a place in which people stay, but rather one, from which they seek to escape. People are more and more seeking distraction outside of it. If they find it necessary to spend an evening at home, they are disappointed if some one does not come in. Many homes even here in Winchester, it is true, are not inviting, but there are few in which the home spirit and sense of family life cannot be developed. The lack of these is a great element of weakness in American life. Whether the multiplied opportunities for amusement cause our restlessness, or only minister to it, it would be hard to say. Perhaps they do both. Certain it is that the excessive use of those opportunities increases the restlessness and weakens the hold of the home. The attack on the unity of the family is direct, and formidable. Often each member seems to have his own interests, occupations and pleasures, there being as many of these as there are members of the family. Yet, the family is supposed to be the true social unit. If that is so, it cannot perform its functions which unite it. Surely it is not impossible to revive to some extent the old corporate life of which we read, and which, we are told, once existed. The experiment is worth trying. Success would mean much to the home

Chandler of Winchester be appointed as conservator of the property of Mrs. Ellen L. Phelps of Cambridge. No valuation of her property was filed.

TELEPHONE NOTES

When you make a telephone call nowadays, the buzzing tone you hear is proof that the line is being rung. You do not hear the actual ringing of the bell, which may be miles away from your own telephone, but you get an indication sound which is created by an ingenious device already installed in several central offices in Greater Boston, and soon to be placed in every office in the division.

If you call a telephone number with the letter designation "W" and "M," you will hear but one buzzing tone. If you call subscribers having the letter designations of "R" and "L," you will hear two buzzing tones. If you call subscribers having the letter designations "X" and "Y," which are only used outside of the Metropolitan division, you will hear three of these buzzing tones.

If the person you call does not answer promptly, the buzzing tone is repeated as subsequent rings are made. This assures the person calling that his call is receiving attention.

While the change in equipment to give the buzzing tone cannot be made simultaneously in all telephone offices, all telephone users will be interested to know the meaning of the tone when they hear it.

This new ringing device has already been placed in Belmont, Fort Hill, Lexington, Malden, Melrose, Milton, Richmond, Winthrop and Wellesley.

MRS. MARY J. SCOTT

Mrs. Mary Jane Scott, widow of John W. Scott, died at her home, No. 32 Harvard street, Thursday night of Bright's disease. She was 52 years of age and was a native of Digby, N. S., her parents being John and Sarah Jane (Mitchell) Bell. She leaves four daughters and one sister.

The funeral services were held at the New Hope Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. W. S. Smith officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Jones of St. John's Baptist Church of Woburn. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

BAPTIST NEWS

It has been found necessary to abandon the plans announced on Sunday for participation in the parade on the Fourth. This has been due to the difficulty in securing a truck for the float and to the absence of many from town and to the participation of several in other units of the parade.

The union services during the next three weeks will be held in the Congregational Church.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The Edward T. Harrington Co. have sold for Blanche T. Menck her estate No. 23 Yale street, comprising a dwelling of 11 rooms and 2 baths, a garage and over 11,000 feet of land, to Mr. A. O. Wilson of Watertown who will occupy at once.

The Edward T. Harrington Co. have also sold for Evelyn M. Nelson her property No. 45 Yale street, comprising a modern dwelling and 17,000 feet of land to Mr. Orrin J. Hutton of Manchester, N. H., who will make this his home.

Music and Appetite.

Many great musical composers had exceptionally large appetites. When Handel dined alone at a restaurant he ordered a meal for three. Haydn, yet more voracious, delighted in dining alone, and was known to consume a meal that would have satisfied five ordinary appetites.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. For years it was thought to be a local disease, and that it could be cured by local treatment. It is a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls' Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts on the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. SIDE LIGHTS ON THE PARADE by four ambulances, driven by young ladies.

John O'Connor as usual was in the line with his P. O. force, including three men from the service, Charlie Flaherty, John Collins and Frank Boyle.

The fifteen nurses from the Winchester Hospital looked natty in their blue uniforms, each with a bouquet of wild flowers in their hand.

W. H. S. with different nations represented the caption "Americans All." And we can't make Americans out of them any more quickly.

The Girl Scouts under Mrs. Eastwick with Joe Laraway, Mr. Maurice Brown and Mr. Mason driving them in autos.

Winchester Boy Scouts, followed by a float depicting a camp scene "Summ' Jim McRaven was driving and he was in his element.

They raised $207.55 dollars for Liberty Loans.

Parker & Lane trucks with banners telling what Winchester did for the war in a financial way. 6 million dollars. About 1.3 of our valuation was raised.

The Fortnightly with its float of pretty farinettes. Their motto: "The Fortnightly Hood As Row."

Then came the colored citizens with their band, almost 200 men, women and children turned out for their part and was quite a looking.

The Methodist Church had a pretty float representing the Allied Nations.

Then came the Sigma Beta float with Miss Fiske in charge. The float was decorated in their colors.

Then came a float under the Odd Fellows. Fred Dotten told me it represented King Solomon and the Royal Guards with a shepard boy, and a great big lion about the Bible as I do I'll take his word for it.

It was a fine day for Walter Fancie to wear that skin he was carrying.

The En Ka had the most novel float of all. A service flag with a young lady head through each star.

The flag said Winchester had 602 men in the service, and we are all proud of it.

Now comes the Suffragettes with W. H. S. Wilson as their leader. They all the women have done in the great contest. No man who is worth anything to do the privilege of a vote. Stand up and be counted.

Here are the Hello girls. They are all friends of mine except when I want to get a busy call through and what I say then about them is not fit for publication. But don't worry girls, you are all right.

Then came the W. C. T. U. and we are all strong for them since July 1st. I have had a hard time but have won out as they deserved to win.

The Grange had quite a float with Jack Golden's "chess" in the back. More sympathy was wasted on him than on some of "kids" in line.

The big section of the parade is coming along now with Father Merritt as its head. If we had a few more like Father Merritt in town the parade would have been twice as big. He insisted on the boys carrying their share to make the day a success, and he led his section of the parade from start to finish. I'll take my hat off to Father Merritt.

The different Catholic societies followed under Frances J. O'Hara, with J. J. Fitzgerald, Patrick Noonan and Charles T. Daly of Melrose, head of the Catholic Federation, also.

They were led by A. O. H. and John E. Desmond Council, L. N. F., were next in line.

Then came Miss Mary Lyons with one of the best sections of the town. All the girls and boys of St. Mary's Parish, the girls with red caps and white dresses and the boys carrying War Savings banners. No one on Miss Lyons her job and every one had a good word for her.

The Libermans had a float representing Erin waiting at the peace conference with Tim Murphy as Uncle Sam. "Erin's day is coming." We did not go into this war to make the world safe for England to do as she pleases, and the day will come when she will find that out. No matter how we may disagree on it, the race held up their end and we'll see she gets Irish.

The Santa Maria Court, Daughters of Isabella, had one of the prettiest floats in the parade, decorated in their own colors of purple and white. The officers and mothers of the boys in the service rode on the float. They were the best looking crowd of women seen in the line. I hope the rest of the ladies will not take offense I had to say this as my wife was on it.

Next came the M. C. O. F. float with Dan McKell in charge.

And now comes the most patriotic part of the parade the Italians. They always make a good showing and their band was the best in line.

The final division had Bert Symmes as marshal with Herbert

Wadsworth, Ben Matthews and Tom Barrett as aids.

The line was led by the old hand led drawn by 14 men in red shirts. John Tansey as foreman and Gene Sullivan, assistant. The wonder of all was Gene and his ability to stand the heat.

Now here comes old "Mary Ann" with Lee Roberts driving and Billy Thorburn, engineer. Keep your eye on the progress from 1841 to 1879.

Next is old Hose 3 with Jack Richardson driving. Jack took a day off to polish up the piece of apparatus and it looked it.

This wagon was followed by the call from under West. Chief Gorman and everyone seemed happy except Jack Donahue. What was the matter Jack? Prohibition.

Next fellows, Dave DeCourcy and the permanent men.

The pump, driven by Robert Scammon, the combination by Owen Flaherty, Joe Laraway's motorized hose 2 by Sandy McKenzie and the Hook and Ladder by Frank Duffy. Nothing looks better in a parade than a well-kept fire department and we surely have got one here.

Finally the Board of Trade with its float containing 29 young ladies from the different business places in town, followed by the following companies:

Bain-Hall and Co. had one truck and one wagon, but they had loaned the rest for floats and appeared in other sections of the parade.

Hutchinson had a big one driven by a member of the Famous Black Watch Regiment in his uniform.

C. P. Fitzgerald thought enough of the fathers to give a couple of them a ride. Tom McKee and Tom Bahner rode with him.

Peterson and Lane had five wagons, but the rest of their trucks were loaned for the Liberty Loan section.

C. M. Perkins' Milk furnished the one with one team, Perkins driving. He was one of the first American prisoners taken by the Germans.

And now next week some one will say I skipped somebody or some one, so you wonder after all this is written?

PARADE NOTES

Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt of St. Mary's Church led a section in the parade and marched over the whole route.

The big "Welcome Home" flag at the town hall, as well as all of the big flags used inside the hall, were loaned by Mr. John D. Twombly, who also furnished the palms decorating the stage. Mrs. Irving L. Symmes was in charge of decorating the hall and the work of placing the flags was done by Mr. Charles T. Lawson.

Chairman Fitzgerald sent a few bouquets to Mr. William E. Priest at his home in Riverside, asking that he turn them off to start the parade.

Mr. Priest did so, as reported in town can testify but it is reported that he was a little surprised himself in doing so as he had rather underestimated their size and power.

DELT ARRESTED AT FIREWORKS

Officer Kelley took into custody Thomas J. Kane of Woburn at Manchester Field during the fireworks on the night of the 11th. It appears that another Woburn man, Adon Murphy, had his gold watch stolen a week or so previous while swimming at Horn Pond. He suspected Kane.

On the night of the 4th, seeing Kane standing near him with his fob hanging from his pocket, Murphy grabbed it and pulled his watch out on the end of it. He shouted for the police and officer Kelley made the arrest, turning Kane over to the Woburn police.

2 WEEKLIES RAISE PRICE TO SIX CENTS

Beginning with Friday's issue of the Lexington Minute Man and the Arlington Advocate, weekly newspapers of those towns, the price of each paper is increased one cent, from 5 cents to 6 cents, and the subscription price is raised to $2.50 from $2. Increased postal rates, taking effect on July 1, no reduction in cost of paper and other items of expense are given as reasons for this advance.

THE FOURTH

(By Our Special Correspondent)

It certainly was a glorious Fourth. The whole day was filled with noise, excitement, enthusiasm, and interest.

It was probably the last fourth of July celebration that Winchester has ever had and the different committees in charge should be complimented on their earnest efforts to make the day a success.

The combination of "Welcome Home" and Independence Day celebration worked very well indeed.

The day was celebrated in very early by the ringing of bells and the firing of "bombs" by some Italian residents.

Band concerts, two ball games, a military and civil parade, fireworks and a canoe parade, all came in the list of events for the day.

In the morning on Manchester field a ball game was played by the men of the Navy and the men of the Army, the soldiers winning by the score of 5 to 2.

center of the remaining six protruded the heads of six pretty girls.

The float containing the three Dinneen children representing Peace, Love and Happiness, drew a great deal of applause.

The phone girls were on hand with their float, as usual.

The women of the W. C. T. U. seemed happy over their recent victory. Their float represented "World Prohibition" and consisted of the World mounted on a stand of white and surmounted by ten women also in white.

The Grange float represented farm life and was a real pretty one.

The Equal Suffrage League float signified the "Allied Appeal to Liberty." The part of Justice and Democracy were well taken.

The St. Mary's school children looked real cute in their red caps and white dresses.

The A. O. H. had a rather interesting float. It consisted of "Erin" waiting at the peace conference of the Allies. The float bore the sentiment "We Fought for Democracy: Erin is Waiting" and was decorated in the colors of the Irish Republic, green, white and yellow.

The float of the Daughters of Isabella was perhaps the prettiest of the entire procession. It was decorated in the colors of the order—purple and gold. On it was seated 25 women who were mothers of service men. It also carried three children who represented sons and brothers of members who died in the service.

The Italians were led by one of their number dressed as a Roman of olden times mounted on a horse. In all the Italians numbered about 200 people. Among them was a little girl attired in a red, white and green costume. She was a little flower girl and was the center of much admiration.

The "old guards" of the fire department were on hand with the town's first hand pump of 1851. All had on red shirts and a smile.

The "Mary Ann" made another appearance before the public.

The Board of Trade had a very attractive float. Many girls dressed in white were grouped together in the center of a large truck which bore their motto, "Stand Together."

The merchants, business concerns and factories had a large number of well decorated floats.

The parade started at 4:30 sharp and the last float finished a little before 7:00.

It took a little less than an hour for the procession to pass one point.

Fireworks and Band Concerts.

In the evening a double band concert was heard previous to the display of fireworks. The Gen. Diaz Brass Band occupied a stand erected for the occasion and the Waltham Watch Band occupied the regular stand.

These two alternated and kept the large crowd interested from 7:30 to 9:00 when the first rockets were sent up.

The crowd on the field and the number of automobiles on the parkway were perhaps the largest in the history of the town.

The town clock had just struck nine when the first rocket was sent up. There were a great number of set pieces and rockets galore. The crowd seemed to like the bombs and the more noise and bright lights the better.

The set piece of the American flag was the prettiest of all and the final display of rockets was much to the people's liking.

TROOP ONE CAMP

Mr. F. E. Smith, scout master of Troop One of this town, has a camp for the members of his troop at his summer home at Rockport. This is the second year this camp has been run and it is as successful this year as it was last year.

The scouts who went last year were: Benjamin Priest, Edson Laraway, Richard Ridd, Edward Taylor, Harvey Mitchell, Harold Gray, Donald Lutes.

These boys will put all doubts from anyone's mind as to the fun to be had at this camp.

BAPTIST NEWS

Pastor and Mrs. Hodge will be at Revell Hall, East Northfield, Mass., July 9-17.

The Flower Mission basket will be at the Winchester Station on Thursday morning until the 9:06 train for Boston. Flowers for the sick will be gratefully received and wisely distributed in Boston.

A new automobile battery service station has been opened at Mt. Vernon street next to the fire station. This is a Willard station, where new batteries may be purchased, batteries recharged and rented. Messrs. Henry Bowman and Napoleon Gould are the proprietors.

Among the coming events of the Class is a summer festival to be held on the church lawn early in August. Plans are well under way now and the various tables and booths will be under the direction of the young ladies of the class.

TRADER'S OUTING

Plans, Maturing for Best Event Ever

Plans are rapidly maturing for the outing of the Winchester Board of Trade which gives promise that this year's event will be the best and largest the town has ever held. Not only has the ground been covered by the appointment of numerous and able committees in handling the various details, but the large membership of the organization appears to be solidly back of the outing and from indications the attendance will be the largest yet.

As announced last week after the meeting of the general committee in August, this year's outing will be held at Nantasket, a place not visited by the traders for a number of years.
This selection seems to have met universal approval, and the transactional committee, composed of Messrs
J. M. Albert Hersey and Everett A.
Smith, announce that special tickets have been secured from the Nantasket
Steamship Company making the fare on the round trip but 50 cents.

These tickets are expected here this week and will immediately be placed on sale at several convenient places.

As usual, the outing will be held on his first Wednesday in August, which means this year on the 6th of the month.

It is planned that the party, so far as possible, go to Nantasket on the earliest leaving Boston at 9.15 a. m., although the tickets are good for use on any boat, and those unable to go with the crowd may join the party at any time convenient. The trip to Coxe's Wharf may be made on any train desired.

The sports committee, which includes Messrs. Edward A. Wulfoff,
H. S. Sewall E. Newman, J. C. Sullivan and John Piccolo has planned something new in the entertainment line and promises to furnish plenty of fun and amusement. There will probably be the usual ball game between the married and single men, of the clerks and employees, and in addition chairmen have material in a supply of indoor games as well as played. The outing promises

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 36 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Home Economics

If any one in Winchester would like to see the best little garden in the U. S. A. just take a trip up to Mrs. Alonzo Woodside's on Lebanon street. Mrs. Woodside is conducting the garden in cooperation with the Middlesex County Bureau. It is a small demonstration home garden 25 feet square and shows what can be done on a small area and on a soil that by no means could be spelled with a capital "S."

Watch the bulletin board which is located at the garden for weekly hints on spraying and timely gardening practices.

A garden is like a farm in that there is always work of some kind to be done on it. If it isn't weeding or cultivating there is always some crop or other that needs attention. About this time of the season there are several "tricks of the trade" so to speak, that can be put to use in many gardens.

When picking New Zealand spinach nip off the shoots at the end of the stems also all side shoots that have become large enough. By practicing this method of harvesting, other young shoots are allowed to grow and a constant supply of the greens may be picked later. Thin out the plants to a foot apart in the row.

Swiss chard should be thinned to six inches between the plants. Break off the outside stems when harvesting. Other shoots will grow from the center of the plant to take the place of those that have been picked. If you are training your tomatoes to a stake see to it that the suckers are kept thinned out. You will have to go over the vines at least once a week. Do not allow more than two stems to bear fruit.

As cos lettuce and endive reach maturity, tie the outside leaves together overhead. This practice will bleach out the inner leaves and make them tender.

The writer has observed throughout the county many gardeners who still persist in the injurious practice of hilling their potatoes very high, almost to a pickle drizzle. The rain can run off of such hills in fine shape and the sun has ample time to dry them out. A low wide oval-shaped hill is better. But best of all plant your potatoes quite deep and practice level cultivation. Then the rain will do the most good and the sun will do the least harm to your potato crop.

As your squash vines begin to run, cover one or two joints of each runner with earth so that they will take root. Then if the squash vine borer gets into the plant and destroys some of it, you still have several root systems from which the vine can obtain its plant food. Squash vines infested with the vine borer seldom die when this practice is followed.

Now that the hot dry weather is with us there are certain garden practices that should be followed if one is to obtain the maximum production from his garden.

A thorough cultivation of the whole garden at least once a week—better twice a week if you have time—is perhaps the best solution of the problem. One need not cultivate deeply, but just enough to keep an inch or two of the surface soil loosened up. Such a practice conserves the soil moisture to a marked degree and is the best method known to prevent weed growth.

Don't think you have got to water your garden every night in order to produce results. Keeping the surface soil loosened up in good shape does more good than a ten minute sprinkling with the hose. If your garden needs water, soak it thoroughly until the soil becomes muddy, then stir up a good mulch as soon as it dries out enough.

The most destructive pests we have to look out for at this period are the potato bugs, squash bugs, and cucumber beetles. Spray the potatoes every two weeks with a Bordeaux-Lead spray. Remember to use the manufactured fungicides and insecticides three times as strong as the manufacturer recommends.

Spray the cucumber and squash vines every week or ten days. The Bordeaux-Lead spray is about as good a spray for these pests as you can get. If squash bugs are very troublesome get rid of them by trapping. Place a piece of shingle on the ground near the root. The squash bugs will hide beneath it at night and can be collected in the morning. Moth balls are also a good repellent for squash bugs. Place one or two in each hill.

It isn't too late yet to put in another planting of shell or string beans, lettuce, Kohl-Rabi, turnip, cauliflower or late cabbage plants.

Watch out for plant lice now. It is during the hot weather that they increase so rapidly. It is a good plan to inspect your potato and tomato vines every day if possible. And then when you find them don't wait until they cover the vines.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

In old towns there lingers memories of physicians of quick intelligence but unsteady habits. How some of these men could on short notice return to sobriety, and treat the cases placed before them rank among the traditions of former generations. Dickens says that Bob Sawyer was called by a patient, and that "partially understanding the message after some twenty repetitions" he tied a wet towel about his head, and went forth on his mission. This is not exaggerated, and it may be that once out in the cool night air Bob's faculties began to rouse themselves. If we talk to old villagers we may hear remarkable stories.

There was in a town within thirty miles of Winchester, a physician, who for half a century, held a practice. He was a man of reading and reflection. Gossips may have exaggerated the number of his carousals, but it was beyond doubt that there were times when his judgment was clouded. In a house, he frequently visited The Spectator heard this:

A child was seriously ill, and Dr. — was called. When he arrived his face showed that he was not sober. However, the family knew his ability, and was prepared to take chances.

likewise truthful—remarkably so.

One afternoon Mrs.—had shown the caller several trophies from lands far and near, and had made several instructive remarks on long-gone processes of industry. He little maiden would gladly leave the playground to resume a spinning wheel, and would rejoice in a warming pan. She respectfully listened to all that Mrs.—said, and as she prepared to depart, observed: "When I'm tired I like to visit old people, it's always so interesting; they have such queer things to show you—things so different from what you see nowadays. It does me good to come here."

A thirst for knowledge is commendable but this was said with a coolness surprising for one so young. The tons was that of a man who has found the models of Fulton's steamboats or who has lighted on first editions of the classics. Mrs.—was a trifle awed by the maturity of the caller; yet ventured to inquire:

"Is that the only reason you call on old folks?"

"Yes, ma'am," and this was said with a candor worthy of the infant George Washington as he carried to his sire the havoc caused by his hatchet.

"Don't you ever call on old folks because you like to see them, or because you like them?"

"No, ma'am."

George Eliot has spoken of the "frank ingratitude of childhood." Alas, mature years do not always cure ingratitude but there is often some pretense, a little camouflage, one may assume the virtue though he has it not. In this case the outspoken little maiden, whose thirst for knowledge was unmixt with sentiment, made no pretences.

Descendants of a certain ancestor who are settled well over New England, but who have several representatives in Winchester, like to narrate a bit of romance in which that ancestor figured. He was, in his young manhood, a blacksmith in a cross roads village a hundred miles from Winchester. Along the high road by his door farmers went to market in the distant town and farmers' families to shop. One day returning from town and overtaken by a thunder shower, a girl on horseback took refuge in the blacksmith shop, which she found empty. There, seated by the anvil, tired from her journey, she fell asleep.

It was a pretty sight the young blacksmith saw as he entered his shop—a golden-haired girl, in a figured dress lying asleep with her head and arm pillowed on the great anvil. In the black and sooty surroundings she looked strikingly fair. The spirit of mischief seized the young smith. Catching up his hammer, he struck another anvil a ringing blow. It was their introduction. She awoke and presently another spirit seized the blacksmith. He rode home with his fair visitor and learned the road over which he often traveled thereafter until one day she came home with him his bride.

Genealogy, that fad of collecting ancestors, is a genial and engrossing occupation for those who find time hanging heavily upon their hands. As an end in itself it is sometimes regarded with disapproval by those who would like to quote "never tell me what you were but what you are today. But Genealogy is seldom pursued with the object of social exaltation. Far from that Genealogy is a hobby generally of the person who, without realizing them, has historical or archeological tastes and a liking for research. Watch the conformed genealogist and you will see him tremble with delight at the sight of a book of town records or an old will. In themselves they are to him a rich treat. As a motive in summer traveling genealogy is superb. Trailing one's ancestors brings him now to distant cities, now to quiet picturesque little villages with neglected old graveyards. Librarians and old country recorders, both of whom are usually genealogists, and distant relatives strike up ready friendships on the theme of ancestry.

Occasionally the pursuit of one's ancestors is disappointing, for example, inquiring into the late Theodore Roosevelt's forebears reveals that he was descended from Robert Bruce of Scotland, was related to the royal Guelphs of England, and had stains of the old German royal in his blood. This is terribly disappointing to us who would like to think that America can produce a first class mortal on its own resources. But at other times the discoveries of the genealogists are truly joyous, as in the case of a certain Winchester man who got back three generations to find that his grandfather was hung, or another resident of Winchester, who has discovered that he is descended from relatives of "that traitor John Paul Jones." It is a source of unfeigned amusement in another Winchester family, whose strong white-ribbon mother is a genealogist, that the good lady found in her ancestry a great-grandfather who was arrested for selling whiskey to the Indians on Sunday.

PROBATE AND OTHER COURT NEWS

Horace E. Cummings has been sued for $1000 in an action of tort by Helen McDaniel of Cambridge, administratrix of the estate of Katherine McDaniel of Cambridge. It is alleged that on October 29, 1917, while deceased was walking on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, she was struck by the defendant's automobile and received injuries from which she died on June 29, 1918.

Mr. Cummings has also been sued for $1000 by Ralph B. McDaniel of Cambridge. He seeks to recover for the loss of his daughter's services and medical expenses.

Jacob Weinstein of Malden has been sued for $4000 in an action of tort by Muhammad Said of Lowell. He alleges that on June 21, 1918, while riding in an automobile near the corner of Church and Cambridge streets, Winchester, he was severely injured when the defendant's car collided with the one he was in.

Herbert D. Benner of Somerville has been sued for $5000 in an action of tort by Mrs. Leda Polucci of Winchester. She alleges that on June 1, while riding in an automobile on the Middlesex Fells Parkway she was severely injured when the defendant's car collided with the one she was in. Benner has also been sued for $2000 in an action of tort by her husband, Cornon Polucci of Winchester, who seeks to recover for the loss of his wife's services and medical expenses.

William F. Hargrove of Winchester has been sued for $10,000 in an action of tort by Charles G. Clark of Woburn. He alleges that on May 9, his wife Mrs. Mary A. Clark was killed by an automobile owned by the defendant.

The will of Marshall C. Boive has been filed. It is dated March 24 and names his wife, Mrs. Olive F. Boive, as executrix. No valuation of the estate was filed.

Elwood R. Butterworth has been appointed guardian of Robert R. Butterworth aged 18 and Clara P. Butterworth aged 8 of Winchester by the Probate Court. He has given a bond of $5000. Their property is valued at $3000, all personal.

GREENS FOR GUMPTION

"That tired feeling?" Now is the time for health insurance at bargain prices. The price of spinach and beet greens is at the present time as low as it is likely to go, much lower than the grocers care to see it. In many places spinach is being ploughed under because it is not considered a paying proposition to market it.

Are the Middlesex County housewives aware of the loss that this means to them? Is not the health of the family the best investment to be made? Why feed to the soil or to the stock something that means so much to the well-being of the household? A lack of greens next winter will mean a lack of mineral matter in the diet, resulting in "that tired feeling" when spring comes again. It is very costly to try and cure that feeling with drugs. It is thrifty common sense to prevent it by means of proper food.

One peck of greens will fill two pint jars. If every household in the county should buy one bushel and can for next winter, it would save for human consumption something that no one can cut out of the diet without suffering for it. Green food will do the war against unbalanced meals. Every housewife who starts as a fashion of canning greens this week, is doing a service to her household and her town.

Uncle Sam's directions for canning greens are as follows: Can greens the day they are picked. Wash clean, cut thoroughly, allowing no foreign matter to remain. Rid the greens of all sand, dirt, dry, and decayed or diseased leaves. Place the greens in a crock or cheese-cloth and blanch in live steam either in an improvised home-made steamer or regular commercial steamer 15 minutes. Remove the greens and plunge quickly into cold water. Place on table and cut into convenient lengths. Pack tight in hot jars in tin cans. Add hot water to fill the container and season to taste. The product will be slightly improved if a few strips of boiled bacon or chipped beef are added. A little olive oil improves the flavor. Place rubbers and tops in positions on jar; partially seal. Sterilize in water bath for 120 minutes.

Remove from canner; tighten cover of jars; invert to cool, and test T-joints. Wrap in paper to prevent leaching, and store.

He is a rule for making spinach loaf which is as good now as during the war. Any other greens may be substituted. You can make a small can of spinach, chard, or beet tops serve seven or eight people by making into a loaf combined with rice or bread crumbs. Asparagus or string beans are also good served this way.

- 1 can chopped spinach
- 4 cups boiled rice
- 2 cups white sauce
- 1 red pepper

Make a thick white sauce of two cups of skim milk, four tablespoons flour, four tablespoons oleomargarine and one teaspoon salt. Melt fat and mix with flour, add to milk and stir over fire until it thickens. Mix with the rice, chopped spinach and pepper. Form into a loaf and bake 20 or 30 minutes.

Miss Dorothy Hewett was maid of honor at the wedding of her Smith College chum, Caroline Victoria Stearns. The ceremony took place on the lawn at Meadow View, at South Acton, Saturday.

NINETY NINE HUNDRED ESS PEE EM!

When a Liberty Motor is giving its utmost to push forward a Liberty Plane, the result to the ear at least, is a noise which would hardly be welcome in the reading room of a public library, or under your window when you want to sleep.

Such is the voice of gasoline raised in protest against being introduced to the little spark of electricity which jumps across the spark plugs 165 times every second; but the protest is in vain for the "juice" keeps coming—165 times each second, 9900 sparks per minute, 594,000 times in an hour, coming from a little innocent looking box full of lead and acid and water and rubber, stowed away in the fuselage, out of sight but never out of the mind of the man whose life depends upon it.

The storage battery is the soul of the Liberty Motor. As gasoline is its food, steel and aluminum its clothing, so is electricity its spark of life. Without that spark it is an inert mass; with it the Liberty Motor is a source of magnificent power.

The Willard Storage Battery Company in Cleveland has long been making storage batteries for starting, lighting and ignition on automobiles. When Uncle Sam decided he would "take no more nonsense" from the Kaiser, the Willard Organization was asked to design a storage battery for ignition in an aircraft motor.

The first difficulties faced were the necessary limitations on size and weight. As Uncle Sam's specifications called for a battery of a certain capacity weighing not more than ten pounds. Any motorist who has tried to lift his storage battery knows what it weighs. Lead—the very name sounds heavy—makes up most of the storage battery, and ten pounds of lead is not very much. The Willard engineers set to work and designed a battery of the proper capacity, weighing but ten pounds and two ounces, which was satisfactory to the Government designers.

But size and weight were not the only obstacles. An automobile properly driven stays on its wheels and there is no danger of the acid contents of the battery spilling out. But a Liberty Plane must operate just as well "head over heels" as any other way, and the Willard engineers found that they must design a battery which while open at the top, did not spill its contents when inverted. This sounds rather difficult—and it was,—but it was done just the same. Within ten days from the receipt of the Government's specifications, the Willard Engineers had designed and perfected a battery which met the Government's needs as to capacity, size, weight,—and this battery operated upside down. This battery was adopted and never since has it been changed in any detail.

Such is the inside story of the ignition on the Liberty Airplane Motor. Storage batteries have for years been recognized as the most efficient and most reliable means of providing ignition for gasoline motors, but other and less satisfactory forms of ignition had to be used until American inventive genius was brought to bear on modern war problems.

The inventions of war are being rapidly turned to peace use. We are hanking our swords into plowshares, and the same little Willard battery which gave life to the Liberty Aircraft Motor over the Argonne is now furnishing the 9,000 sparks per minute which help to carry Uncle Sam's mail along the Air Lines.

OUIMET WINS TITLE

Wins State Amateur Championship at Country Club

The Massachusetts amateur golf championship closed at the Winchester Country Club on Saturday afternoon, when Francis Ouimet defeated Jesse Guilford 8 and 6.

The tournament was one of the most successful held in recent years, and brought a brilliant array of golfers to the local club. Opening on Wednesday with the qualifying round, the tournament continued until Ouimet proved his superiority over his club mate Saturday.

One of the largest galleries that ever followed a match turned out for the finals on Saturday morning and afternoon, the crowd being estimated at close to 1000 enthusiasts.

The Winchester club's green committee has received much favorable comment on the way the big crowd was handled, for notwithstanding its size, there was not a single act to mar the play. Not only this, but the greens themselves were in a condition to excite much admiration from visitors. The green committee includes Messrs. Harry A. Norton, R. C. Smith and Thomas F. Tulley.

Ouimet closed the morning match 5 up, winning nine and halving five of the 18 holes. In the third round he defeated Fred J. Wright, Jr. 3 and 2, and in the fourth P. W. Whittemore 2 and 1.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

By "Mack"

Before another good Saturday crowd, we met and defeated the Hood Rubber Co. 4 to 2, on Manchester Field. The game was a good one from first to last, with Winchester playing the more consistent ball. The only earned run the visitors made was the home run by Oates in the sixth. The run in the third was a gift due to an overthrow by Kamp on a hurried play. The Hood Rubber Co. had the great Boston College High twinner breaking their backs reaching for curves. Donnellan seemed to be the only one on the team to graze his delivery, getting three nice singles. Waters as usual was in good form and was never really in danger. He had good backing and the error of Kamp's was the only misplay.

This team is anxious for a return game but I will await the result of their game at Woburn next Saturday July 19th, before deciding about bringing them here.

Notes
6 won, 4 lost for a percentage of .900. Here's hoping we keep it up.
The day was ideal for baseball and a fine crowd enjoyed the game.
The Hood team had quite a following, but did not have much chance to root for their team.
There were also 20 or 25 from Woburn who seemed to enjoy the game and they told me that Winchester looked good to them.
I had Sanford on third base and I hope he will stay with me for the season. He can fill in as short, second and third, being a handy man to have around. He has been playing a whale of game for the Arsenal team.
Waters and Flaherty seem to go better every game, and with good backing and a little hitting we should win consistently.
Kamp at first is a wonderful fielder with a great reach and his record shows him as a 3.00 hitter although his former team mate, Cassell had his number Saturday.
Where can you find a better second baseman than Gilligan and watch him at the bat. Always full of confidence. Hevey is playing a good game at short, but not hitting up to standard of other years. This also goes for 'Mack' in the outfield. He is playing a good fielder game however.
Donnellan is the best hitter on the team and a good outfielder. While 'Nig' is doing the best he can hit playing under a handicap as he injured himself in one of the games.
Stevenson was caught for the Rubber Co. is the former Arsenal backstop and a live wire.
Cassell is the all interscholastic pitcher. Fred Sawyer of Newton being the other one, pictured by all the Boston papers as the best of the year; but I have seen both of them work and fail to see where they have anything on Waters.
They had a great first baseman in Oates; you folks have seen him here before with Newton Upper Falls.
Sheridan on third is another Newton Upper Falls player. The rest are college boys.
They also had Dewey Metriver with them and he was warming up the greater part of the afternoon.
There was only one argument during the game, and there was no reason for that as Cassell made a deliberate balk. They admitted Woodcock was right after the game.
And don't forget you are watching a mighty good umpire every Saturday afternoon. He handles the game in good shape; knows the rules and signals very little talk from either side.
Well we had not much trouble getting away with a win from the Rubber Co. Woburn won from them on a missed proper fly.
Woburn was beaten Saturday 3 to 1 by the Bertelsen and Peterson line of East Boston. I expect to play this team July 26th, but not certain about it at this writing. They are a fast team of good players.
Jimmy Fitzpatrick the former St. John C. C. pitcher is in the box for them. The reports say they are a great hitting team.

The Boston Globe Monday considers our team in the front rank of semi-pro clubs in Greater Boston. I am getting letters every day from teams asking us to go away for a game, offering good inducements, but while the crowds are attending the games here and backing up the team as they have been lately, I have no desire to leave Winchester as we can get plenty of teams to come here.

The Minute Boys have thrown up the sponge and quit for the season. Small crowds and poor judgment in picking teams to play them is responsible for the closing of the season.

Arlington with a good club in the K. of C. has been obliged to go away for games owing to poor support over there. The only thing Arlington ever supported is the poor farm.

I had a couple of games booked with this team but I don't think I care to play them. I do not see why we should bring a crowd to Arlington and get nothing in return for it.

I suppose we will have a series with Woburn before the snow flies but if they don't work any faster than what they have been doing it looks as though Tharnging would be about the starting time. I'm through with that team. It's up to Harkins now, to get busy with Winchester. And watch them hire Red Sox and every other player they can get to beat us.

Steve Toland and Farrell have a team started up there called the Woburn City team. They have challenged the All Woburn team for a game. Also Winchester, I would give them a game but am booked up to Aug. 9th. The lineup looks good and some of the players on it are equal if not better than the regular Woburn team.

There is one thing about the crowds in Winchester and that is—it represents all classes, from the working man to Winchester's most prosperous citizens, and they are all strong for the home team. Better join the throng and see what we furnish in the way of baseball for 25 cents.

Melford B. B. club won its first game Saturday beating the South Melford A. A. 5 to 2. Gillis caught and Jim Prior to played first base here a few games did not pitching. Bethlehem Steel Co. beat the Navy Yard 6 to 1. I am trying to bring both of these teams here for a game.

Edison Electric Light Co. won a 12 inning game from the Employer's Liability to 3 to 2. Bill Kenney who formerly played here is putting up a great game for them.

Lawley won 10 straight by beating the Columbus Club of Dorchester 3 to 2. The Lawley nine is another one I am after. The better they are is what we want.

Watertown beat Packard Auto Co. 5 to 2. The Watertown team is all shot to pieces. It is entirely different than when we met it early in the season.

Marblehead A. A. has been obliged to play its games away from home, due to a mixup with the Park board. They tried to let two teams have the same field every Saturday, which can't be done and get results. The Marblehead people won't stand for it very long according to reports. For the town team is a joke from what we hear from them. The A. A. had one of the best semi-pro teams in Massachusetts for 3 years and were well supported.

The Cornets beat the United Shoe Co. 5 to 2 and they say the United Shoe Co. is some ball team, while the Cornets were dead likely to beat Winchester.

The N. E. League has blown up. I received a letter from the Manager of the Lawrence N. E. League team saying, they were going to keep their team intact and play Saturday games only. They wanted Winchester to go there for a game some Saturday in the near future. They must think we have a team.

Met George Willey the day of the game and he was undecided about going to see Ouimet or the ball game, but finally picked the golf match. He was fair however, saying that if I needed him to help out I had only to phone Bowler at the Country Club and he would be right down.

Another one whom you cannot fail to see at the games every Saturday is the Judge. And what a roter he is. That helps the game and more of it should be done by the crowd.

POST OFFICE APPOINTMENTS

Postmaster John F. O'Connor has announced this week the following appointments in the Winchester Post Office:

Jeremiah F. Maloney as Assistant Postmaster.

Charles J. Harrold and Dennis J. Collins, clerks.

Mr. Maloney takes the position left vacant through the death of former Assistant Postmaster Dennis F. Foley. Mr. Harrold has been connected with the office for many years as a carrier. He will now take up inside work.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Not guilty is an innocent remark.

Success is the one crime that some folks refuse to forgive in their friends.

Most men would rather get the short-end of an argument than keep quiet.

What you spend you have, what you save you lose.

Breath is the most useful thing in the long run.

Winchester is progressing. Have you seen the new P. O. motor?

The first step by suburban newspapers in this vicinity to meet the greatly increased costs of production was taken the first of the month by two weekly papers—those in the towns of Arlington and Lexington. These papers have advanced their price from five to six cents per copy and from $2.00 to $2.50 per year. The thought that print paper would drop after the war carried many a country paper to its grave, it being estimated that the largest number of such papers have come out of business during the past six months than ever before during a like period. Print paper, however, now appears to be but a small item to many papers in figuring costs. Labor has added to the cost in a manner never looked for, while the hundreds of incidentals which are needed in today's newspaper plant have reached figures which cause the manager to gasp. Under present conditions it appears to be but a short time when every suburban newspaper reader will be paying a half dollar more a year for his paper. Even this, however, is not so bad, for it signifies only a 25 per cent. raise, and when other costs are viewed, ranging in increase from 100 to 300 per cent., reading may still be cheap at that.

The water has been turned on at the old, broken-down drinking fountain on Manchester Field. We know it. Impelled by curiosity—or now that it is July, may we be believed if we say "curiosity and thirst"—we tried this hydrant during the week. When we unsuspectingly pressed the button we were hit in the face by a stream as ordinarily comes from the nozzle of a hose; our hat went in to the air as we gasped for breath, and from our shoulders we were totally ruined for any further appearance socially—even the bill requiring redressing. After we swam out it did seem amusing. But how about the little girls and infants? To hit a child in the face with a half-inch stream of water capable of playing into the air six or seven feet would seem to us like carrying the joke a little too far, especially if it be a child in arms. Of course the men folks who have the apparatus in charge do not mind it; and they can't escape if they ever try to drink there, for the touch which will regulate that flow of water and tame it sufficiently to drink from must be lighter than any breath of air ever wafted over that fountain to date. Now why not label this high pressure outlet with a proper sign and give everyone a fair warning of what may happen—although we doubt if any warning would be absolutely fair. At any rate, why not mark it "drink at your own risk" or "not safe for children," or "The town does not launder wet clothes," or some other suitable phrase which will give our residents a fair show. Our two drinking fountains certainly play to hard luck. Perhaps we have so few it is not possible to experiment enough. At any rate, we hope the Committee will mark the one on Manchester Field, for there is no reason at all, so far as we can see, why a placard could not be hung from the one "horn" left of the broken bowl which sticks out like a piece of porcelain pie to remind one that there was once a bowl, and give everyone a fair show in choosing whether he would rather let it alone or take a ducking—for he certainly will never get a drink under present conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, Jr., and family leave this week for a motor trip to Calais, Me.

D. OF I. ANNIVERSARY

Sunday and Monday, July 13th and 14th marked the celebration of the 8th anniversary of the Santa Maria Court, No. 10, daughters of Isabella. On Sunday morning the Court members received Communion in a lady at the 7 o'clock mass in St. Mary's church. On Monday evening the Court and its invited guests sat down to one of the finest banquets ever served in this town. The caterer and menu were the same as those enjoyed by the boys on July 3rd. The tables fairly groaned under the weight of so many good things to eat and the happy celebrators did each course full justice.

However, the after-dinner speaking and entertainment were the best part of the evening's enjoyment. The entertainment consisted of songs by Miss Mabel M. Cote and fancy dancing by Miss Helen McNally, two of the Court's most talented members.

Mrs. Anne E. Poland, Toast-Mistress, welcomed the members and guests in a few well-chosen words and Rev. N. J. Merritt, the Court Chaplain, offered grace.

The first after-dinner speaker was Miss Agnes Murphy who read the minutes of the first meeting held by the Court, on July 14th, 1911. Miss Murphy gave, also, a short history of the charitable and economic work which the Court has accomplished in the past 8 years.

Mr. Merritt then commended the members for their splendid work and for the fine spiritual influence which they have exercised in the parish.

Miss Margaret Cullen who has recently received her honorable discharge from the U. S. Army, gave a most interesting account of her experiences while in the service. Starting at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., she carried her baggage over-sea to England, thence to France, to the hospitals at Pongue-leguay, Mesnes, London and Chancery, recounting many incidents which held her delighted auditors spell-bound. The only criticism of her talk by the many present was its brevity—it wasn't half lengthy enough, though it consumed twenty minutes.

Following Miss Cullen's talk, there were remarks by the four Past Grand Regents present, Mrs. Cecilia Kennedy, Mrs. Josephine Kane, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald and Mrs. Frances Conlon.

Mrs. Poland then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Evelyn Howe Scanlon, whose subject, "Organization among Catholic Women" was a most interesting and instructive one, and splendidly handled. Mrs. Scanlon is one of the most able speakers that the Court members have had the pleasure of hearing and she gave each one present something to think about along the line of civic and community betterment.

Mrs. Katherine Salmon, State Regent, Mrs. Josephine Barry, District Deputy, were present and extended to the Court their best wishes. Taken all in all, the banquet was the most successful of the Court's many successful affairs.

The hall was beautifully decorated with the colors of the Order, purple and gold, and beautiful American flags were everywhere evident. The motto of the Order, "Unity and Charity" was conspicuously displayed on the stage. THE WHITNEY STRIKE

Reports were current this morning that the strike at the Whitney Machine Co. had been settled and that the men were going back to work Monday after almost a month's loaf. This report appears premature however, for at the factory it was said that the management had hopes of a settlement but no definite information that it had been accomplished.

During the week the Company made an agreement to raise the men 12 per cent in wages and cut the working hours to 48 a week. This offer has not been accepted at this time.

John F. Harrold, son of Sergt. John A. Harrold, of the Winchester Police force, returned home yesterday, having received his discharge from the army.

MISS ANTONIA GREBE

Word was received here on Saturday of the sudden death of Miss Antonia Grebe, sister of Mrs. Hunter Robb of Bacon street. Miss Grebe died on Friday at her summer home at South Harpswell, Maine, where she had been stopping with her sisters, the Misses Rose and Emma Grebe. She had not been in the best of health for several months.

Miss Grebe was born in Pittsburg, Pa. She was well known in musical circles, both in this town and in Boston, and was an accomplished musician. She came to this town about fifteen years ago, making her home here. Her sister, Mrs. Hunter Robb, was the widow of the late Edwin Ginn, and besides her two other sisters, Miss Rose and Miss Emma Grebe, she leaves two brothers, Herman and Carl, both of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Robb left town on Thursday for a trip through Canada.

The funeral services were held from the Robb residence on Bacon street Monday afternoon. Rev. Murray W. Dowart, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. During the service selections were played on the organ by Mr. Edwin Ginn. There was a magnificent display of flowers from many friends. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Toll Service At Reduced Cost

YOU CAN SAVE ABOUT 25 PER CENT on toll rates if you can use the station-to-station method; that is, asking for "Anyone" when making a toll call.

When your business cannot be transacted except with one particular person, and there is doubt that he will be at hand when called, the use of this method is not advised.

In such cases the person-to-person call is recommended. In most instances, however, the person wanted is at hand, or there is present some alternate with whom business may be transacted or a message left.

If, in your judgment, you can get satisfactory results by calling for "Anyone," it will pay you to do so.

YOU CAN SAVE MORE THAN 50 PER CENT on toll rates for calls to points more than 75 miles away, between 8:30 P. M. and midnight, if made by the station-to-station method; that is if the call is made to "Anyone" instead of for a particular party.

Lesser reductions apply to points over 32 and less than 75 miles away.

YOU CAN SAVE 75 PER CENT on toll rates for station-to-station calls made between midnight and 4:30 A. M., to points more than 75 miles away, if made by the station-to-station method.

Quicker service will be obtained if you call the telephone number desired. If you do not know the number, the toll operator will get it for you.

this season, as soon as possible, with the construction of the South Border Road as an automobile thoroughfare from Mystic Valley Parkway, Winchester to the Fellway at Forest Street, Melford, in accordance with the desire of the citizens of Winchester, as shown by their vote taken at the annual Town Meeting for 1919. The Clerk was instructed to send a copy of this vote to the Metropolitan Park Commission and also to notify Mr. Kneeland that the Board had passed the vote he suggested.

Highland Avenue. A letter was received from Kathryn F. Goggin of 22 Highland Ave., asking that something be done to remedy the condition caused by the water course which flows across her land and which is an overflow of the north reservoir. The Board voted to have this work done in accordance with the suggestions made by the Town Engineer in his letter of Feb. 9, 1919. The next day the driveway to the Town Engineer to take up with the Superintendent of Streets, they to proceed with the work.

Outside Work Corner of Pond and Cambridge Sts. A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets stating that he had examined the driveway for Mr. James F. Kenney and that he sees no objection to the Board granting Mr. Kenney's request for a driveway location on Pond St. near Cambridge St. The Board voted to grant Mr. Kenney's request, the driveway to be laid, however, in accordance with lines and grades to be given by the Town Engineer and the work to be done under the Supervision of the Superintendent of Streets according to Town Specifications.

Wildwood St. A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets in regard to the complaint of Mr. A. M. Paul of 54 Wedgemere Ave. The Superintendent of Streets reports that Mr. Paul's request regarding Wildwood St. is merely a repetition of the summer former complaints about the roadway, and that he trusts that the Board will find it expedient to recommend the construction of this street next year. The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Paul that it is the present intention of the Board to recommend to the Town that this street be rebuilt next year. The Clerk was also instructed to notify Mr. Paul that the road has recently been sprayed with a dust-laying material.

Watering Horses. A letter was received from Mrs. Harrison Parker calling the Board's attention to the need of having suitable places throughout the town where horses may be watered. This matter was referred to Messrs Cox and Emerson for report.

Sidewalks 1919 Granolithic and Curbing. The Board voted to lay over certain pending sidewalk matters until the Highway Committee were ready to make a complete report in regard to what sidewalks and curbing should be laid throughout the town.

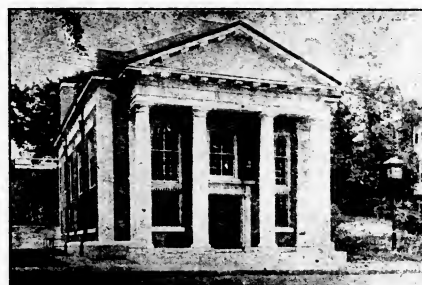

The meeting adjourned at 11:30 P. M.
GEORGE S. F. BARTLETT,
Clerk of Selectmen.

Town of Winchester, Selectmen's Meeting, July 16, 1919.
The Board met at 8 P. M. in special session, all present.

Fire Department (Chief). After discussion, the Board voted unanimously to rescind the vote passed at its meeting held on Monday evening,

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
MIDDLESEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Dora M. Nickerson, late of Winchester, in said County, deceased:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said Dora M. Nickerson has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Carl M. Nickerson and Harris M. Nickerson, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, without giving a surety on their official bond.

You are hereby called to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, 1919, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Winchester Star, a newspaper published in Winchester, the last publication to be on day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing (without charge) a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of July, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

By Deed Aug 1. F. M. ESTY, Register.

CONVENIENCE

One of the most important factors in location of a theatre, especially of a moving picture theatre, is its convenience to the greatest number.

That factor is one of the chief advantages, from the public point of view, of Gordon's Central Square Theatre in Cambridge.

"So Handy" is the popular phrase. It is connected with Boston by one of the best subway services in the world, the Cambridge Tunnel. The running time from Park St. to Central Sq. is only six minutes and the theatre is close by the Central Sq. Tunnel exits and entrances. Patrons from Boston proper and the suburbs to the East and South like Somerville, Boston, Newton, and so on, get direct transportation without extra fare.

For the mighty fan-shaped residential district that stretches out North and Westward of Boston, the Cambridge location is ideal. The theatre is in the very heart of Cambridge itself. It is only seven minutes from Brighton, 15 from Waltham, 10 from Newton Centre.

Arlington, Winchester and the communities northward are within few minutes ride of the theatre, likewise Belmont, Waverley and other districts, which have quick transportation service to Central Sq.

The number of people from these communities, which are regular patrons of this theatre, gives proof of the convenience of the location. To quote an expression often heard among these patrons:

"It is a comfort to have a high-class place of entertainment so accessible. I can see the show and be home before 11 o'clock, which I never could do before this theatre was built."

SOMERVILLE BUILDS ITS OWN POST OFFICE

After months of discussion the Boston Post Office officials have at last reached an agreement by which Somerville is to have a new post office erected by private capital and leased to the government to be located at 18 Bow street, just out of Union square, and running through to Somerville avenue. The actual terms of the proposition have been carefully guarded and are not yet known in detail in Somerville, but the new post office is to be erected within four months and the United States authorities have notified Dr. Edward C. Booth, owner of the property in Union Square, where the postal station has been for the last twenty years that the station will be moved.

The whole property comprises 8,000 feet and with two stories will yield about 16,000 feet of space for the post office, which now have about 2,100 square feet.

The new building will be devoted exclusively to the uses of the Somerville postal station. Final arrangements for its use have not been made, but it is probable that all the carriers in Somerville will be brought to the new station. The stations in Winter Hill and West Somerville will in any event be kept open for the sale of stamps, registering, etc.

NEWSPY PARAGRAPHS.
Mr. George C. O'Brien had his Hudson roadster stolen at Arlington last night.

Katherine Mawn of this town was fined $5 in the Woburn court this week for larceny after she had made restitution of the clothes stolen from a family on Hillside avenue amounting to $5.50.

Playing on the Winchester Country Club course Tuesday, Francis Quimet made a new non-competitive record, going over the course in 66. This cuts the previous record made by him by six strokes.

Town of Winchester, Selectmen's Meeting, July 16, 1919.
The Board met at 8 P. M. in special session, all present.

Fire Department (Chief). After discussion, the Board voted unanimously to rescind the vote passed at its meeting held on Monday evening, July 11, 1919, which read as follows: Voted—That the present Chief of the Fire Department, David H. DeCourcy, be dismissed for the good of the service, that his dismissal take effect Thursday morning, July 17, 1919, and that he be paid a month's salary as Fire Chief.

Voted—That David H. DeCourcy be dismissed as Inspector of Wires and Forest Warden of the Town of Winchester, his dismissal to take effect Thursday morning, July 17, 1919.

Meeting adjourned at 9:05 P. M.

WINCHESTER MACHINE-GUN COMPANY NOTES

The ranks have been rapidly filling up. The following have enlisted since last report:

Frederick L. Weiss
Samuel S. McNeilly
John M. Drohan
Frank R. Black
John H. MacNeill
Paul H. Thompson.

The Company will go to camp on Saturday, the 19th, for a tour of duty extending until the 26th. This year the regimental camp will be at Boxford. Reports are that the camp grounds are ideal, and all the men are looking forward to a week of pleasure not unmixing with hard work. The majority of the men in the ranks at present are "green," but all are young and interested, and seven days of uninterrupted work will make it possible for them to learn a lot about soldiering. The Company will take its full equipment, including 15 horses.

The following promotions were announced at Company drill last Monday night:

Corp. W. E. Richardson, promoted to Sergeant.
Private Howard Johnson, promoted to Corporal.
Privates Tibbets and Gurley made 1st Class Privates.

The resignation of 1st Lieut. Flavell Shurtliff was a source of regret to the men in the Company. Lieut. Shurtliff has served two years, and was an extremely popular as well as efficient officer. Pressure of business made it impossible for him to continue in the Service.

Harry Dotten will be Acting Stable Sergeant during the tour of camp duty. It will be his job to see that the horses are safely delivered at Boxford and that they are properly cared for while there.

The Machine-Gun Company will provide guards for the Headquarters stables at Camp in addition to caring for its own animals.

WINCHESTER MEN HANDLED BIG DEAL.

One of the largest financial transactions in the industrial history of recent years was announced Friday when Mr. Edsel Ford, the 25-year-old president of the Ford Motor Company confirmed the report that he had bought out all but one of the minority stockholders, and that the sole control of the company now rests virtually in the hands of his father and himself.

The entire deal was handled, it is stated, by the younger Mr. Ford, through the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston. The details of acquiring the stock was handled by Mr. Stuart W. Webb of this town, of Bond & Goodwin, and P. M. Holmes, Albert Boyden, also of Winchester, and Roland Boyden. All minority stockholders were dealt with independently and each received the same price per share for stock.

The concentration of the control of the company in the hands of Henry Ford and his son was precipitated by the court decision rendered when the minority stockholders brought suit to compel Mr. Ford to abandon his plan of investing $20,000,000 in profits and forced him to distribute this sum among the stockholders.

The decision, it was felt, stood as a barrier in the path of the Ford policies for enlarging their industries and the perfection of their plans for the extension of their industrial and social benefits.

It is further announced that the Selectmen have made a change in their committees, Selectman Cox being placed on the Fire Committee in place of Selectman Simonds.

The centre fire station was a busy place yesterday morning and was the centre of attraction for everyone. Chief DeCourcy held a regular reception, and appeared to be the most popular man in town. He had removed all of his personal effects preparatory to leaving the house.

Chief DeCourcy first joined the fire department in 1891 when he became a member of Hose 3, the old hand hose on Swanton street. In 1894 he became a call man on the department and a permanent man May 1, 1895, when he was taken on as a first driver at Hose 3 after that piece was made horse drawn and the present hose house built.

He held that position for ten years, being transferred in May, 1905, to the centre house as acting captain of the department. He resigned as a permanent man in September, 1906, and went on the Hook and Ladder Company as a call man. In 1907 he was elected to the Board of Fire Engineers and in May, 1911, was appointed, chief of the department, which position he has held until this week. If he remains with the department until this fall he will have rounded out 25 years of continuous service.

Chief DeCourcy is married and has two children, he resides at 14 Westley street. He is a member of the Woburn lodge of Elks and the Firemen's Relief Association.

Bow Legs Saved Him.

Not very nice is bountiful or proud of possessing bowed legs, but when said cross-legged neighbor limbs have saved him from possible serious injury or death from an attack of a vicious butting ram, he is apt to take a different view of the matter during his after life.

A resident of Brazer, N. Y., started across the Miller farm to go to the elder mill on the Tannery road. When nearly in the center of a large pasture an old ram started for him. The man ran, but soon realized that he could not make the nearest fence. As the next best maneuver he made for a large bowlder a few rods away. Just as he reached the rock the ram overtook him and with lowered head butted through the fugitive's legs. He hit the bowlder and crushed his skull.

Peel Chicken.

Three-year-old Ruth came from Chicago to visit her grandmother on a farm. In the evening, Everything about the farm was a novelty to Ruth, of which she never tired. Another pleasant thing about the visit was grandmother's constant questioning of "Now what shall we eat today?" One morning she asked the usual question as to the menu. Little Ruth studied a minute and then made answer: "Oh, grandma, won't you please catch a chicken and peel it for dinner?"—Indianapolis News.

The Slow One

By E. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"I believe George Montfort'll be married to Angelina Riker before the college term ends, Chan."

Wilbur Winslow, the young county attorney, glanced keenly at Barrett's half-averted profile. By a mighty effort Barrett preserved a calm and indifferent countenance.

"I rather thought you were out of the running—as slow as you are, Chan," Winslow went on; "but then nobody else has been in it since Montfort hit the trail to the Riker house—not even your truly. The best I can expect is to be asked to do an under stunt before very long." He screwed up his face comically. "Well, so long, Chan! I'm going down to see how the river looks. See you later."

Barrett looked after his blithe informant like one in a bad dream. He had loved gay little Angelina Riker ever since he had come to the town as court clerk, and though he was shy and diffident, Angelina had seemed to be drawn to him. Then Montfort, the football coach and athletic director at the college, big, blond and spirited, stepped in and appropriated Angelina from the moment of introduction. So the sweet intimacy came to its end, and now it was public surprise that she was soon to marry Montfort!

The early March wind had held a hint of warmth when he came down the street, but in the courthouse, at work over his books, Barrett felt chilled and numb. When he came out the air was colder, and there was excitement in the town. There had been heavy rains and the ice gorge across the river just below the town (which the river circled) had broken. The flood waters menaced the town. If the gorge broke before the water reached the top of the banks, well and good! but if not, the town would be inundated. Barrett's attention was now fixed on the river. The gorge was a dangerous undertaking. But there were volunteers in plenty, so many that lots had to be drawn to make selection of the fortunate.

Alexander Pennant, the chief of police, and Hiram Spinner, a husky bus driver, were the first whose names were drawn, then James Newby and George Montfort.

For an hour the men worked with hooks and fuses; then, suddenly and unexpectedly, the gorge gave way, and they were caught in the middle of the river on a high sand bar, now an island.

They were temporarily safe enough, perched on their narrow haven, but massive ice blocks filled the river—no boat could be rowed to their rescue. There was nothing to be done but to wait until the river became more clear of ice. The night came down raw and cold; the college students made fires on the river bank and camped beside them, shouting encouragement to the hapless ones.

In the early dawn, when a great crowd again collected on the bank, Angelina Riker was among the women. Montfort was out there, and Angelina was afraid for him, but something told her his danger would be relieved on her behalf—another man's defection. Angelina, looking out on the river with weary eyes, believed she would be quite happy if Chandler Barrett were out there too! When half the young men of the town were running over each other to get the chance to help break the gorge Chandler Barrett had not offered himself!

The ice was still running—no chance of launching a boat before noon. But now came and the two boats that several times made the attempt narrowly escaped being capsized, and the men were compelled to turn back.

Dusk came with its promise of a bitter night.

"We can't let those four brave fellows freeze out there tonight," the mayor said that evening; "somehow we must get relief to them."

Out of the crowd stepped a big dark fellow, wearing no coat, but a flannel shirt, knickerbockers and tennis shoes. "I've a plan, sir," he said. "I've been thinking of it for several hours. A man might crawl along the telephone cable that's stretched across the river and drop down on the bar—I believe the line is long enough—and get a rope to the bar. Then a boat could be pulled over. The rowing would be easier—counting this way."

"But it would be a desperate undertaking," the mayor objected. "I'm willing to risk it. The mercury's steadily going down. We can't, as you say, wait for the next morning. Twelve hours out there. I am a good climber, and," he smiled, "I made my wit, sir, an hour ago. I am not afraid."

With his shirt pockers bulging with cakes of chocolate for the marooned men and a slender coil tied around his waist, Barrett was hoisted to the wire. As he crawled slowly hand over hand along the swaying cable, he watching closely held its breath. Angelina's heart scarcely moved. And once when fear overcame him, she covered her eyes with her hands. But when she looked again the black head was directly over the sand bar. Then he dropped down on the bar and the crowd caught its breath and cheered wildly.

With the aid of the cord Barrett carried a big rope was drawn across the river, then a stout boat dragged across.

"George is saved! Don't cry, Angeline!" Angelina, with the tears running down her cheeks, heard some one saying at her elbow.

George! For thirty minutes she had forgotten George was living. Now he was so weak from hunger and exposure he could not help with the oars, but Barrett, with the aid of the others, succeeded in getting to the shore, with every man safe, in a remarkably short time.

Next day when he sat in his room at the courthouse, a little pale but hard at work, shrinking from the applauding townsfolk, there came a tap at his door and Angelina came in.

"They're going to give you a Carnegie medal, Chan," she told him. "I wanted you to know it."

His dark cheek flushed. "I—I—why, Angelina—how is Montfort feeling to-day?"

"Oh, he's all right," she answered carelessly. "Chandler, why didn't you volunteer to help break the gorge?"

"I'm too slow," he answered, "I never could jump or run quickly."

"And yet you weren't afraid to hang by your hands over that awful water!" she cried.

"I didn't have to hurry about that," he explained.

"Oh," she breathed, "George says he wouldn't have dared attempt that to save forty men! Oh, Chan, I nearly died when you—when you didn't volunteer with the others—but when I saw you on that wire, my heart lived again! I must go now," she faltered. "I just came to tell you about the medal."

She reached out toward the door, but he slipped in front of her and stood with his back against it.

"Thank you, Chan, it isn't Montfort!" His arms were outstretched, his eyes shining.

Angelina stammered into the waiting arms and laid her head on his breast.

"So, it isn't Montfort!" she whispered.

FIRST PRINTING BY STEAM

Date in November, 1814, is One Worthy of Remembrance by All the Civilized World.

The 29th of November, 1814, forms an important date in the history of printing, and consequently in that of civilization. It was the day on which the new-fangled printing press was first printed by steam, instead of manual power. The common printing press, though much improved during the second half of the last century, could seldom print more than 200 or 300 impressions per hour, with one man to ink the type and another to work the press. It was the enterprise of the London Times that enabled inventors to surmount the difficulties of applying steam to printing.

In 1803, the edition of 3,000, which was its daily issue, took many hours to strike off. Thomas Martyn, a compositor, however, produced a new model for a self-acting machine for working the press, and John Walter, the proprietor, supplied him with money to continue his labors. The pressmen were hostile to such innovation, and Martyn was in fear of his life, and as Walter did not possess large capital, the scheme fell to the ground. As his pecuniary means failed, Walter encouraged invention. Finally, in 1814, the Koenig patent was tried secretly for fear of the pressmen, on the 29th of November, the night on which the machine was brought into use. It was about six in the morning when Walter went into the pressroom and astonished his occupants by telling them that the Times was already printed by steam; if they attempted violence there was a force to suppress it, but if they were peaceable their wages should be continued. This was the most hazardous enterprise carried through and printing by steam given to the world.

Made Thimbles Works of Art.

In the Middle Ages there were many thimbles made of gold and silver, designed by the goldsmiths for the use of rich and highborn dames, for presents to their pretty bride or the good wife; and now and then a goldsmith would on his own account expend time, talent and money in order to produce a perfect and costly thimble for his sweetheart.

Among these was one Nikolaus von Benschoten, who lived 200 years ago. His work was so beautiful and called so much attention to the thimble, that it gave rise to the fable that he had invented it; whereas, the fact was that by his bringing it into notice it became an article of everyday necessity.

What Benschoten did invent was not the thimble itself, but the artistic ornamentation of it.

Rivers Have Seen History.

The Ill and the Rhensch, as they have flowed together at Strasbourg through all the centuries, have seen much history. They are undoubtedly the oldest features in the old town, although their actual waters may have been ever the most transient of visitors. They were there before Strasbourg. They were there when the Roman legions marched through the passes of the Vosges on the "fertile plain," and captured the Celtic settlement which spread itself over the land where Strasbourg now stands, and they are there today, joining hands, and moving on together towards the Rhine.

An Aid to Art.

"A reformer blames the movies for encouraging the smoking habit." "How's that?" "He says the heroes are always lighting cigarettes in the critical moments of plot-plays."

"But how else does he expect them to register calm insurance?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The music was excellent.

The strike on the Boston Elevated system was noticed in this town yesterday only by an increased patronage on the steam railroad. Extra cars were run and trains went in filled. The local patronage was somewhat but not greatly enlarged, but many persons from points north evidently took to the trains and the cars were well filled before they reached here.

About 100 children visited the playground on Manchester Field Tuesday morning to listen to the story telling by Miss Marie Powers and later to go on a picnic to Sandy Beach. Miss Powers told three stories—one about the war, which is a continued story with a section each week, one which was a funny story, and a third which was "just a story to please." She will be at the playground every Tuesday morning for the next four or five weeks and will amuse the children for an hour each time. The trip to Sandy Beach which followed the story telling is the first to that place by the children this summer. Bathing and lunch were enjoyed by the children, who spent the afternoon there.

SCHOOL NEWS

Important changes in the curriculum and organization of the Wadleigh School will be made with the opening of schools in September. In general, these changes will be by way of introducing features characteristic of junior high schools.

The following subjects will be required of all pupils:

English
History and Civics
General Science Mathematics
Physical Education
Music

Other subject will be elective. Approximately one fourth of the work will be elective, giving pupil opportunity to take work for which they seem especially fitted or in which they are especially interested. These special subjects will be French, Commercial Studies, Additional English, Shop Work for boys and Cooking and Sewing for girls.

General Science for all pupils and French for those who elect it will be the two chief additions to the curriculum.

All the work of the eighth grade will be departmentalized, each subject being taught by a teacher who has made special preparation for it. English will be taught by Miss Mary J. Hills, who is now taking a course in the Harvard Summer School in Junior High School English. General Science will be taught by Miss Mary H. Barr, now taking a Summer course in Junior High School Science at Columbia University. Mathematics will be taught by Mrs. Jessie R. Talcott, who plans to take an extension course in Junior High School Mathematics during the school year at Harvard University. History and Civics will be taught by Miss M. Jane Davis, the former Acting Principal. French will be taught by Mr. E. E. Thompson, head of the modern language department of the High School.

In many ways this organization by departments will resemble the High School organization and go far to accustom pupils to high school conditions.

Work in the sixth and seventh grades will be departmentalized to a somewhat less extent, making the transition gradual on the part of the pupils from a single teacher basis to a departmental basis.

Mr. William K. Shuster, physical instructor in the High School, who has charge of the town playgrounds this summer, is also taking a summer course in physical education at the Harvard Summer School.

Miss Frances G. Allison of the Commercial Department in the High School is taking a course at the Harvard Summer School.

Miss Edna F. Hawes is taking a course in kindergarten teaching at the Hyanian Normal School.

The summer review school has an enrollment of forty-two pupils, a much smaller number than attended last year. Two teachers are employed, Mrs. Anna T. O'Sullivan, Principal, and Miss Marjorie H. Davenport, Assistant. Last year it was necessary to employ three teachers. The smaller attendance is due in part, at least, to special efforts made by the teachers to reduce the number of failures by means of group instruction.

A two-session program will take the place of the present one-session program in the Wadleigh and Prince schools with the opening of schools in September. According to the present plans of the school authorities, all elementary schools will have both morning and afternoon sessions with the following hours: 8:45 A. M. to 12 M., 1:30 P. M. to 3:15 P. M. This change has been made after careful consideration of the health and welfare of the pupils. The one-session plan places a severe strain during the latter part of the session on both pupils and teachers. It is felt that a longer period of relaxation for the noon meal with opportunity for many pupils to go to their homes will be better both for pupils and teachers.

A part of the interior of the High School will be redecorated during the summer. The entire corridor on the first, second and third floors, and the office will be refinished. The work will be done by David A. Carline on a stock and time basis.

The office of the Superintendent of Schools will be closed from July 29 to August 29. Minors wanting employment certificates may secure them from the attendance officer, Mr. N. M. Nichols, 10 Hillsdale Ave.

A special committee of High School teachers has been appointed to plan a program of social, athletic and other activities for the High School during the coming year. The chairman of the committee is Mr. Arthur E. Butters; the other members are Mrs. Ella M.

100 APPLIED FOR BONUS

At the meeting held at the G. A. R. hall in the town hall building last Friday night for the purpose of assisting service men in filling out their applications for the $100 bonus provided for by a recent act of the State Legislature, 100 men were cared for.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Winchester Post, American Legion and Adj. Harry J. Donovan of the Post was in charge. The papers were acknowledged by Representative William A. Kneeland, who also personally carried them to the State House, and by Mr. Fred N. Kerr and Mr. T. Price Wilson.

The hall was a busy place for a couple of hours, as the men were given blanks and assisted to fill them out.

Men who have still to send in their applications should note that it is necessary that it be accompanied by their discharge or release; this latter paper being returned to them later.

BOARD OF TRADE OUTING

Tickets Now Ready for Trip to Nantasket

The tickets for the annual merchants outing, this year to be held at Nantasket Beach under the auspices of the Board of Trade, have been received by the committee and are on sale at the following places:

C. C. Sullivan's barber shop
Hershey Hardware Store
Sellers' Market
Ames' Store

The plans for the outing are now complete with the exception of the program of sports. As members of this committee will not meet until next week, this part of the outing has not been definitely decided upon other than the outdoor baseball played with indoor outfits, which will be participated in by both men and women.

From indications it appears that the outing this year, which comes on Wednesday, August 6th, will be attended by the largest crowd in the history of the town. There seems to doubt but what everyone is entering into the spirit of the coming week.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

Wakfield will be here tomorrow for a game. This team is managed by Geo. Dingwell, one of the best known semi-pro managers in Mass., and to him exclusively, Wakfield is indebted for base ball the last three years. This season he has a very fast team and has been winning his games right along, losing only two games out of 10 played, which is quite a record. The team is composed of High School and College players, with Dr. McMahon, of Woburn, in the box. McMahon as a pitcher is enough to attract any crowd of Winchester fans. He has beaten us so many times in the past that it seems a certainty for a team to win when he is facing Winchester; Bennett of Wakfield is behind the bat.

With the knowledge that McMahon is going to face us here in Winchester you can look for quite a following from Woburn and if you do not get your seat do not be disappointed, for a word to the wise is sufficient.

ARLINGTON WOMEN ABANDON MARKET

The public market established by the Arlington Woman's Club two weeks ago has been abandoned. Its aim was to gather on Chestnut street of the town each Saturday farm wagoes offering stocks of farm products direct to the housewives of Arlington at bottom prices. It gathered a few farm wagoes, but hardly any buyers. The club women, after viewing the comparatively empty areas about the wagoes, Saturday, decided to call the project a failure. They note, however, that the market did not have a very central location.

Conductor James McElhinney of Woburn who was assigned to the car taking the party of Winchester Laundry employees to Revere Beach Saturday night had his jaw broken when he fell from "the Whip" at the beach.

Mr. Loring P. Gleason has leased part of the house on Appalachian road owned by Mrs. Emma West. He will occupy the premises September first.

Stacy, Miss Eva M. Palmer, Miss Florence A. Parker and Mr. E. E. Thompson. This committee is taking up its work as a result of its conference of all the High School teachers with the High School Principal and the Superintendent of Schools held before the close of school in June.

RECEIVES PICTURE OF FIRST PRESIDENT

The Winchester Trust Company recently placed upon the walls of its Director's Room an etching by W. H. W. Ricknell of its first President, Lewis Parkhurst.

The Middlesex County National Bank was organized April 28, 1897, in White's block, over Knight's Drug Store.

The call for the meeting was read by Mr. Barrett, Mr. Henry F. Johnson was chosen Chairman.

The following Officers and Directors were chosen:—
Lewis Parkhurst, President
Frank A. Cutting, Vice President
Samuel J. Elder
James W. Russell
William Firth
Louis H. W. Vaupel
Charles E. Barrett, Cashier and Clerk.

Other prominent men served on the Board, namely: John L. Ayer, Frank L. Ripley, Freeman E. Hovey, George A. Fernald and Fred L. Pattee.

The following letter has been sent to Mr. Parkhurst by the Directors in recognition of his gift to the Trust Company:—

Lewis Parkhurst, Esq.,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mr. Parkhurst:

The Directors of the Winchester Trust Company, in acknowledging the gift of your portrait, desire to place upon record their appreciation of the gift and to thank you heartily for it.

As you were the first President of the Middlesex County National Bank, of which this company is the successor, it is fitting that your picture should be the first one to be hung upon its walls.

It is within the recollection of some of the present Board of Directors, as well as of many of the stockholders and of our older citizens, that you interested yourself in the formation of a bank in Winchester not for private gain but as a public spirited citizen, believing that such an institution would be a benefit to the town.

The success of the bank has been due in no small part to your early efforts in its behalf and to the prestige and standing which your name gave to it. In that same spirit of seeking at all times to advance the welfare of the town, this institution has been fostered and grown, and we believe, has justified the efforts of yourself and of your associates to found it. To maintain and to advance the institution along the lines marked out at the beginning is now and always has been the first thought and the continuous effort of your successors.

At a meeting of the Directors held this day, this letter having been read and approved it was ordered that it be sent to you, and that it be entered upon the records of the company.

Respectfully yours,
FRANK A. CUTTING,
President.
CHARLES E. BARRETT,
Treasurer.

WINCHESTER MEDALS

Winchester men who have been in the service may obtain their medals presented by the Town by applying at the STAR Office.

PLANS TO END SUNDAY SPORT

With the return of the Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, secretary of the Lord's Day League, from his vacation at East Stoneham, Me., a campaign will be inaugurated for rigid enforcement of the law forbidding Sunday baseball and the playing of other sports.

This was intimated, Wednesday, by Mr. Kneeland's secretary, who stated that a list of cities and towns where Sunday sports are not interfered with, the chief of police will be asked to enforce the statute and a reputation of the offence will undoubtedly lead to prosecution in the courts. The League is anxious to distinguish the Lord's day, sparing no club, no matter how rich and influential it is, where there are violations of the law as it now stands.

SELECTIONS MEETING

July 21, 1919.

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. All present.

The records of the meetings of July 14 and 16 were read and approved.

Census. A letter was received from the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census acknowledging receipt of the list of registered voters of the Town of Winchester at the last election and also two maps which were sent to this Department of Commerce.

Traffic Rules. A letter was received from the Chief of Police stating that he had conferred with the Superintendent of Streets in regard to a sign to be placed on the easterly side of Highland avenue, at the southerly end thereof, and that this sign would be erected at once. The letter was ordered filed.

Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co. A letter was received from B. R. Pollock, Federal Manager of the Boston & Maine Railroad stating that the Boston & Maine Railroad will permit the Bay State St. Railway Co. (Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co.) to place a small building on the property of the Boston & Maine Railroad for the purpose of housing men who regulate the movement of cars over the Boston & Maine tracks at Church street, Mr. Ellis, representative of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co., the letter states, has been informed in regard to the matter.

Boston & Maine R. R. A letter was received from B. R. Pollock, Federal Manager of the Boston & Maine Railroad, in regard to oiling tracks. The letter states that, in common with others, the Boston & Maine Railroad had for a time used its tracks. When however it became necessary to disturb the ballast in putting in new ties and surface, considerable trouble was experienced for quite a number of years by damage to clothing due to the oily dust that blew into the cars from the tracks. On account of this all the roads discontinued this practice.

Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co. A letter was received from the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co., acknowledging the letter of the Board of Trade in regard to the deplorable condition of the roadbed adjacent to the tracks of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co. on Main street between Winchester Centre and the Woburn line. The letter states that the Superintendent of Ways and Structures for investigation after which the Board will be advised.

The meeting adjourned at 10:15 p. m.
George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of the Selection.

CABLE CENSORSHIP WITHDRAWAL

Withdrawal of America and British censorship the night of July 23rd, will mean reversion to pre-war codes for messages to and from Belgium, Denmark, Great Britain and Ireland and British possessions, except Egypt. Present censorship conditions for Egypt and for other countries will remain. Only one general cable address may be used anywhere until further notice.

WINCHESTER INSTITUTION REMEMBERED

The will of the late Dora Mayo Nickerson, widow of the late Henry C. Nickerson, who died July 12th, provides for the gift of $500 to the Home for Aged People on Kendall street.

Mrs. Nickerson also leaves the sum of $3,000 to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this town, and the sum of $1,000 to the Franklin Square House, Boston.

WILLIAM H. MAYNARD DIES

Many mothers and babies enjoyed a harbor sail Saturday on the Boston Floating hospital through the courtesy of Mrs. William H. Maynard of Church street. The day was named William H. Maynard Day. This is customary to distinguish the home of the funds necessary, to provide a days outing for the sick babies.

BOAT CLUB DANCE

By request an extra dance will be held at the Winchester Boat Club on Saturday evening, July 26th, at 8 p. m., at which club members will be charmed the same as non-members. Admission per couple $1.00, plus war tax. Music, Hick's Jazz Band.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following cases of contagious diseases have been reported to the Board of Health for the week ending July 24: Pulmonary tuberculosis 1, typhoid fever 1.

LEGION NEWS

Winchester Post Opens With Numerous Activities

A meeting of the executive committee of twenty-one of the Winchester Post, American Legion, was held on Wednesday night at the Town Hall, sixteen of the committee attending and to serve as a Vice-Commander. C. N. Eaton presided at the meeting and presented the charter of the Post, which has been received.

There was a general discussion of activities to be undertaken during the coming months, and it was decided to open an office of the Post at some place in the centre to be determined by the committee for the purpose of aiding service men in making out their applications for the State bonus of $100, to assist the men in insurance matters and to serve as a place of registration for employment.

Three committees were appointed as follows:

Constitution and By-Laws—Minot W. Hurl, Francis Wyman and Loring E. Gleason.

Publicity and Membership—Harry J. Donovan, Louis Goldin and Dr. Richard W. Sheehy.

Employment—Kenneth Caldwell, Kenneth Pond, Theodore Lawson and Loring E. Gleason.

All service men who are not yet members of the Post are urged to become associated with it, and blanks and information concerning this will be furnished at the office when it is opened. Notice of the location of the office will be given in the STAR as soon as decided upon.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Thomas H. Barrett has sold for Mrs. Gertrude Nash the double house numbered 7 and 9 Myrtle street, to Edward Jackson of this town. The property consists of a 16-room house, with all modern improvements, and over 9,000 square feet of land.

Mr. Barrett also reports the sale of the remainder of the Flynn estate on Swanton street to Carmine Louco of Woburn. There is a double house, 16 rooms and 2 baths, and about 11,000 feet of land.

Through the same office the sale is reported of the property of Mrs. J. J. sell road, consisting of new 7-room bungalow, to Daniel Lynch of Woburn. Mr. John F. Maguire, the present owner, will reside in Woburn.

The property corner of Winthrop street and Crescent circle, owned by Philip J. Blank, has been sold to William F. Meale of Mattapan. There is a modern 16-room house, double garage, and nearly 10,000 square feet of land. Mr. Meale's family will occupy one half the house.

MANY AUTOISTS IN COURT

The Winchester police had a large number of autoists in the Woburn court Friday and Saturday charged with various offences about town, including not having their licenses, no registration, etc. The drivers were fined $5 and $10 and two had their cases placed on file. Among those who appeared at Woburn were Bertram D. Quinlan and Joseph Voner of Watertown, James Temple of Somerville, Andrew H. Burke of Everett, David Frothingham of Boston, Rogerie A. Thibault of Lowell, Jeremiah S. O'Sullivan of Braintree, John Given of Burlington, George W. Kleros of Lowell, Herman E. Kincaid of Wilmington, Jeremiah J. Tobin of Somerville, Eugene L. Mc Morrow of Boston, George W. Powers of Boston, Raymond E. Temple of Somerville, Arthur Apalaster of Stoneham.

CARPENTERS ASK INCREASE

In compliance with their agreement of three months ago when they received an increase to 77 cents an hour, local carpenters have been working for that figure. The three months having passed they have now asked for an increase to 80 cents.

The Board was presented to the master builders' organization last week and a meeting was held last night, the carpenters to meet tonight to act upon the result. It is said that the master builders are agreed to grant the raise, but desire that it commence August first and not a week ago as the carpenters wish. This point will probably be adjusted satisfactorily.

POLL TAX BOOKS OUT

The List of Assessed Polls of Poll Tax books as they are more commonly called, are out for this year. Copies may be had by applying at the STAR Office or at the office of the Town Clerk at the Town Hall.

If copies of the book are desired sent by mail 10 cents must accompany such request.

MACHINE GUN COMPANY AT CAMP

Members of the Machine Gun Company, 12th Reg. M. S. A., left last week for the annual trip to camp, held this year at Camp Bancroft, Boxford. The company went into camp with full equipment, including 15 horses, although it took some engineering to secure the outfit. Capt. Tompkins is in command, and it is reported that the company is providing guards for headquarters stables in addition to caring for its own horses.

The newly promoted officers will have an excellent test through the work of their proficiency. New recruits taken to camp with the company include F. L. Weiss, S. S. McNeill, J. M. Drolan, F. R. Black, J. H. MacNeill, Henry Parker and Paul Thompson.

BUILDING PERMITS

The following permits were granted by the Inspector of Buildings for the week ending July 21:

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO E. WOODSIDE, 39 Lebanon Street

Cooperating with the

Home Economics

Upon inspection of the demonstration garden, not situated at 39 Lebanon Street, the work was noted that several things should be done at once now that the vegetables have grown to such a state of maturity. The beets and carrots are all ready to harvest and will be pulled out within the next week and some other crop such as a late crop of string beans will probably be put in their place.

The Kohl Rabi plants have already attained the size where they are the best for eating purposes. It should be remembered that if Kohl Rabi plants are allowed to grow too long, the edible portion will very likely become toughened. It was planned to grow a crop of cauliflower plants after the Kohl Rabi had been taken out of the ground but it is not a very good garden practice to follow one kind of vegetable with another belonging to the same species. Kohl Rabi plants have been troubled somewhat with club-root and if cauliflower plants were planted in the same place they would no doubt be affected with the same trouble and the result would be a lot of stunted plants which would fail to head up. Perhaps the best thing to take the place of Kohl Rabi plants would be some kind of a green salad crop.

Wax beans have already been harvested from the garden and a very good crop has been grown. The tomato plants have been trained to two stems and tied up to stakes. These plants were set in the ground two feet apart and must be trained up to a stake in order to avoid over-crowding. There are also several advantages to be gained in training tomatoes in such a manner. One advantage is that the tomato plants themselves can be thoroughly cultivated from time to time during the summer. The vines are kept up off the ground and which allows the sunlight to get into the plants. Early tomatoes and a better quality of fruit are the result of this practice. Also the blossoms and fruit are done away with to a very great extent.

Special attention should be paid to the bulletin board which is now at the garden. The spray calendar which is posted on the board will no doubt be of great value to many who are not well acquainted with spray materials and methods of spraying. Notices on the European corn borer and upon the demonstration garden itself are also posted on the bulletin board.

HOSPITAL PHONE GIRLS ASK AID OF SENATOR WALSH

Claim Dept. of Health Double-Crossed Operators

The locked-out operators of the switchboard at the Parker Hill Hospital, formerly Base Hospital No. 10, have appealed to Senator David I. Walsh to adjust their grievance with officials of the public health department who assumed control of the hospital on July 1.

When the girls were notified to relinquish positions with the United States signal corps with the understanding that they were to receive equal compensation as switchboard operators of the hospital following its transfer to the department of health. Now they are out of a job altogether.

Since their engagement by the health department officials, the girls claim they were told their pay was to be at the rate of $70 a month in place of the $90 and $95 per month they would have received had they continued with the signal corps after July 1.

Although willing, the girls declare, to work for the public health service at their former compensation of $80 a month, they say they cannot afford to work for the $70 offered them when they expected to receive as much as formerly for the same work.

"We never would have consented to resign from the signal corps," said Miss Kathleen Kennedy, former chief operator at the hospital, "had we not been led to believe that we were to receive the same compensation under the public health regime as we were paid prior to July 1."

"We are civil service employees, and our resignation from the signal corps was obtained by the public health officials with the distinct understanding that we were to be continued in our jobs without loss of salary."

"When the time came for us to be sworn in as public health employees we were politely told that our income was to be henceforth at the rate of $70 a month instead of the $90 and $95 which we were expecting."

"Of course, we cannot afford to work for less. And we laid our case before our former chief, Capt. Charles Carpenter, who wrote letters for us stating the exact state of affairs as they affected our relationship to the signal corps, of which we were formerly a part."

"Lt. Holland, who formerly controlled the hospital, read us a statement on June 30 announcing that following public health control on July 1, there would be no chief operators and that all operators would receive the same treatment."

"We were released from the signal corps and placed on the approved list for service as employees of the public health department. Officials of the public health requested the action by which we were to be transferred. When we were to take oath on July 1 we demurred at the announcement that we would get but $70 a month. I was ready to go to work, pending an adjustment of our grievance, when Lt. Holland told a boy to sit at the switchboard while he obtained emergency operators from the telephone company."

"I remained until the telephone company girls put in an appearance. This was on July 2. The emergency telephone operators are working for $60 a month. Meanwhile we are deprived of our jobs. We are permanent civil service operators and are indignant at such treatment. We believe that we have been given a 'raw' deal. In the language of the day, we have been 'double-crossed.' So we have appealed to Chairman Elmer Curtis of the Massachusetts civil service board to assist us in obtaining a square deal."

"All our attempts to obtain redress from public health have thus far proven fruitless. They are 'passing the buck.' We believe that we were tricked into expecting the same conditions in the public health department as we enjoyed in the signal corps. If we hadn't been led to believe that we would do as well by making the change, we would now be receiving our $90 a month in the signal corps. Instead, we are minus our former employment and decidedly out of luck."

The names of the girls affected by the action of the public health officials are Miss Kathleen Kennedy, Miss Margaret Haggerty and Mrs. Bertha Whiting—all experienced operators.

MYSTERIES OF THE PACIFIC

"How did the flightless birds of New Zealand originate?"

"What is the nearest living relative to the extinct dodo of Samoa?"

"What is the import of the same species of fresh water fish in two rivers situated on opposite sides of the Pacific?"

"Did a land mass fly out of what is now the Pacific ocean before this planet was cooled and form the moon?"

These are just a few of the many lines of inquiry which science will turn to in the Pacific Ocean after the peace conference has adjusted the many colonial questions affecting the guinea, the Carolines, the Marshall Islands and the numerous other holdings in this least known region in the world, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

The writer of the communication upon which the bulletin is based, Leopold G. Blackman, continues:

"Much valuable material also will be collected to assist in a better understanding of the growth of our own civilization from elemental savagery, for it is reasonable to suppose that the primitive wants of man in different ages and regions have called forth similar expedients to satisfy them."

"Other important objects of investigation for the ethnologist will touch the various racial types into which the Pacific Islanders are divided. Of these, three are generally recognized, of whom the Papuans and Polynesians appear to show the widest divergences, with the Micronesians occupying the intermediate group and possessing affinities of race, language and custom within the other two. The presence of two distinct races of man in the Pacific suggests two periods and sources of immigration and adds difficulty to an already perplexing question, for the demarcation between the divisions of the races is by no means well defined, but is complicated by the admixture of many other races of both oriental and occidental origin."

"The Papuans may be generally said to inhabit New Guinea, the Solomons, New Caledonia, and Fiji. Their most obvious characteristics may be briefly summed up by stating that they are irreligious, democratic, gregarious, cannibalistic, and hostile to strangers. They possess no hereditary chiefs, paint or scar the body rather than wear clothes, cook in earthen pots, chew betel, and their speech is irreconcilable dialects."

"The Polynesians are the least attractive of the Pacific Islanders, and the island groups which they occupy are among the least known to the Pacific and have been for many generations shunned by mariners and associated with everything that is of evil repute in the record of the ocean."

"The Polynesians in many attributes are greatly at variance with the Papuan Islanders. They possess, generally speaking, an elaborate religious system, an established order of hereditary chiefs and well-defined social castes. They are friendly to strangers, fond of dress, expert manufacturers of Kapa cloth, and intrepid seamen and navigators. They tattoo instead of scar the body, seldom practice cannibalism, cook in earthen ovens instead of in earthen pots, drink awa, and possess a common language understandable throughout New Zealand, Hawaii, Samoa, Tahiti, and the Paumotu Islands."

"Of all the Pacific races the greatest interest attaches to the Polynesian Islanders, but it is unfortunately these people whose primitive customs and racial types have been most broken up by modern intercourse."

THE VALLEY OF TEN THOUSAND SMOKES

Word has been received by Gilbert Grosvenor, director and editor of The National Geographic Society, that the sixth expedition of The Society, headed by Prof. Robert F. Griggs, to explore the now famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes has arrived at Kodiak Island, Alaska, opposite the extensive volcanic area about Mt. Katmai.

Prof. Griggs headed The Society's first expedition to the Katmai district in 1915. The following year he discovered the volcanic area there which has been called one of the greatest, if not the greatest, natural wonders of the world.

This year the party includes chemist, a petrographer, a zoologist, other scientific men, and motion picture photographers. Thus the volcanic fields will be studied from many scientific angles, and also will be recorded on negative and film so its wonders and beauties may be disclosed to members of The Society.

President Wilson, last September, set aside the Valley of Ten Thousand

Smokes as a national monument because, to quote his proclamation, "This wonderland may become of popular scenic, as well as scientific interest for generations to come, inasmuch as all its phenomena exist upon a scale of great magnitude."

Effort will be made this summer to determine whether helium, the non-inflammable gas which is expected to revolutionize the science of ballooning, is to be found about Katmai. But that is only one of the fascinating problems that this awe-inspiring phenomenon holds out to science. The processes of Nature in the creation of the earth's surface may be studied there as nowhere else on the globe.

YANKEES

(James W. O'Leary, a Saturday Evening Post)

O'Leary, from Chicago, and a first-class nightingale name. Born in County Clare, Ireland, where the gentle art of being a servant begins. O'Leary, from somewhere in Archway Road, Dodger's sheds and smaller powder. While the battle died and flowed.

And the captain says: "O'Leary, from your fighting company. Pick a dozen fighting Yankees and me skinnish" with me. Pick a dozen fighting devils, and I know it's you who can. And, O'Leary, he said I was a first-class nightingale name.

O'Leary's eye was pierce and O'Leary's voice was hoarse. "Dumiri Georgeopoulos!" And Dumiri answered "Here!" Then "Vladimir Slavinsky! Step three paces to the front. For we wantin' you to join us in a little Heine hunt!"

"Garibaldi Ravelli!" Garibaldi was to share. And "Ole Axel Kettelson! and Thomas Sculp-the-bear." Who was a Choctaw by inheritance, Fred in the land and bones. But set down in army records by the name of Thomas Jones.

"Van Winkle Schuyler Stayvesant." Van Winkle was a loud. From the ancient tree of Stayvesant and had it in his blood;

"Don Miguel Colombo." Don Miguel's son of kin. Were across the Rio Grande when Don Miguel went in. O'Leary's "O'Sheridan." O'Leary's sire, you see. Had been at Appomattox near the famous apple tree;

And "Patrick Michael O'Leary." Patrick Michael, you can tell. Was a fighting man by nature with three fighting names as well. "Joe Wheeler Lee!" And Joseph had a pair of fighting eyes; And his granddaddy was a Johnny, as perhaps you might surmise. Then "Robert Bruce MacPherson." And the Yankee squad was done. With "Isaac Ahie Cohen" once a lightweight champion.

Then O'Leary paced 'em forward and says he: "You Yanks, fall in!" And he marched them to the captain, "Let the skirmishin' begin." Says he, "The Yanks are comin', and you beat 'em if you can!" And saluted like a soldier and a first-class fighting man!

BAPTIST NEWS

The union services for the next three weeks will be held in the meeting house of the First Baptist Church. Last Wednesday evening an account was given of the large foreign mission conference at East Northfield which was attended by a large delegation from this church. On Sunday morning the Pastor will begin a series of six talks on "The Christian Life as the Life Worth While." The subject of the first talk will be "The Life that Spans Two Worlds."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Most men are more prompt about paying a grudge than a debt.

Empty compliments and senseless abuse are on an equal footing.

The average girl finds it difficult to explain why she loves one man more than another.

A stitch in time may save a hole in the hosiery.

A man's ability should be rated by what he finishes and not by what he attempts.

Dog days are here.

A Saturday afternoon without a ball game on Manchester Field does not seem natural.

At this season many amateur gardeners—and other gardeners—have a surplus of vegetables. At such times they should not forget the Home for Aged People.

The price of coal has risen in Winchester, but is still selling at Boston prices, notwithstanding the additional freight rate. It is reported that there is a scarcity here already.

The announcement that Representative William A. Kneeland will seek reelection to the Legislature opens the field to other aspirants for the office. Representative Kneeland has made an efficient man at the State House and has ably cared for his district at all times.

Mr. Frederick N. Kerr is still in the race for the State Treasuryship notwithstanding the soldier candidates. His nomination papers are being circulated by his friends, and he will doubtless receive more than the necessary quantity of names to place him on the ballot.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Winchester, Mass., July 18, 1919.
To the Citizens of Winchester:—

For a long time I have received from one to six anonymous letters a week complaining of something that the writer thinks I should attend to. I used to investigate every one of these complaints till I found out that nearly all of them were the result of a neighborhood quarrel or some personal feeling, and were usually without any basis of fact. I always welcome any complaint or information that will aid me in keeping our town clean and well kept and I never betray the source of my information and no further attention paid to them, but all anonymous letters are put into the waste basket as soon as read.

Every complaint, no matter how trivial, is promptly investigated if it bears the writer's signature, but it is a waste of postage to send me anonymous letters. Yesterday I received a well written and well worded letter from "A Friend" telling me that the sanitary conditions at a certain dairy farm in town are not what they should be, that the utensils are not sterilized and that the two grades of milk sold by the dealer complained of differed only in price and label. I happen to know that the sanitary conditions at the barn are satisfactory, that the utensils are sterilized, and that the two grades of milk are not drawn from the same cows.

If "A Friend" had signed her name I should write her a personal letter explaining what I know and how I know it. As it is, her letter with several others received this week are reposing in my waste basket.

CLARENCE J. ALLEN,
Health Officer.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

A four-year-old youngster is visiting his grandparents this summer. He is rather inclined to take in everything that goes on, and sometimes the information thus acquired comes out in a startling way.

His grandmother has recently been giving him 2 cents a day to pick up the apples which fall beneath a tree by the house. The other morning he came in with his basket and said: "Grandma, I must have 4 cents each day I pick up apples now; you know everything is going up." The "walk-out" is yet to come.

IN MEMORY OF MAHLON W. DENNETT

Dr. Daniel C. Dennett has had printed and sent to his friends this week a memorial to his son, Corporal Mahlon W. Dennett, who died Aug. 10, 1918, from the result of wounds received in battle.

The booklet, while simple in the extreme, is most excellent in its compilation and will prove a cherished memento to the many friends of the young man. It contains some sixteen pages, giving an account of the action in which he received his wounds, a number of his letters home and an excellent picture of him in his uniform.

An extract from the memorial may prove of interest to many friends:

Corp. Mahlon W. Dennett, son of Dr. D. C. Dennett of Winchester, Mass., died in France, August 10, 1918, of wounds received in the Battle of Chateau Thierry. He was among the first to volunteer for service in the army, joining Battery B of the Second Massachusetts Regiment, later becoming a member of Battery F, 102nd Field Artillery of the 26th Division. He enlisted from the Lowell Textile School where he was a third year student, studying the art of textile dyeing. His knowledge of chemistry helped him in his study of gas warfare and he was appointed gas officer of his battery, which position he held at the time he was wounded. Lieut. A. L. Gustafson, formerly of Battery F, said in a letter delivered on January 25th at Lowell, Mass.: "It was Dennett's job to protect the Battery from gas. He did this in such an effective manner that during the whole time that this was his charge there was not one casualty in Battery F, on account of gas."

On the afternoon of July 24, while the battery was entrenching behind a wood, about a mile from Chateau Thierry, they were discovered by an enemy airplane and soon shells were falling among them; one exploding near Dennett, partially buried him in the earth and flying fragments broke both his legs, his right arm, wounded him in the chest, and cut off the ends of the fingers of his left hand. Leslie J. Burke, first class private, of Medford, Mass., attached to the Medical Department of the regiment, was the first to reach him to administer first aid. He was placed upon a stretcher and Burke with other brave comrades carried him half a mile back under terrific shell fire to a dressing station. Burke, who was cited for his bravery in succoring the wounded under fire, said, "I never carried a braver man." An ambulance carried him to Mobile Hospital, No. 2, and later he was taken to Evacuation Hospital, No. 7, where he died of sepsis. His fortitude and courage prolonged his life for more than two weeks, during which he suffered severely from multiple wounds and vain surgical operations.

Three days after he was wounded he dictated a short, brave letter to his father in which he said, "I am out of luck. I have been wounded, but expect to come out O. K. By September I expect to be doing something back of the lines in France, or I may be coming home. He refused to believe his wounds were mortal and he did his best against awful odds, displaying that fearless spirit which, his comrades say, he manifested in the previous battles fought by the gallant 26th Division.

His friends at home heard that he was wounded soon after it happened, but for many weeks no information could be obtained from the War Department or any other source concerning the result of his wounds. After months of effort it was definitely ascertained through the Red Cross that he had died in Evacuation Hospital, No. 7, on August 10th. Later the War Department announced that this report was true. The Home Communication Bureau of the Red Cross in Washington, stated their records in France showed that on August 12 a letter was written to his father, announcing his son's death. The letter was never received.

A memorial service was held at the home of his father in Winchester in the late afternoon of the last day of the year. It was conducted by the Rev. D. A. Newton and the Rev. Wm. I. Lawrence, who both knew him as neighbors and friends in his boyhood days. The service was simple, impressive and beautiful. A brief account of it is given, with extracts from his letters read by Mr. Newton, which is a tribute to him who gave his life so willingly and so bravely in the service of his country.

M. G. COMPANY NOTES

Camp Baneroff

In the rain, Tuesday, July 22. The company arrived in camp Saturday at 2:30—first company in camp, as usual. Lieut. Willett had charge of transporting the company. Details under Stable Sergt. Dutton. Sergt. Dearborn and Sergt. Richardson preceded the main body and had picket line and mess supply tent all ready.

Camp Baneroff is an ideal camp, laid out strictly according to army regulations. The parade ground is fine, streets are wide and all arrangements ideal. A Y. M. C. A. tent provides amusement for the men, with movies every night and a comprehensive athletic program, and a regimental canteen provides the necessary supplements to the simple army fare.

Cooks Thompson and Tibbets are doing nifty and the boys are putting on weight. Some very efficient K. P.'s have been developed.

The M. G. company does not furnish a detail to the main guard, but provides a stable guard of Corporal and three privates to guard the company picket line, and headquarters stable. Corporals Mason, Bennett and Johnson have acted as corporals of the guard to date, each man taking 24 hours.

The general health of the company is excellent. Aside from the usual number of sore fingers and troubles attendant upon over indulgence in soft drinks and ice cream, nothing serious has developed. Capt. Robt. Guild of Norwood street is here in command of the Ambulance Company.

Winchester's reputation for good baseball is being upheld by the Machine Gun Company men. Yesterday they defeated Company I of Waltham the score 18 to 6. Battery for Winchester: pitcher, Private Callahan; catcher, Private March.

Monday the Regiment was photographed on the Parade grounds. A separate picture was taken of the Machine Gun Company.

The Inspecting Officer Monday was Lieut. Col. Bengon, Inspector General M. S. G. Co. He picked as the best tent in the street that occupied by Sergts Rivinius and Black.

Sergt. John Johnson was compelled to return to business Monday night. Corporal Mason is furloughed from Monday noon to Tuesday night.

This is the way the tents line up in the Company street:

Tent 2—1st Sergt. Barr.

Tent 3—Sergts Dearborn and Dutton.

Tent 5—Equipment.

Tent 6—Sergts Richardson and A. Johnson.

Tent 7—Privates Ross, McElhinney, Woods and A. Smith.

Tent 8—Corporal Bennett, Privates Court Callahan and March.

Tent 9—Gourley, McArron, Kelley.

Tent 11—Privates Maloney, Delaney and O'Melia.

Tent 12—Corporal Getty, Privates Hammond and McHugh.

Tent 13—Privates Saunders, Watt and MacNeilly.

Tent 14—Privates Dempsey, McGuerty and Tarnbull.

Tent 15—Corporal Mason, Privates Donaghy and Shaughnessy.

Tent 17—Sergts Black and Rivinius.

MRS. MARY A. RONCO

Mrs. Mary A. Ronco, widow of the late Joseph Ronco, died on Thursday of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Doane, 22 Lakeview road. She was 77 years of age and was formerly a well known resident of Arlington.

Funeral services were held from the residence on Saturday afternoon at 2:45, largely attended by friends from neighboring towns and cities, and including a delegation from Loyal Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Charlestown, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Leighton of Boston officiated and selections were rendered by a quartette. The burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Arlington.

MRS. GEORGE McFEEDERS

Mrs. Isabelle McFeeders, wife of Mr. George McFeeders of 20 Arthur street, died at the Winchester Hospital Sunday. She was 29 years of age and leaves besides her husband, three children.

Funeral services were held from the Church of the Epiphany, on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. S. Parker. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

A horse owned by the Richardson Market got into difficulties on Appalacian road Wednesday requiring considerable work to extricate him. The driver left the horse on the weight. The animal started and cramped the wagon and ended by falling down and becoming entangled in the harness when he kicked. There was no damage other than a broken harness.

What is a Call for "Anyone"?

The distinction between a person-to-person call and a station-to-station call is indicated by their names. In the former, you ask the toll operator to call some designated Person and get him on the line; in the latter, you simply ask the toll operator to connect you with his telephone.

The latter form of toll call is simpler and quicker to handle; therefore, it costs only about three-fourths as much as the person-to-person call. It can be employed to advantage if it is reasonably certain that the person wanted will be at the other end of the line, or, in the event of his absence, if the business to be discussed with him can be transacted with anyone else there.

Examples of station-to-station method of giving a toll call:

"Bangor 3265-W—Anyone."
"23 Green Street, Manchester, N. H.—Anyone."
"Residence of Joseph Brown, Burlington, Vt.—Anyone."
"John Smith's telephone, Pittsfield, Mass.—Anyone."
"Robinson Machine Co., Springfield, Mass.—Anyone."

Star Was Welcome to Soldier Under Fire in France

We print below extracts from two letters from Lieut. Robert M. Hamilton of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hamilton of Vine street. Lieut. Hamilton is in charge of the big salvage depot at Lambazelle, near Brest, France. He tells of the eagerness with which the STAR is received and of an interesting incident connected with the home paper. His description of the station under his charge is also of interest to his many friends.

Lambazelle, Brest, June 28, 1919.
A. P. O. 716, A. E. F.

Dear Mother and all:
Received four letters yesterday from the States, but none from Winchester. Had one from Alice, and so got some news.

Today is the day that the Germans are to sign the Peace, and the French are making a real holiday out of it, but I should think it would be better to wait and see if they really do sign, they have refused so many times. I can see busy times for us if they do sign for the Army of Occupation will be shooting through here very fast. After that we will all go home.

Two days ago I received a bundle of papers from Dottie and yesterday another bundle from Winchester. I certainly devoured them as they were the first ones I have had for ever so long. In all the long months I have been away from home the STAR has always been the most welcomed of any papers that I have received. Wish you would have Pa tell Price how much I have looked forward to his paper. In that regard I have a little story to tell that might be of interest to Price. Sometime ago about the first of May a fellow from Winchester went through Brest and I met him—his name has slipped my mind. He was a fellow I had not known at home. He was telling me of last fall when his division went into the trenches to relieve another outfit; on going into the dug-out assigned to his squad he noticed a newspaper lying on the rough table, upon close examination he found that it was a copy of the Winchester STAR.

And although the shots were flying pretty thickly around him he spent a very pleasant half-hour reading news from his home town. Some other Winchester boy had occupied the same trench before him.

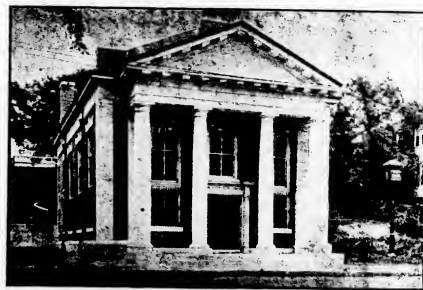

We are having wonderful weather now, not terribly hot, just about the kind of weather Dottie would like, of course you and I could stand much warmer weather.

All the boys here are looking forward to going home to see sweet and of course I am one of them, even though some of us do not get out of the Army at once, in fact I am not in any hurry to be discharged myself, especially as long as the prices of things stay as high as they are now, and it may be a hard thing for me to get a job with as much pay and as many privileges as I now have, although I think if I am worth as much as I am getting from the Government, I am worth that much to somebody in civilian life.

Am very sorry that I will not be home for the 4th but hope to be home by the first or 10th of August. Write

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Vinal of Glen road are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Foster Baird of Louisville, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Underwood have returned from Dixie, N. S., where they were guests at Lour Lodge.

Miss Laurence Eppstein of Orange, New Jersey, is the guest of Mrs. Lucius Smith at her home on Dix terrace.

Miss Ella M. Emerson has been spending a week at the National Girl Scout Training Camp, at Long Pond, Plymouth, Mass.

Esther and Virginia Hutchinson have been spending the month with their aunt, Mrs. M. E. Abbott, who is at Drake's Island, Me., for the summer.

Misses Katharine and Barbara Pike leave on Friday for a visit to Wild Harbor, North Falmouth. They will be guests of the Misses Frances and Rosamond Downer.

Mrs. J. L. Lutes and family of Vine street are spending at the home of her parents at Hillsboro, New Brunswick. Later they will be joined by Mr. Lutes for a few weeks.

Among the Winchester people who have been spending the last few weeks at the Pines in Cotuit are Mrs. Philip Rolden and daughter, Mrs. Joseph W. Butler and son, Miss Constance Lane and Mrs. Clifford Mason and son.

Private Dwight L. Fiske, who has been across for a year with the 2nd Corps Artillery Park, returned to New York July 6th. He is the owner of four stars, which show he took part in battles in four of the big sectors.

The heat and humidity during the past week made the weather the most disagreeable thus far this summer. The heavy rain Tuesday and Wednesday caused many houses to develop unexpected leaks and placed a heavy tax on the surface drainage system. Winchester was fortunate in not suffering any damage from the water, owing to the efficient work of the street department.

NOTICE

Due to breaking open of lockers and misuse of property in the Shub Shub Gah Canoe Club, Bacon street, by persons evidently without right to use the premises, it has become necessary for the protection of members in good standing of the Winchester Boat Club and of the Shub Shub Gah Club to change the lock on the main door of the house. Members of the two clubs should apply for keys to H. F. Wallace, 15 Lawson road, Winchester.

often and don't forget that I am thinking of you all at home all the time. Send my love to you all, especially mother.

Bob.

May 17, 1919.

Dear Mother:
Another week gone by and another week nearer home. The good weather that we are having now kind of gives us all the "Want to go home feeling" even more strongly than we have had before.

I am getting to be a regular speaker, talker, in other words. I have so many visitors coming here all the time that it takes a good deal of my time showing them around and explaining everything. They are most all big army men so it has to be done, and I rather enjoy it as it brings me in touch with a lot of them that I would never otherwise meet.

If you would like me to I will write a few of the things that I say so many times during the week. In other words I will take you on a personally conducted tour through the American Salvage Repair Shops, Lambazelle, France.

"Gentlemen, this building is the Shoe Repair Shop. The shoes after being taken from the soldiers at the near-by camp are brought here on the little shuttle railroad that you see running beside the building. In this corner the shoes are first sorted. The shoes for Salvage—in other words the shoes that cannot be repaired are thrown out, to be taken later to the Base Salvage Office and sold to the French.

"The shoes to be repaired are washed in this machine, in a 5 per cent solution of Cresol and dried on the racks at the back. From here they go through the different processes of being repaired; new soles, heels, patches put on and the like. All the machines are American made and a great many being United Shoe Machines. Our output is 1500 pairs of shoes a day, our capacity being 3500.

The greatest difficulty is in getting machine parts which all have to be sent from the States, therefore in waiting for these parts machines are held up and the production is lowered. After being examined and inspected the shoes are sent back to the camp for reuse.

"This building at the back is the sorting house. All the underwear, bedclothes and O. D. clothing are brought here first and sorted in like piles, that part that cannot be repaired is hurried up and sold for rags, the other parts which have to be sent from the States, therefore in waiting for these parts machines are held up and the production is lowered. After being examined and inspected the shoes are sent back to the camp for reuse.

"This end of the building is used for the laundry. All the clothing is washed and dried before going to be repaired. This laundry is up-to-date, as you can well see, and the machines are of the latest type. Take for instance the mangle; it is a 120 inch machine, much wider than most mangles to be found in the laundries in the States; its cost to the Government is $25,000. The Officer in charge of this laundry and the enlisted men working here all belong to a Laundry Company, who are all well experienced in this sort of work. They have all attended the Laundry School held in the States by the Government.

"From the laundry the clothes all go through the repair shop, where they are sewed, buttons put on, pressed, sized and tied up in bundles to be sent back for reuse. The laundry is running all the time with three shifts working eight hours each. Each shift puts through from eight thousand to ten thousand garments. For a day of three shifts they account about twenty-eight thousand pieces.

"The repair shop finishes from fifteen to eighteen thousand pieces a day. The average output of work per employees is 381 garments per day."

Well, I guess that will be enough for today Mother, and hope it won't tire you reading all this junk. Tomorrow I have to pay the French girls. I pay them every 15 days; they get 6 francs a day, 36 francs a week. We do not work Sundays. That is about a dollar a day, as the exchange for a dollar now is 6.05 francs.

Am going to look hard for a letter from home to-morrow. Love to all. Tell Pa that I have plenty of souvenirs, but think it is safer to bring them home with me than to send them by mail. From your loving son, Bob.

From reports we are soon to have another shanty in the center, this to be erected for the protection of the electric car switchman at the railroad crossing.

Gertrude Perry, the little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Perry of Wilmington and grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Littlefield of Highland avenue, was operated upon last week for appendicitis at the Winchester Hospital.

The operation was successful although the child's condition was serious, and a rapid convalescence is anticipated.

A horse owned by Joe Pino of East Cambridge created some excitement in the neighborhood of Highland avenue Sunday afternoon when it galloped from the North Reservoir to the centre with an empty cart.

The driver had alighted from the cart, the horse in the fells, allowing the horse to feel by the roadside. The animal became frightened and made off. It was captured in the centre and no damage was done.

Mr. Alban A. Beauchamp of Cutting street was a victim of the big oil fire on Massachusetts avenue and Baylston street on Friday afternoon of last week to the extent of the loss of his Overland runabout. Fifteen autos were burned when oil which pooled the streets after a collision of an army truck and an oil truck became ignited. The Miss Frances J. Elder who was internally injured in the accident was not Miss Francis A. Elder of this town.

Mr. James M. Flinn of Dix terrace was in town over the week-end, coming from Mystic, Conn., where he is located. Mr. John H. Flinn left last week for Chicago, and will be followed within a short time by Mrs. Flinn. They will make their future home there.

The rain last Saturday morning looked so threatening that the management of the base ball team decided to postpone the afternoon match with the Melford K. of C. HONOR ROLL DEDICATED

Impressive Ceremony Before Large Audience at St. Mary's Church Sunday

There has been a falling in the vociferous of St. Mary's church, what is regarded as one of the really artistic of the smaller memorials of the great war. Fittingly, this commemorative work, records the proud circumstance, that from this parish alone went out almost 300 of its young men in the service of the country.

Impressive dedication services were held at the church on Sunday evening before an audience which taxed the capacity of the edifice.

The exercises were seriously impressive and had a semi-military as well as a religious character, through the presence of a large delegation of service men who were seated in the middle aisle with the members of the Holy Name Society of the parish.

The procession to the altar was headed by the cross, flanked on either side by the American and the parish flag, borne by service men in uniform. The cross was carried by Dr. Richard W. Shady, the American flag by George Glendon and the parish service flag by George Letting, Jr. The banner of the Holy Name Society was carried by Eugene M. Danahy of the church, escorted by Arthur M. Cullen and Howard T. Moffett.

Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt pastor of St. Mary's parish, was preceded by a dozen altar boys in red and white and a score of little girls in white. He recited the rosary after the opening of the services with the singing of "Ave, Creator."

The American flag was posted at the epistle side with the Holy Name banner, and the service flag on the gospel side of the sanctuary, with the cross in the middle, during the sermon.

Rev. Fr. Theodore Metcalf of Boston, who recently observed his 50th anniversary in the priesthood, gave a short sermon on "Patriotism and Religion."

Sermon

My dear friends, It is a great happiness to be here at this time. It seems to me that the voices of our Catholics should be raised most reverently in saluting these, the Stars and Stripes, in the presence of the Master of the World. There is no expression of feeling to describe our love for our flag. There is no true American who is at the same time a true Catholic who does not feel that his duty to God and man is to die for his flag if necessary. Therefore, I say to you, my dear brethren, we are gathered this evening, to honor and bless this beautiful monument which has been put up in memory of the men who served their country in the great war.

It is a great thought whether our patriotism is inspired from the heart

MACHINE GUN COMPANY NOTES

The company returned from its annual tour of duty Saturday evening after seven busy but profitable days at Camp Barcroft. Every man came home in good condition, happy and tanned and almost without exception wishing the tour had been longer.

The Company officers were especially enthusiastic about the work of the new recruits. A splendid spirit was manifested throughout the week and the young men more than lived up to the reputation established by the older men who attended last year's camp at Framingham. Captain Tompkins did not hesitate to express his gratification and pride. The boys certainly upheld the honor of Winchester and their regiment. They were worked hard but came through with flying colors.

We shall anticipate with interest the official report of Lieut. Col. Benyon, Inspector General of the Mass. State Guard, who was attached to the regiment as inspector officer during the entire week. Col. Benyon is a veteran of many years' experience. He was everywhere, saw everything, paid much attention to the Machine Gun company and undoubtedly will make a comprehensive report worth reading.

One of the most interesting events at camp took the form of a war problem worked out by the Winchester Machine Gun Company and a battalion (4 companies) of infantry led by Major Vaughn. The task set the M. G. Company was to prevent the superior force of infantry from gaining a certain road to cross an exposed open ground. Capt. Tompkins divided his company into two platoons under Lieut. Hovey and Lieut. W. Lett respectively and sent a platoon (with two machine guns) to each side.

TRADERS' DAY WEDNESDAY

Housewives Should Lay In Provisions As Merchants Go to Nantasket Next Wednesday, August 6th, is Traders' Day.

Housewives should lay in a stock of provisions the day before as every store in town will be closed while the merchants and their friends take their annual outing to Nantasket Beach. It is estimated that the party this year will be the largest which has yet attended a similar outing.

The trip to Boston will be made by train or electric, to suit the individual, and the whole party will take the 9:15 boat for the beach. Tickets for the outing may be obtained at the following stores:

J. C. Sullivan's Barber Shop
Hersey Hardware Store
Pine Brothers
Scher's Market
Ames' Store

Members of the Committee.
Tickets from Boston and return will cost 50 cents and are good on any boat. Children under 12 years of age will be taken at 30 cents each, but these tickets will be sold at the boat only.

It is planned that the return be made on the 7 p. m. boat.

At the party the party will enjoy the bathing machine, attractions and a program of sports including the following features:

Potato Race
Egg Race
Three-legged Race
Relay Race
100-yard Dash.

It is planned to hold the usual base ball game between the married and single men, provided a suitable ball field can be obtained. This necessity being rather scarce owing to previous hotel reservations. The indoor base ball, however, of which there will be a number of games, will be run off on the beach.

The committee in charge includes the following members:

J. Albert Hersey, Everett A. Smith, Transportation.
Edward A. Wolloff, Sewall E. Newman, J. C. Sullivan, Sports.

Herbert Wadsworth, Jr., Publicity.
The usual prizes will be awarded the winners of the events, as well as to those qualifying in a list of special features to be announced at the beach.

REPRESENTATIVE KNEELAND'S STATEMENT

Winchester, Mass., July 26, 1919.
Editor of the "Star."

I have decided, with much regret, that proper attention to the duties of my profession as an attorney demands that I shall not be a candidate for reelection to the Legislature this fall, and I make announcement of my decision at the close of this year's session in order that candidates may present themselves in time to file their papers.

I wish to express my deep appreciation to the voters of the 25th Middlesex district for so greatly honoring me with three successive elections to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, which responsibility confided by them in me I have endeavored to fulfill to the best of my ability, and I am naturally much gratified at their continued confidence after my three years of service, evidenced by their apparent desire that all precedents should be broken and I should represent the district for the fourth year without opposition as I have heard of no candidates.

In leaving the public service, I assure all my constituents that I shall lose none of my interest in the welfare of the district, and I hope I shall have frequent opportunity to manifest it.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM A. KNEELAND.

OFFICE IN BROWN BLOCK
American Legion Opens Rooms in Centre Monday

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Winchester Post, American Legion, Tuesday evening, it was decided to avail themselves of the offer made by Mr. Harry W. Brown to open headquarters in the Brown block over Allen's store, and temporary headquarters will be opened here beginning next Monday.

These headquarters will be open every week day evening from 7:30 to 9:30. Application may be made, men out of employment may register and other league activities will receive attention.

The committee also adopted a set of by-laws and the constitution, this being done under the authority vested in it at the last general meeting of the League. The sub-committee in charge of this included Messrs. W. Minot Hurl, Francis Wyman and Loring P. Gleason.

RI NAWAY AUTO

Big Sedan Hove Stunts About Centre Before Crowd

A big crowd in the centre saw a real motor exhibition Wednesday noon when the big Chandler sedan of Mr. F. B. Reynolds of Fitchburg did stunts all over Main street and the Putnam church lawn.

It appears the car was left unoccupied in front of the Hutchinson Market on Main street. Desiring to run his delivery truck out of the building, Martin Connolly, one of the Hutchinson chauffeurs, got into the sedan to release the brake so he claims. Instead of releasing the brake he got hold of the clutch and put in the reverse, and as the engine was running, the car started briskly off backward toward Medford.

Connolly could not make connections in stopping it and circled the street as far as the bridge, when a chauffeur jumped on the running board and stopped the car. He told Connolly how to operate it and Connolly started in to try again.

He was about as successful as he was at his first attempt, for the car started backward at a 20 mile clip. It circled from one side of the street to the other; backed over the curb and sidewalk at the Unitarian church, backed over the lawn, just missing a tree, smashed into the large glass sign on the corner, scraped a telegraph pole and finally got into the street again. It was running merrily up the Main street hill when John J. Gorman of the fire department, who was on his piazza, ran out and made a flying leap on the running board and in a jiffy had the power shut off. Connolly was much relieved.

Meanwhile Robert A. Reynolds, who was driving the car with his mother, heard of the commotion while in the Hutchinson Market and ran out and after the car. With him was officer Danahy of the Police Department. The two would almost get a hand on the car, when Connolly in his indignation would step on her and away it would go. This happened several times, and although the two would almost touch the auto, it would suddenly spurt away from them.

All these stunts were done while the car was running in reverse, and it is a wonder that Connolly could steer it as well as he did. The fun was witnessed by a big crowd in the centre, which certainly got its fill of thrills before the show was over.

The car was somewhat damaged, the rear end being knocked out of true and the paint damaged. There appears to be some question as to whether Connolly intended to run the car or simply release the brake, and it is said that the car should not have been left with the engine running.

RAIN CAUSES GAME POSTPONEMENT

Owing to the rain, which would have made cool playing impossible, the game scheduled at Winchester between the Wakefield and Winchester teams was postponed until next Saturday, when the teams will meet at Manchester Field in that town.

Rain started falling about the time the Wakefield team arrived at the grounds and, after waiting until near four o'clock, Manager McKenney of the Winchester team decided to call the game off. This proved good judgment, as the heavy rain later would not have permitted the game to be finished. Next Saturday's game is expected to draw the largest crowd that has attended a game at Winchester this year.—[Wakefield Item.]

SCHOOL NEWS

Good examples of children's gardens of three different types, this summer, are those of George and Harvey Mitchell on Highland avenue, of Francis Oakley on Main street and Clarence Anderson on Mystic place. The first is really a series of small gardens, where every available space has been used; the second is one where incessant care is needed to keep down weeds, and the third represents a small but well kept backyard garden where not a weed dars show itself.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Thomas H. Barrett reports the sale of the estate of Mrs. Gertrude N. Barnes, 37 Calmar road, consisting of a modern 12-room house and over 15,000 feet of land; the purchaser is Leslie L. Hartwell of Revere.

Mr. Barrett also reports the leasing of one-half of the double house of Mrs. Lizzie E. Furber, 102 Church street, to Mr. Frank R. Miller of Brookline, formerly of this town.

NEW SCHOOL TEACHERS

Principal of Wadleigh and Teachers of Other Buildings Announced

The Wadleigh School Principals have been filled by the appointment of Mr. Leonard E. Pinkham of Fitchburg, Mass. Mr. Pinkham is a graduate of the Fitchburg High School, and of the Fitchburg Normal School, class of 1914. In 1914-15 he was Principal of an elementary school in South Yarmouth, in 1915-16 he was Principal in Danvers, in 1916 he became Principal of the Junior High School, connected with the Keene, N. H. Normal School. In February, 1918, he entered the Aviation Service and about a year later was discharged with the rank of Second Lieutenant.

For the remainder of the school year of 1918-19 he was Principal of the Yarmouth, Mass. High School.

This summer, he is now taking professional work at the Columbia University Summer School. Mr. Pinkham was selected from about forty different candidates, and comes with the highest recommendations.

Mr. Walter F. Hall has been appointed history teacher in the High School, to take the position held last year by Mrs. Lida Perkins. Mr. Hall received an A. B. Degree from Harvard in 1909 and an A. M. in 1910. He has taught in Clinton High School, and the Newton Technical High School, and in the Salem High School in 1918 to enter military service. He was sent overseas, and during the latter part of his service acted as instructor of American History at the A. E. F. University in Baume. He was discharged in July 1918 with the Reserve Officers rank of First Lieutenant.

Miss Camilla Moses of Natick has been appointed to teach Latin in the High School. Miss Moses is a Wellesley graduate and has taught Latin in the Wakefield High School several years with marked success.

Miss Marion Parkhurst of Auburn, Mass., has been appointed Supervisor of Physical Instruction in the Winchester High School, and grades. She is a graduate of the Boston School of Physical Education, class of 1917 and has been for the past two years Supervisor of Physical Instruction in the schools of Danvers, where she has had supervision of about two thousand children.

TOWN OF WINCHESTER SELECTMEN'S MEETING

The Board met at 8:10 P. M. present, Messrs. Cox, Emerson, Newman and Simonds. In the absence of the Chairman, Mr. Newman was chosen Chairman, pro-tem.

Bacon Street and Bacon Street Bridge. The Town Engineer reported that he had talked with Mr. Kendall, Engineer for the Middlesex County Commissioners, in regard to alterations and repairs to the Bacon Street Bridge and Bacon Street in the vicinity of the bridge. The Town Engineer presented a draft of two petitions, which he suggests be sent to the Middlesex County Commissioners. As this is a matter which should come before the special committee appointed by the town to report on the condition of Bacon Street Bridge, the matter was laid over until such time as a meeting of this special committee is called by its Chairman, Mr. Kidder.

Town Hall Building. G. A. R. Hall, Town Hall Building, G. A. R. Hall, Mr. Emerson reported that Commander Brookings, of the A. D. Weld Post 144, G. A. R., had stated to him that the American Legion, Winchester Branch wanted a hall in which they could meet and that the Weld Post had offered their hall for the use of this organization, provided the Board approved of the action. As there is some doubt as to whether the hall would be large enough, and as to whether certain legal regulations could be lived up to if the hall is used for this purpose, the matter was referred to Messrs. Emerson and Simonds of the Board, for report.

Licenses 1919 Common Victualers. A license of this class, approved by the Chief of Police, was granted to John L. Sauter, at 529 Main Street, Winchester. This license is effective until May 1, 1920, unless sooner revoked by the Board.

Eastern Mass. Street Railway. A letter was received from Mr. Ellis, Manager of the Bay State Railway Company, now the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, acknowledging the Board's letter, which approved the plans submitted by Mr. Ellis, for the proposed Star's Booth in Winchester Centre.

Railroad Avenue. Mr. Emerson reported that Mr. Kelley, of the Kelley & Hayes Company had called his attention to certain repairs which ought to be made on Railroad Avenue. Although this street is a private way, it

MEDFORD CANDIDATE IN FIELD

Editor of the Star
July 28, 1919.

In the 25th Middlesex Representative District, comprising the Town of Winchester and Ward 3 of Medford, Mr. Keeneland of Winchester, who has just completed a third term, announces that he is not a candidate for re-election.

Believing that Medford may fairly be said to be entitled to the next representative, I announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination at the primaries, September 23rd.

RICHARD B. COOLIDGE
7 Hastings Lane, W. Medford, Mass.

In 1897, the Town of Winchester, and Wards 3 and 6 of Medford, were first combined in the 12th Middlesex Representative District, and from 1907 to 1916 they constituted the 25th District. During these twenty years the number of legal voters in Winchester and in the two wards in Medford were not greatly disproportionate, and by what amounts to common agreement, Winchester furnished a representative ten years and Medford ten years.

In the redistribution of 1916, the 25th Middlesex Representative District was created and comprises the Town of Winchester and Ward 3 of Medford. In the present district the number of voters in Winchester exceeds those in Ward 3 of Medford in the proportion of about three to one.

In the present district, Winchester has furnished the representative for the last three years. In the last seven years Winchester men have served six.

It is sometimes said that representation between the two parts of a district ordinarily should be in proportion to the voters in the respective parts of the district. Upon this view of the situation it seems that the next representative from the 25th District might fairly come from Ward 3 of Medford.

Very truly yours,
Richard B. Coolidge.

KERR WILL RUN

Frederick N. Kerr of Lakeside road announced this week that he is in the race for State Treasurer for keeps. In a statement given out Saturday Mr. Kerr says he has no intentions of withdrawing and considers his standing in the race for nomination as good as that of the other two candidates. It is reported that Mr. Kerr is as well qualified to fill the position as any one yet brought forward.

BREAK NETTED $100

House breakers visited Winchester this week for the first time in several months, entering the residence of Willard Hudson on Winthrop street extension. They entered by smashing the glass over a window catch on the piazza.

The house is occupied by Mrs. Hudson this summer and she left it Monday forenoon at 11 o'clock, going to the home of her mother, Mrs. B. F. Blank, nearby. She returned at 4:30 and found that a traveling bag, a considerable quantity of her silk underwear and a number of her husband's shirts had been taken.

The police were notified and are working on the case. Although there were other articles of value in the house which the thieves could easily have taken they were not touched.

MORE OVERSEAS BOYS HOME

Another group of Winchester soldiers returned home this week, having received their discharge from the army. These boys were of the army of occupation, and spent several months in Germany; Harold Elliott of Linden street, Willard Hudson of Myrtle terrace and Thomas McKee have all been discharged from Camp Devens and Stanley Mohls is from Fort Des Moines, awaiting his discharge.

SOLEMN HIGH MASS FOR WINCHESTER SOLDIERS

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Mary's church at 8:30 Monday morning, for the repose of the souls of the 10 men of the parish who gave their lives while in the service during the war. Rev. Fr. Theodore Metcalf was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, deacon, and Rev. Fr. Francis E. Rogers, subdeacon. A large congregation of parishioners attended the mass, including relatives of the dead service men. There were 16 in all from Winchester who died, and of this number 10 were members of St. Mary's parish.

BASE BALL TOMORROW

We had another Saturday without baseball, but the same teams will try and stage a game tomorrow. Wakefield brought a strong team here last Saturday, and Manager Dingwell says he will bring the same here tomorrow. Of course with McMahon in the box we are bound to have a good game anyway you take it. We will have a new 1st baseman and a new outfielder, one who can hit and field. Jim Connolly, the great mile runner, was to play last Saturday, but will not be here tomorrow as he runs at the Caledonian games for the Walter Scott trophy.

There are ten or twelve more games to be played yet so there will be plenty of base ball before the season is going to do it. I do not know what they are going to do at Woburn. I have not heard a word from them, but I have hopes that the series will start Aug. 9th at Woburn with a return game here Aug. 16th. I will know one way or the other this week for I am in touch with good teams to play here. No 12 to 0 or 14 to 0 score, either. If I do not hear from them before the end of this week I will rest easy and look up the teams I have in view.

STORY HOUR AT MANCHESTER FIELD

During August, Mrs. Powers will tell stories to the children at the playground every Wednesday morning at 10:30.

HIGH TAX RATE THIS YEAR

The prospect is that Winchester will see a considerable rise in its tax rate this year. The income tax from the State will drop from $80,000 last year to about $51,000, which will add about $1.00 to the rate. Latest estimates place the rate in the neighborhood of $22. Last year it was $20.

BUILDING PERMITS

The Inspector of Buildings has issued the following permit for the week ending July 31:

Thomas J. Fallon, of 11 Forest circle, Wood frame garage at same address, 12x17 feet.

WINCHESTER MEDALS

Winchester men who have been in the service may obtain their medals presented by the Town by applying at the STAR Office.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

The fall of squash and cucumber leaves to bear fruit is quite a common occurrence. There are three causes for this condition: lack of sunlight, fresh air and soil. To do well squashes and cucumbers should not be planted too thick or in places where they are likely to become shaded during the day. If planted thickly the leaves of the plants shade the blossoms and the plant itself, thus shutting off all sunlight and circulation of fresh air among the vines. Bees do not like to frequent such spots and as a result the majority of blossoms fail to become fertile. Thinning out the plants themselves or pruning the foliage will help to overcome this trouble.

The Spotted Pelidnota is an insect that quite a few persons have found in their gardens this year. It is a large brown beetle with several small black spots on its back. It is a very common species and is usually collected on or near grape vines. It feeds to some extent on foliage, but is not classed among our injurious species from the fact that it seldom, if ever, occurs in large numbers. No treatment is necessary usually, therefore, for its control.

There is a small caterpillar that was found last week on pole beans that seems to be important enough to warrant some attention as it had eaten many holes in the foliage. The worm belongs to the looper family as its characters indicate. It was about a half inch or more in length, very slender, and light green in color. The looper worm obtains its name of looper through its habit of doubling up, or looping as it walks. It is a very active worm and is, therefore, more difficult to control than other sluggish caterpillars. It affects all members of the cabbage family besides peas, beans, lettuce, celery, lettuce, and sometimes the potato and tomato. Spraying with arsenate of lead is the best remedy, using the poison in the proportion of four pounds of the arsenate of lead paste to fifty gallons of water.

The second brood of cabbage worms are now doing much damage throughout the country. Arsenate of lead spray should be used to control this insect when the cabbages are small. Any kind of a fine, dry, gritty substance is also effective when dusted upon the leaves. Hand-picking the worms is the most effective method of control on a small scale.

About this time of the year the first crop of string beans have been harvested or are about to be picked. If you allow the old vines to stay in the ground and give them a good cultivation they will begin to blossom again later on in the season and a second crop of beans may be obtained from them.

August is the month when thorough cultivation of the garden crops should not be neglected. Keep the spray pump working among the potatoes, for blight usually strikes the crop during the muggy weather which generally comes this month. Also it is well to begin the lookout for plant lice. Remember that "a stitch in time saves nine."

RACE RIOTS IN THE CAPITAL

To the Editor of The Star
Dear Sir:

I would appreciate very much your printing the following lines in order that the citizens of Winchester might secure a better idea concerning the placing of the blame for the recent race riots in Washington, D. C., and also that they might see that even in the capital of the nation harmony is striving in vain to enthrone herself that she might administer unto all men regardless of creed, texture of hair, and color of skin.

At the outset I would like to state that the serious rioting between whites and blacks at the capital is to be deplored. Every right-thinking white or colored man who does not deplore an outbreak between the races is dangerous to the state. A favorable attitude on any man's part toward race friction denotes plainly that his moral nature is considerably dwarfed. Such an individual will never make a contribution to the upbuilding of a nation.

The riots are said to have had their inception in brutal attacks upon white women by negro desperadoes. This allegation might be true and then it might be false. For often times the charge brought against colored men as being attackers of white women is purely malicious invention, which is the result of the Negro. On many occasions it has been proved that the real culprits were white men who disguised themselves as Negroes in order to more easily escape the clutches of Justice.

However, granting that the charges made are true, should it not appeal to every fair-minded white man in the country that the white people of Washington are responsible for the disturbances that have taken place? Could a jury of men of principle, who loved justice, uphold the action of the white men, who, because they could not apprehend the alleged colored offenders, entered drug stores and street cars, dragged innocent and inoffensive Negroes into the streets and beat them into unconsciousness? No! Men who love justice would condemn such action.

In condemning the actions of certain white men, who wantonly and maliciously perpetrated brutal attacks upon innocent colored men, I am not condoning the crimes of colored criminals. If Negroes committed the deeds they are charged with committing, if apprehended, they should be given the full penalty for their offense. If the penalty be one hundred years in jail, they should pay it, not because they are black in the capital of the nation, but because they are criminals. Justice knows no color line. The transgressor of the law should suffer. If the perpetrators of the crime are white men, they should meet the same fate, not because they are white but because they are law breakers.

What we as colored people want in this country, not that the law makers should grant us special privileges, or that Negro criminals should be allowed to escape the hand of retribution, but that the colored citizen be given ample protection and that colored criminals be punished by due process of the law, and not by blood thirsty mobs. If a Negro commits murder, let the law hang him! Let the citizens stand aside and allow the law to take its course; let them refrain from violence.

In the matter of retaliation where Negroes shot inoffensive whites, all fair-minded colored men deplore. That colored men slew white men in white women is purely malicious invention, which is the result of the Negro. On many occasions it has been proved that the real culprits were white men who disguised themselves as Negroes in order to more easily escape the clutches of Justice.

However, granting that the charges made are true, should it not appeal to every fair-minded white man in the country that the white people of Washington are responsible for the disturbances that have taken place? Could a jury of men of principle, who loved justice, uphold the action of the white men, who, because they could not apprehend the alleged colored offenders, entered drug stores and street cars, dragged innocent and inoffensive Negroes into the streets and beat them into unconsciousness? No! Men who love justice would condemn such action.

In condemning the actions of cer-

that the colored people in Washington resolved to die fighting—to sell their lives dearly—to take an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.

Many times in the past the negro died upon his knees before a gang of ruffians because he was ignorant and had been covered to the point where he was afraid to resist himself. But now all things are being relegated to the scrap heap. The Negro is growing in intelligence. With growing intelligence come interdependence, consciousness of self possibilities, which means that the race possessing those qualities is not going to submit tamely to death.

In the late war, four hundred thousand Black sons of America, boys with black faces, but possessing white hearts and red blood, black boys, loyal boys who never bowed the knee to treason, who never allowed "old glory" to trail in the dust, fought with such reckless daring upon the blood drenched fields of Europe until the crack troops of Germany fled from before them in dismay and acknowledged that they were no match for America's colored soldiers.

Are these men who fought so bravely "over there" going to submit tamely to beastly attacks of southern mobs "over here"? Never! They've learned their lesson. Like Patrick Henry, they say, "Give us liberty or give us death!"

Race rioting must cease. But it will only cease when the cause is removed. The cause is prejudice—diabolical race prejudice. The most effective way I know to destroy the effect is to remove the cause. That is an unvarnished affirmative. If a man is sitting upon a block of ice complaining about the cold effect, the best remedy I could offer him would be to change his seat. As long as he sat there, a disagreeable and unpleasant sensation would be registered in consciousness.

As long as prejudice exists there will be friction between the races. Remove it and they will dwell together in peace and harmony. Then will democracy get a chance.

The recent outbreak between the races is another blow at democracy. She is fighting for a chance. She is bleeding, agonizing in the dust, striving to arise that she might call unto the ends of the earth for every kindred and every tongue to come and rest within her beneficial embrace. She wants the opportunity to cry out to oppressed men, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Here in America, she is battered and bruised. In the boasted "Land of the Free" she is kicked and spurned. She cries piteously, "Give me a chance. Let me comfort all men!" but American race prejudice batters her helpless body, stifles the feeble cry in her throat and marches, thru the land perpetrating outrages upon men of color.

God grant that the day may come when white men of America shall rally to the call of democracy, break the arms of race prejudice, bury it in some secret grave, and shall give democracy the privilege to administer to the needs of humanity.

GENEVA: CAPITAL OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, to be the capital of the League of Nations, is described in a communication by Ralph A. Graves to the National Geographic Society, as follows:

"Seated serenely on both banks of the River Rhone, where it leaves the limpid waters of Lake Geneva as a placid stream, in contrast to the muddy turbulence of its ingress at the other end of the lake, Geneva is not the metropolis of the miniature Republic of Switzerland, for Zurich surpasses it in population by 50 per cent and Bern is the capital. But it is doubtful whether before the world war any other city of its size was visited annually by as many tourists, for it was the main gate-way into the world-famous 'playground of Europe.'"

"Although its recorded history goes back beyond the Christian era, to the time when Julius Caesar, in his commentaries on his first expedition into Gaul, mentions it as a stronghold of the Allobroges, its growth has been phenomenal only in its recentness. Today, after twenty centuries, it has less than one-third of the population of the century-old capital of the United States."

"The city enjoys the distinction of being the birthplace of the International Red Cross, but also has some dark chapters in its past—the religious excesses of the Reformation, when the persecuted became the persecutors."

"Rousseau, of whom Napoleon said, 'Without him, France had not had her Revolution,' and the patriot Bonivard, whose trials Byron immortalized as the prisoner of Chillon, were Genevans. Farel, the Billy Sunday of his day, who could not be made to desist from preaching, even though the women of his congregation dragged him up and down the aisles of the church by his beard, made the lake city his headquarters during his ascendancy. And John Calvin, who found Geneva a bear garden and left it a docile school of piety, was virtual dictator here for a quarter of a century."

"One of the most picturesque figures in the history of Geneva during this period was Francesco de Bonivard, who, when his victorious troops rushed into the city, was met by Chillon crying, 'Bonivard, you are free!' responded with the query, 'And Geneva?' Upon being assured that his city was saved, he went home rejoicing."

"By one of those curious chances upon which hinge events of monumental moment, the young French philosopher, John Calvin, a native of Picardy, passed through Geneva one evening on his way to Strasbourg. He had intended spending only one night; but Farel, hearing of his arrival, rushed to him, and, with the fiery impetuosity which characterized every act of his life, convinced Calvin that it was his obligation to stay."

"The austerity of the Calvin code presents many amusing phases to the modern reader. For example, a hair-dresser was imprisoned because he made one of his clients too beautiful. Any man who swore 'without necessity' was required to take off his hat, 'knocked down' in the place of his offense, clasp his hands, and kiss the earth. The wearing of silk or embroidered hose was prohibited; likewise the adornment of one's person with chains of silver or gold, and eating or drinking in taverns outside of the city. Hosts and hostesses were enjoined to warn their guests to be in their own lodgings 'after the trumpet sound to the watch or the ringing of the bell' (nine o'clock at night.)"

"There is no more beautiful picture of Christian charity than the scene in this city when, on August 30, 1572, merchants of Lyons brought news of the massacre of the Huguenots on St. Bartholomew's Day. Pastors were dispatched to the frontiers to meet the fugitives who were reported to be on their way to this asylum, and the venerable Theodore de Beze, who had succeeded Calvin as the spiritual head of the Council, directed the whole population to fast and pray for the sufferers."

"Geneva has set aside as a site for the permanent home of the League of Nations, a beautiful wooded park bordering on the lake some five miles from the center of the city. Behind the park tower the snow-capped Jura Mountains. While there are many villages in the vicinity of the park which are suitable for offices and for quarters of the delegates and their secretarial staffs, the capital building itself must be built."

WINCHESTER BOARD OF HEALTH

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed ten percent.

BASEBALL NEWS

by "Mack"

While I was sorry to call off the game Saturday, I could not in justice to myself have done otherwise. We have been under considerable trouble and time to collect a few dollars for a reserve fund. This fund has not reached the proportions it should have; and therefore I can not take a big loss on any game we play. This game Saturday would have drawn a big crowd with good weather, and I took a chance thereby in looking this weekend game, paying them a large guarantee for a local team, but so arranged that I stood to pay only expenses in case of rain. Let me explain how much the game stood me Saturday. My own team cost $11.00 for players; guarantee to Wakefield $25.00; umpire $7.50; police $2.00; opening school for players $1.50; balls $1.50; printing $3.00, making a total of $82 before one cent was collected. There was probably $25 or $30 at the most on the field with little prospect of any more showing up, on account of the weather and rain, so you can see when good business sense called for not playing this game, when we stood to drop over $50.00. We have been playing good teams and getting good baseball and we are also attracting the old time crowds, so tomorrow we should see another big one on hand. I will have a strong team here representing our own town and will continue to bring only the top notch teams here to play.

When the game was called here a number went up to Woburn and saw part of the game there. They said it was a very unsatisfactory game to watch owing to the rain and poor playing of the Lawley team.

Woburn has been very unfortunate in picking teams to play there, either getting a good team or some crowd who cannot play any sort of a game. The Lawley team has a big reputation, but it has been obtained through playing inferior teams. When the lineup appeared Friday in the Times, I noticed among the players quite a few who had long since seen their best days as players. I also said that Woburn should beat them, having the strongest lineup on paper. Well they surely did beat them, 12 to 0 being the score.

The Medford City team beat the Medford K. of C. 10 to 0. And this is one day when rain saved Winchester from seeing a joke game. I found out after I had booked Medford K. of C. that the team was no match for Winchester, but too late to cancel it and rain saved the day for us up here.

The Medford City team is trying to arrange a series with Winchester, and as the season here is not quite half over something may be done in that line before long. They have won the three games already played.

United Drug Co. played at Everett Saturday and forfeited to Everett 9 to 0. They would not abide by a decision of the umpire. The manager of the United Drug team acted that way here and was brought up with a quick turn by Woodlock and told to keep quiet. They tried to be a last very long when they try that kind of baseball, managers will fight shy of them.

I noticed in the Globe last week that Arlington was going to play the Carr Fastener Co. Saturday, and one of the inducements they held out was that, they would be able to arrange a series with Winchester if the crowd in Arlington supported the team. That seems to me rather a poor way to attract people to your games. If we had the stand here on Manchester Field that Arlington has, we would be able to nearly fill it every Saturday, and everyone would be glad to pay for a chance to sit down and enjoy the game.

Hood Rubber Co. will play at Woburn next Saturday and a good game should result with the Hood Co. having the call provided they bring as strong a team to Woburn as they did here. I noticed in the Star when the boss of this paper got over at a drinking party, he seemed to blame no one in particular but everyone in general. The Park Board is surely not to blame for they cannot have a man at that fountain day and night to keep hoodlums from damaging it. I also noticed that they had put an iron basin there during the week, and the chances are some one will come along with a hammer and give it a rap. The Park Board of Winchester does not deserve any criticism as far as I can see but, all the credit we can give them for the beautiful park system we have here in Winchester. If I am not writing next week you will know the boss "fired" me for not agreeing with him.

I do not ask very much from the Park Board but I do wish they would put up a wire fence, with a mesh, from the end of the Band Stand, to about 25 feet beyond the foul line in left field, to keep the balls from rolling into the river. The expense would be very small, and the benefit derived would greatly outweigh it.

WOMEN LEARNING MASSAGE.

Germantown Y. W. C. A. Trains Women for Reconstruction Work Among Soldiers.

Educational courses to prepare women as aides in the rehabilitation of wounded soldiers have been opened at the Germantown, Pa., Young Women's Christian Association.

A reconstruction massage course, lectures in anatomy, physiology, muscle work and remedial movement, massage, theory and practice, electrotherapy and hydrotherapy are given by doctors and nurses, who also supervise practical work at the Y. W. C. A. and at hospitals. The courses are recognized by the Surgeon General.

Similar courses have also been opened in the New York City Central Branch Y. W. C. A., where a specialty is made of brush making with a view to training women as teachers for reconstruction hospitals.

The Canadian Y. W. C. A. has received permission to place a Y. W. C. A. secretary on every ship leaving England with 25 or more women and children on the passenger list.

The secretary fulfills the same function for the women as the Y. W. C. A. She plans entertainments and recreation for women and children and is a friend to whom they may come if they are in distress.

Embarrassing.
"What do you think of women in politics?"
"Embarrassing," answered Miss Cuyler. "You can't be sure whether a husband and wife is better to propose to you or merely ask you for your vote."

Y.M.C.A. TRAIN SERVICE DEPT.

Serves 749,581 Members of
A. E. F. in Four Months

Great Difficulty Has Been Experienced in Properly Housing Three Quarters of a Million Men.

Boston, July.—The train Service Department of the Y.M.C.A. in Paris served 749,581 members of the A.E.F. in the first four months.

On the Train Service Department of the Y.M.C.A. devolves the duty of not only welcoming all members of the A.E.F. upon their arrival in Paris but being sure that they are properly entrained and comfortably fixed at the time of their departure. This Department is being directed by James G. Connor, a newspaper man of Philadelphia. When taken over by him, the personnel consisted of six Y workers and a Ford camionette, with a capacity of twelve persons. Since that time, the work has developed so rapidly that the personnel has been increased to thirty men, besides a Director and an Assistant, and twelve large army trucks are necessary for transportation purposes.

The gares covered by the Train Service Department, are St. Lazare, Montparnasse, Austerlitz, Lyon, Orleans, Nord and Est. These stations are covered by Y workers from 5 o'clock A. M. until 12 Midnight and it is the duty of these men to heartily receive members of the A.E.F., both casual and those on leave, direct them to the Red Cross canteens at the stations for meals, if they so desire, and place them on the trucks for transportation to the various Y.M.C.A. and Red Cross hotels located in Paris, for their stay while here. In addition to this work, the men have been dispensing cigarettes, chocolate and gum, which they have carried in large quantities in musette bags, selling them to the boys at cost price, and in some instances distributing them gratuitously, when discretion permits them to do so.

These Y welfare workers are also equipped to answer all sorts of questions put to them by the members of the A.E.F. That an idea may be gathered of the fund of information they must have at hand, a few of the questions asked might be mentioned here.

"Where can I buy Kodak films?"
"Where is Wanamaker's?"
"Where is an American dentist?"
"Where is the Odd Fellows Lodge?"
"Where are the base hospitals?"
"Where is Tiffany's?"
"What is the rate of German exchange?"
"Where can I change Swiss money?"

"What hours are the Louvre open?"
In the past four months difficulty has been experienced in properly housing the three quarters of a million men. Along these lines, Col. L. H. McKinlay, Welfare Officer, U. S. Army, and Mr. Connor, have worked out a plan for the establishing of a Central Regulating Bureau the purpose of which will be to ascertain the number of beds available at the Y.M.C.A. and Red Cross Hotels in Paris, and through an intercommunicating telephone system between the Director, Office, Central Regulating Bureau, the R.T.O. Offices at the Gares and the Hotels keep a complete record of such accommodations which will be corrected every two hours of the time between 6 A. M. and Midnight. It is thought that this regulating system will do away with troubles heretofore experienced in the "Doughboy" when arriving in Paris, he finds that he is unable to obtain sleeping quarters. Booths for the dissemination of information have been established at five of the seven Gares in Paris. These booths are adequately equipped with all sorts of literature bearing on the hotels, canteens, theatres, places that the Y operates for the entertainment of the boys. Religious services, Sight-seeing Trips, and all other data that is of interest to the soldier visiting Paris.

The Train Service Department has been congratulated by United States Army officials on the work it has carried out. Its Directing Office is at 45, rue Boissy-d'Anglais.

ROMAN CATHOLIC WARMLY ENDORSES TRIANGLE WORK.

Perceval A. McGuire, a manufacturer living in Queens, N. Y., is a Roman Catholic, who warmly endorses the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Europe. McGuire went home recently after serving as a "Y" secretary in Europe several months. Just before starting he wrote the following letter from Bristol to E. C. Carter, the Roman Catholic Y. M. C. A. in Paris.

"On the eve of my departure for America, I wish to thank you and your associates for your generous and cordial treatment of me. I entered the service of the 'Y' as a Catholic, and I am glad to state that I found the association treated the enlisted men—regardless of color, race and creed—exactly alike. The mistakes of the 'Y' seem to me to be typically American and such as were made by every organization here, endeavoring to perform a great and important work under even difficulty created by war conditions."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Some men live poor all their lives, on they can't get rich, — that their children may live rich and die poor.

Of course we all believe that it is better to give than receive — until one passes the hat. — If one half of the world does.

If one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives, it isn't because it doesn't spend a lot of time trying to find out.

Age and her little brother tell most on any girl.

It's a pity a man can't dispose of his experience at cost.

All ready for Nantasket.

Watch your bicycle and lock your auto. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The drinking fountain on Manchester field has undergone another experiment. The old porcelain faucet has been replaced by an iron faucet. The shape of a bath tub and the water pressure has been cut down to a medium-sized stream. When one uses the contrivance now the stream just plays over the side of the bath tub and hits one about the belt. Possibly this is judged a better spot to get it than in the neck, as previously. Apparently the proper way to secure a drink from the apparatus is to stand on the back side of it and reach one's head clear over, while a friend opposite pushes the bottom. The only drawback is to determine which is the back, but if one is informed and knows that the stream of water issues from the side of the faucet arrangement in the center, he has a chance to drink without wetting. Altogether this new experiment should prove interesting to those in charge, and we recommend a view of it to our readers, although they should be warned to be sure and ascertain the direction of the water before trying it.

HOPKINSON—CLAFIN

A quiet family wedding took place last Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Harold M. Mayo, sister of the bride, at 18 Kenwin road, when Miss Edith Alton Clafin, daughter of Mr. Charles H. Clafin, both lately of Santa Monica, Cal., was married to Mr. Henry Hopkinson, of 7 Brown street, Cambridge, only son of Rev. H. H. Hopkinson.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Samuel McRoberts, pastor of the First Congregational church of Cambridge, and occurred at three-thirty. Only members of the families were present. The couple were attended by Dr. George Hopkinson, of Akron, Ohio, who was best man, and little Miss Emily Hopkinson, also of Akron, niece of the groom, as flower girl.
A reception followed the ceremony at which the newly married couple were assisted in receiving the congratulations of their families by the mother of the bride and Mrs. Mayo.
They will make their home in Cambridge. The groom is acting principal of the Berkeley Preparatory School, Boston.

Strikes are so numerous as to occasion only passing comment, says the Reading Chronicle, but when men are urged to strike for greater pay, and consequent disorganization lessens their effectiveness, the situation is unusual and reprehensible.

EMMONS GETS WENDELL AND WINGATE PRIZES

Robert W. Emmons, 34, Captain-captain of the Harvard varsity nine for 1920 and star shotshy, has been awarded both the J. P. Dana Wingate and the Barrett Wendell prizes. Emmons had previously received the Barrett Wendell trophy as the best hitter, and the award of the Wingate cup has just been announced by the advisory baseball committee. It was made to Emmons because of his all-around excellence.

The Wingate cup is in memory of the late Dana Wingate of this town.

OPEN LETTER TO SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Senator McKnight Puts Increase in Salary in Scholarship Fund

July 21, 1919.
Winchester School Board,
Winchester, Massachusetts.

Gentlemen:
As you undoubtedly know, the Legislature has increased the pay of the senators and representatives five hundred dollars each, and by virtue of my position as President of the Senate I receive increased compensation to the amount of one thousand dollars.

As I was elected on the old salary, I feel that the additional thousand is in the nature of a bonus. It is my desire to appropriate this money to some good use, and I feel that I cannot better dispose of it than to give it in scholarships to certain young and deserving students. In need of aid, I have, accordingly, decided to add two hundred dollars to the thousand, making twelve hundred dollars, which will give one scholarship of two hundred dollars each to six boys residing in the six cities and towns within my senatorial district.

I know of no better way in which to award these scholarships than through the local school boards, and so I am asking the school committee in each city and town in the Sixth Middlesex Senatorial District to select the candidate. I do not care to place any restrictions upon you in your choice of a student, except to say that I desire it to be given to some boy graduated from the high school this year who desires to enter upon a college course. He should be allowed to elect whether he wishes to pursue an arts course, a professional course or a business course.

The boy to whom the scholarship is given should be one whose circumstances are such that except for this assistance he would be unable to take a college course. You will please make no distinctions as to race, color or religion, but see to it that the young man is a worthy student who in your judgment make a worthy American citizen.

Yours truly,

MEDICAL MAN APPRECIATED STAR

July 25, 1919.

Dear Mr. Editor:
As a former resident of Winchester and one of her ex-servicemen, I wish to make application for one of the medals that the citizens subscribed for "the boys," and which I understand have been placed in your care.
I wish while I am writing to you to add just a few words of thanks to you for your kind thoughtfulness in sending me a copy of the "Star" gratis every week while I was in the service. While I was in a way, perhaps a bit more fortunate than some of my compatriots, in that I very seldom was far away from home, still I always enjoyed glancing at the columns of your paper which seemed to keep a fellow "posted" on what was going on about town.

Again thanking you for this, and trusting you will forward the medal to my new address, I am
Sincerely yours,
FRANCIS A. FLANAGAN,
223 South Street,
Jamaica Plain, Mass.

OPPOSES TWO SCHOOL SESSIONS

July 26, 1919

Editor Winchester Star:
Noticing in last issue of the Star that our School Committee have decided upon two sessions for pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, I wish to enter my earnest protest at this arrangement, and sincerely trust that they will reconsider their action at once.

Without going into details, I trust that parents who assume a like feeling will express their views, either to the committee or a member of it or through your columns.

The arrangement is bound to work hardships on both parents and scholars, and is surely a step backward.
Yours very truly,
AMASA HARRINGTON.

MARCHANT—BLAISDELL

Mr. Louis Alfred Marchant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Marchant of Bangley, and Miss Vanessa Louise Blaisdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton L. Blaisdell of Winter Hill were quietly married on Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was witnessed only by members of the two families.
Rev. Otis W. Foye of Winter Hill was the officiating clergyman and the couple were attended by Miss Myrtle Holmes of Winter Hill, bridesmaid, and Mr. Harry A. Marchant, brother of the groom, was the best man. A reception followed the ceremony at which the couple were assisted by their parents. They will reside in Boston.

WARREN F. WITHERELL DEAD

Well Known Resident Passed Away at Corey Hill Hospital

Mr. Warren F. Witherell of Church street, a prominent resident of this town and president of the firm of Warren F. Witherell company, wholesale and retail grocers of Boston, died at the Corey Hill Hospital, Brookline, on Monday. Mr. Witherell had been in poor health for a considerable time.

He was a son of Benjamin Shaw Witherell of Weymouth and Tabitha (Harding) Witherell of Chatham, and was born in Weymouth on October 27, 1871, the youngest of seven children. He was typically a self-made man. As a young man he entered the employ of Clinton Vile who conducted a grocery store on Hanover street, Boston, which had been in existence since Colonial times. In 1881 he had risen in the business and became a partner, and in 1888 he bought out his partner and conducted the business himself under the name of Warren F. Witherell. In 1890 the firm of Warren F. Witherell was incorporated and Mr. Witherell became treasurer and later president, holding this office at the time of his death.

He was married on October 22, 1878, to Miss Carolyn A. Andrews of Charlestown, who survives him, together with one son, Mr. Percy W. Witherell of Jamaica Plain, formerly of this town and three grand children, Edith Blahard Witherell, Warren F. Witherell, 2nd, and Dana Grover Witherell. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Pyrontha Hughes of Holy Park and Mrs. Mary F. Julien of Boston.

Mr. Witherell came to this town in 1900, purchasing the large estate at 111 Church street, which he enlarged and beautified. He was always interested in town affairs and was a familiar figure at town meetings.

He was a Mason and was a member of William Parkman Lodge of this town, being raised by his son, Percy W. Witherell, who was Master at the time. He was also a member of Unity Lodge No. 77, L. O. O. F., of Boston, the Calumet Club and the Boston Retail Grocers' Association. He was a director of the Bay State Wholesale Association and a director of the Howard Benevolent Society, having charge of one of its charitable districts for a great many years. He was a member of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

The funeral services were held at the home of his son, 111 Prince street, Jamaica Plain, on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. William I. Lawrence, formerly of this town. During the service the selections "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "My Heavenly Home" and "Over the Hills" were rendered by the Pilgrim quartette.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Benjamin T. Morgan of this town, John Talbot of Milton, Alexander H. Bill of Cambridge, Augustus A. Fades of Boston, Robert L. Pittman and William L. Whitaker of Somerville. The burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Vale Locations Forest Street 1919.
A letter was received from the Town Engineer calling the Board's attention to the fact that the pole owned jointly by the Bay State Street Railway Company and the Edison Company in Forest Street near the turnout, is so placed, as to be partly in the space to be occupied by the new sidewalk, now being constructed in Forest Street. The Clerk was instructed, as suggested in the Town Engineer's letter to request the Bay State Street Railway Company to reset the pole in accordance with a recommendation of the Town Engineer. The pole, in question, is marked B. S. R. Co. G-1973 J. O. 53-13.

Pickering Street North and South Sheridan Circle. A petition signed by John A. Dooley and twenty-one others was received. This petition asked for the acceptance of Pickering Street North Sheridan Circle and South Sheridan Circle.
Border Road (South) A letter was received from the Metropolitan Park Commission, acknowledging the Board's letter of July 14, 1919, relative to the construction of South Border Road. The Clerk was instructed to send a copy of a vote passed by the Town at the last March meeting in regard to authorizing the Water and Sewer Board to convey certain Town land to the State, acting by its Metropolitan Park Commission.

HONOR ROLL DEDICATED

or whether we are true to our country because we are true to our God. Those young men who gave their lives out to the other world and they know what it means, and all that they did in giving their lives for their country.

Those who are left behind, if they are good Catholics, should have learned a great lesson which those who went knew and they would teach if they came back.

How many are there of our Holy Faith who did not realize how great, how strong, how powerful, is the sentiment of patriotism properly taught by religion; how beautiful the flag of our country to the presence of the cross. We have the great banner of our religion before which we bend our knee, we have the great banner of our country before which we bow in sorrow and gratitude, but remember this: those who have gone out of this world are not here now to tell us what is their experience. Those who are still in the world have to learn yet that they can never be great, they can never be loyal, they can never be true to their country.

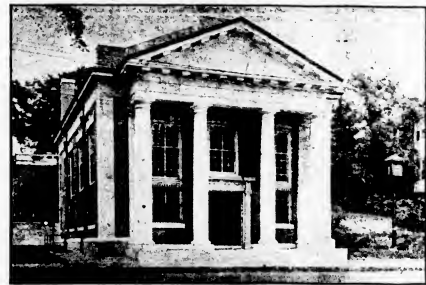

It happens to be my own fortune to know that country, to know it well, to know it from one end to the other. I know those desolated regions which have been swept by the enemy of our country. I know what is the feeling of those cruel men, and perhaps there is no country in the world where patriotism was as strong and ardent as in France. Every Frenchman almost adores the flag of his country. Perhaps it is that sign of religion put upon their soldiers which has brought knowledge to others to realize that God is the foundation of all and he is Father not only of our souls, but he is the Father of our hearts.

Now my dear brethren, when I speak about those boys who went across to the other side, do we realize what they must have suffered in the midst of all the horrors of that war?

You must not consider me as seeming to be talking too much about myself when I tell you that as I am here this evening, I stand with perhaps a knowledge of many of those boys which does not belong to others. There have been several of my boys in that war on the other side and through this war, it has been my happiness and privilege to receive more than fifty letters from the boys over there; letters written during their long, tireless tramps through the desolated land, letters written down in those horrid trenches, where there was nothing but misery and sorrow; letters written by the boys, on the gun carriages on the battlefields; writing while the fighting was going on—writing with the dead all around—writing with the bombs falling in their direction, and those letters came safely to my hands, relating the facts of the horrors and terrors, and the courage and patriotism of those American boys; and thousands of them were Catholic boys, good Catholics boys. They had patriotism, but down deep in their hearts was the faith, the love for the faith, and the belief in that God whose country they were going to save when they saved their own. There were hundreds of thousands of just such Catholic boys on that other side, and the stories we have heard from the chaplains will come back and tell us how full they were with the spirit of their faith, especially in the hours of danger.

Those boys who wrote to me as though it were a common thing when they found themselves face to face with my horrors and terrors of war, they offered a little prayer. (Prayer) They were only little ejaculations, but the faith was in their hearts as I have said, and remember, altogether there were thousands of just such boys on that other side. Personally, I know not what may have been the sentiments of their own families who were in this war have been, for which they gave their aid to the cause.

They were all soldiers of the one great army, and this evening we have all gathered together to express in the name of this Parish honor to those Catholic boys.

Remember my dear friends, out of the sixteen men of Winchester who were killed, ten came from this Catholic Parish, nearly two-thirds, and I believe this Parish numbered barely one-third of the population of this town. It certainly is gratifying and it may be said that the Catholics who went from this town did well as to numbers, and it is our duty, our privilege, and our pleasure to honor their memory, and for that reason your good pastor has shown his appreciation in dedicating this beautiful work to your church and has put in to them a lasting tablet upon which you may read the letters of the names of all those who are here and whose names will go down in future times, and whose names will be remembered as faithful soldiers of the American Army.

Now you owe a duty—you owe a first duty—to the soldiers who fell. You may say there were only ten out of two hundred and thirty-five ten heroes; ten martyrs to a great cause; ten who gave everything they had in this world; and they should be remembered every time we enter the Temple of God; they should be remembered in your prayers. Prayers of gratitude and prayers hereafter whenever we come near God's Altar. They should be remembered always when you pass that door, coming in and going out; let your minds be there and think, "I can say at least one little prayer for those dead boys," and every time you pass the door and see those names you will pray when you enter this Temple of God. Do not stop there. There is no more to be done for them, but also say a little prayer for mercy for the welfare of those who are still living.

You have those men who have worn the uniform; you have those men who went to the battle; you have those men who risked their lives and those men who would have risked their lives if they had been called upon to do so, and bear them in mind. Read your prayers every day for those soldier boys who are back in their homes, who are perhaps uncared for of them. Many have the need of prayer and every time you pass the door, do not think your duty has ceased when you pray for the dead, pray for your living brothers, sons, and husbands; pray for those who are still here; pray for those who, perhaps, I do not know, because I am not of the Parish—but perhaps are not as fervent in their religious duties as they might be. There is no cowardly so contemptible, so displeasing to God as the cowardice of the man who is ashamed of his religion. There is nothing more contemptible than a man who has been signed with the sign of faith and who is ashamed to practice and show his faith in God; therefore I say, pray every day my brethren, that those boys who have come home will be filled with the courage of the soldier of Jesus Christ; that those who have received the Sacrament of Confirmation will receive the grace to practice their religion and will not have it merely on their tongues, but will have it in their hearts and acts.

They are now on the most dangerous battlefield of any soldier ever found himself; the battlefield of life. Soldiers fighting against sin, soldiers fighting against temptations of the flesh, soldiers fighting against the evils which surround them. They need courage, but also they need encouragement and we must pray for them, my brethren. I cannot insist upon it too much, so far as my personal feeling goes, in saying that to those who are left, you owe a great, great debt of gratitude.

I can say no more to you now. You know what it means, it has been expressed to you in the past time and time again. You know the significance of prayer, how religion and patriotism are put opposite each other; you know the honor due our American flag, and to those who are true Americans, remember the fact that you can be a hundred times truer American and truer Catholics with the faith which our Holy Religion teaches us, which is the one great thing which makes that monument at the door a monument that will be lasting because it is inseparable from the idea of prayer.

My friends, these few words of mine—they come from an outsider but from an outsider whose heart is full in its offering to the memories of the boys—speak from the heart, to all. I again beseech you to remember the dead but do not forget the living. The dedication of the honor roll tablet in the vestibule was conducted by Fr. Merritt assisted by Rev. Fr. Rogers of St. Mary's church, Rev. Fr. Daniel Riordan of St. Joseph's parish of Montvale and Rev. John J. Gorham of St. Charles parish of Wolfram, and Rev. Theodore Metalf.

The choir sang "The Hymn to the Cross" at the conclusion of the benediction of the tablet. Solemn benediction of the blessed sacrament of the eucharist, Rev. Daniel Riordan of St. Joseph's church, Montvale, officiating, assisted by Rev. John J. Gorham of St. Charles parish of Wolfram as deacon, and Rev. F. E. Rogers as subdeacon. The choir and congregation sang "The Hymn to the Holy Name" after benediction.

During benediction the score of little girls in white knelt at the altar rail while the uniformed soldiers and sailors were inside the sanctuary. Conceiving that a tablet of a dignified character would be the most attractive type of symbol, the Pastor, Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, caused this design to be prepared by the well-known architects, Magnus & Walsh. The splendid execution was done by Irving and Casson.

The panel is 3 feet 4 inches high and 5 feet wide. The names of the men are carved on an inner tablet, in five rows. This tablet is flanked by two symbolic figures of Patriotism and Religion. The figure of Patriotism is modeled on the accepted ideal of Columbia, supporting on her right, a shield, and holding in her left hand an inverted sword. Behind the head is a star-shaped nimbus.

The figure of Religion, draped in soldier lines of great dignity, holds in the right hand a tall cross. In the center of the panel and surrounding the entire scheme is the eagle with outstretched wings. The entire design is one of great richness, finished in gold leaf, with the high lights highlighted.

So as to provide a worthy setting for the Memorial, an arched recess has been contrived in the North side of the vestibule and the walls covered by a handsome oak wainscot, to the ceiling. This has been stained of a sherry color to support and harmonize with the color of the tablet.

The names of approximately 200 men of the parish, including 10 dead out of a total of 16 from Winchester, who died in the service during the war, are carved on an inner tablet in five rows.

The names of the dead marked with gold stars include Bartley Clancy, William J. Donahue, Mario Fignola, John Glendon, William J. Glendon, Augustus M. Leonard, Charles C. Lynch, Edward W. McFadyen, William J. Noonan and John T. Porter. The name of one army nurse from St. Mary's parish, Miss Margaret E. Gullen, U. S. Army nurse, is also included in the honor roll.

In the center of the panel is the American eagle with outstretched wings, supported by the scroll bearing the inscription, "For God and Country." At the base the inscription on a banner has been placed reading, "1917, Honor Roll of St. Mary's Parish, Winchester, 1919, Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, Pastor."

DEFY FATHER TIME

Passing Years Need Not Bring

California Writer Arises in Wrath to Deny That Seventy-Two Should Be Considered a "Rope Old Age."

A newspaper from a few days ago stated that a certain man named So-and-so died "at the ripe old age of seventy-two."

Commenting on this the Los Angeles Times says that seventy-two is not a ripe old age and adds:

"A ripe old age is an age when the person who has attained it is ready for old Father Time to come along and pluck him from the scene of life. If you will take a bird's-eye view of the activities of the world at the present hour, or even if you will look about you in your own community, you will see that men and women of seventy-two are among the foremost business-people."

Active heads of great nations, big business men in the biggest businesses, leaders and co-leaders of all descriptions in every direction you look have passed the seventy-two mark and are still going strong.

Why, a man should be about at his best at the age of seventy-two. And it is at that age that woman should really begin to enjoy life in high-heeled shoes, short skirts and a hat with roses all over it.

Cato did not begin the study of Greek until he was eighty years of age, and it was at the same age that Plutarch began the study of Latin. Hobbes, the English philosopher, published his best book when he was eighty-seven, and Chevreul, forever immortal in scientific research, was busy as a bee at his work in his one hundred and second year.

One of the most active lawyers of the Los Angeles county bar is just his nineteenth year, and we know of another Los Angeles man who has just been appointed cashier of a new bank at the age of seventy-four.

In short, the cold fact is that seventy-two is very far indeed from being "ripe old age."

On the other hand, of course, a man can let himself be old at most any age. There are lots of men who are old at thirty, but it is a state of mind with them and not a physical condition, even though they may not be in good health.

As to women, we very well know that it was the fashion for them to be old and fear-ridden caps at forty. But that isn't the case now, by any means. Think of Lillian Russell, Sara Bernhardt and Schumann Heink, merely to mention some of the more prominent women of our time.

We would go so far as to say that age is a question of what we look at. That "a man is as old as he feels and a woman as old as she looks" is indeed a very good saying. A man is a fool not to feel all right, and a woman may be trusted never to "look" old if she is the woman she ought to be.

It is a great idea for a man when he is anywhere between fifty and seventy to mentally start all over again as though he had just out of his box, upon the great adventure of life.

Instead of spending his time then in vain regrets for him resolve to attain all that he has missed. Let him, above all things else, renew his enthusiasm. Let him go to the cinema again and buy popcorn for the elephants; let him go, stark, into an old-fashioned hotel, wherever he hears a hand bell ring follow it till he has lost the way home.

It shall be just as we think about it. We are to remember that we shall live only once on this earth, and that we will be a long time dead.

His Achievements.

"I have been in business here at the old stand for thirty-four years," admitted the proprietor of the Right Place Store in Portland, "during that time 27,000, in round numbers, fresh young drummers have tried to talk me into buying rare bargains that I didn't want, and 13,025 well-meaning hucksters have left the door open when I said to have been shut. I have listened with a crocodile smile to something like 43,743 old stories and no more than two dozen new ones. I have furnished 'settin' places' for all the prominent and influential leaders of the community, and have had two tons of primes, choice and finger-sizes off up to 'em. I am thirty-four years old, but I was when I began, and very little wiser or richer. I have trusted almost everybody who has asked me to, and some of them cheated me and others didn't. So, speaking biologically, I suppose I don't think any worse of my fellow citizens than they do of me." —Kansas City Star.

A Knock in the Night

By GERALD ST. ETIENNE

Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"God! Not another word. I will not listen to you. Stop!" Flora stood on the top step and, as she commanded in sharp, decisive tones, she pointed a finger toward the pathway.

Matthew Burgess edged first on one foot and then on the other. He had never had such a scolding before in his life. The one Flora had just delivered him. He looked to take her in his arms and kiss away the frown on her lips, but he did not dare, for there was something behind those eyes of hers that warned him such a movement would only make matters worse. With a shrug of his shoulders that was intended for a dignified one he started in the direction her finger was pointing. Just as he reached the gate he looked back. Flora was still standing there, a dramatic figure reflected in the moonlight.

Although he was in a shadow and was not visible to her sight, yet she seemed to realize his eyes were upon her. Her chin went up in the air as she turned and went into the open door, stopping on the threshold long enough to call out: "You need not call again, Mr. Burgess. Hereafter I will not be at home to you."

Poor Matthew was speechless. If it had been any one else but Flora he would have had an impertinent answer ready, but his tongue seemed cleaved to the roof of his mouth. He did murmur something about "these women" as he reentered his house from the entry, and clutched into the buggy. If Flora was going to let a little thing like his being too late to take her to the dance come between them, then it was time they broke off their engagement. As he took one last look toward her home, he noticed how dark the night had become all at once.

The moon had been doing its best all night but had disappeared behind a dark cloud. A slight breeze fanned his cheeks and he felt the leaves of the trees rustle slightly.

From away in the distance a muffled sound of thunder reached his ears. There was going to be a storm. "God-dap!" the light touch on the reins and Mat's horse started out on a gallop. He was going to reach home before the storm came on if it could possibly be done.

Flora awoke with a start. She had hardly been asleep five minutes, it seemed. "Oh!" A flash of snake lightning caused her to cover her head in the bed. She had attempted to snuff a lamp, almost darkened the room, and she had heard the sound of the thunder that she knew would follow.

"Oh! oh!" came in quick succession from her lips. The tumult that was taking place almost deafened her, despite the sheet. It sounded as if the whole country had been struck. Flash after flash of lightning was followed by crash after crash of thunder, made more terrible by a torrent of rain and wind. It seemed hours before a calm came, but in reality it was only a very few minutes. The stillness was almost as terrifying as the storm.

Flora longed to cry out for help, but there was no one within hearing distance. Her father was the only other person in the house, and his room was at the rear. He was deaf and could sleep through any kind of storm. Suddenly a sound broke the stillness. Flora's trembling stopped immediately. She listened. The sound was repeated. Some one was knocking the big brass knocker on the front door. Who was it at that hour? Flora asked herself.

A telegram from her mother, was the answer that presented itself. Flora jumped from the bed and slipped into slippers and a kimono. Her heart beat rapidly as she stood with her hand on the lock of the big oak door. She was terrified, not of personal danger but at the thought of what news might be waiting on the outside of that door for her. Telegrams in the night are always horrible things.

No sooner had she opened the door than she jumped back with a scream that rang through the house. A dark, hairy, and flung itself at her and her father and came in contact with wet, sticky fur. Her head recoiled and she was almost fainting when some thing told her what it was.

"Where is she?" she asked. "Bonnie, where is your sister from?"

An answering voice called her to come down with a cry of thankfulness. When she came down the light shone upon Bonnie Mat Burgess' face. It was quite some time before Flora could become composed enough to get the dog. He was shaking all over.

Mat was with him, was her thought as she threw open the door. But no Mat was there. It was almost dawn and the storm had cleared. The dog sank back at the sight of the wet landscape. Who could have known? One look at Bonnie answered the question. He had reached up with his nose and licked the woman's face.

He seemed to be pleading for some thing. Mat had been hurt and the dog had come for help. She had need of such things at times. With this thought came conviction.

"Where is he, old fellow, and how was he hurt?" Flora asked, frantically.

The dog wagged its tail as if it understood, and that convinced Flora the more. A tree had fallen on Mat the other end of the line. "Have you been struck by lightning?" Mat, in that storm! The thought was terrible. Oh, what could she do? Madly she raced upstairs and dressed hurriedly. It was daylight by the time she was down.

Poor Mat had been pinned down by that tree all night! Oh, what if he was dead? Bonnie would lead her to him, but Bonnie wouldn't. Nothing would ever that dog to leave the house. This was odd, for every dog she had reared of that had gone in search of help had always led the rescuer to the scene of the accident. Her lips—broke the sound of the telephone bell broke her thoughts and she hurried to answer it. Some one had found Mat, was her first thought as she lifted the receiver.

"Hello," she managed, timidly. "Hello," came exactly from the other end of the line. "Have you been anything of Bonnie?" Flora nearly dropped the receiver with joy. It was Matthew.

"Yes," the old darling is here," she cried. "Oh, Mat, I thought you were hurt or dead!" Bonnie rapped at the door, and her talking as if something awful had happened.

"I want away without him," Mat answered in a tone of relief, "and he's terrified of storm. It is characteristic of colts, you know."

"Come right over and get him. I'm frightened of everything." The strain was beginning to tell on Flora and she burst into tears.

"I will be right over," she heard Mat say as the receiver went up.

Flora sank down on the rug beside Bonnie and wept softly. Suddenly it dawned upon her that she had broken off her engagement with Mat and called on Mr. Burgess, say nothing of ordering him from the house. She had been silly and disturbed over nothing.

"What a life, Bonnie!" she asked in her moment.

The old dog looked up into her face with his big, kind, expressive eyes. Flora thought, as if to say, "Why, he's the best master in the world! Kiss him and make up, of course. What else would you expect?"

"That's just what I will do," she exclaimed eagerly as she put her arms around Bonnie's neck and hugged him for the suggestion.

CONSCIENCE WILL BE THERE

Dishonest Man May Dodge the Law but Other Forms of Punishment Await Him.

You may be one of those who have not paid a little money, but not enough to insure you the life of ease which you have planned for your later years.

Perhaps you have made your money by economy and small and honest industry, and you are now in a position to compare your condition with that of some other men who have much more than you possess, but who have the reputation of being unscrupulous in business deals.

You feel that although it is known they are not strictly honest, they are accepted by society because of what they are in a financial way. You are considering whether a more serious one they have pursued would not be better than the one you are following.

Stop this line of thought. You are considering a dangerous course.

The more you think about it the more likely you are to become influenced by false goals.

Don't forget that while you may dodge the law you can't give your conscience the slip—Houston (Tex.) Chronicle.

Life in Guatemala.

Guatemala is a frequent sufferer by earthquakes. The city of Guatemala itself, the present capital, was chosen after Guatemala Antigua, the original capital, was destroyed by a combined earthquake and water hose, after from clouds on the mountain. The new capital stands on an isolated hill, which it was thought would be the best place to be shaken. But the whole country bears evidence of what earthquakes have done to it. It is not a rare sight to see high mountains with their right or left side missing. In various communities they sit, as if having to clear streets of dust that falls to a depth of several feet after a violent earthquake.

VOL XXXIX, NO. 7.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1919

PRICE FIVE CENTS

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE.

Office of the Board of Health,
Winchester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1919.
Editor of Star.

Dear Sir:—Last spring I consented to become a candidate for re-election to the Board of Health largely because there were two things I wanted to see done before finishing my health work in Winchester. These two things were, having soda and ice cream dispensed in sterile dishes and the employment of a Public Health Nurse.

It is to the eternal credit of Messrs. Allen, Knight and Lamall that they voluntarily began using paper dishes before we had a chance to make a rule requiring their use.

A Public Health Nurse can not be employed till the voters have appropriated the money to pay her. Next spring I purpose asking for this money. I have been playing the political game for over forty-five years and I learned long ago that the surest way to succeed is to appeal all the cards on the table at the beginning of the game, so before next March I want to show the voters why purchasing the services of a Public Health Nurse will be a gilt edge investment. To accomplish this I am going to ask you to give me the use of your columns from time to time for brief articles bearing on the matter.

Some of them will be over my signature and some will be quotations from trustworthy sources. I wish you would head each contribution with the words "Public Health Nurse," and I hope every reader of the Star will take the time to read everything so headed. I will make the articles brief and do the best I can to keep them from being tiresome.

Next time I will explain what a Public Health Nurse can do in our town and later will give explanations and illustrations.

Clarence J. Allen,
Health Officer.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

The Packard Auto Co. will be here tomorrow for a game. They have yet to be beaten, but I think they are due for one tomorrow. They are considered a strong team and have quite a following. Sheridan who beat us 10 to 0 and who has been hitting for Lewiston in the N. E. League will probably face us or else they will use Moran who has been fanning 12 to 15 every game. The manager says he will bring a team here that will make us go, and as that is what most of our managers do who come to Winchester you can look forward to another good game. I hope "Mack" will stay here with us and with a new third baseman we ought to make them all go. Don't forget the early arrivals get seats.

FIRE ON BROOKSIDE ROAD

The fire department was called out Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 for a fire in the house on Brookside road, north Winchester, owned by Mrs. Catherine Murray and occupied by Wallace A. Savard. The alarm was rung in from box 33.

A brisk fire was underway in an upstairs bed room and the room was well burnt out before the fire was extinguished. It is thought the blaze originated outside the house on a piazza roof in some unknown manner and burned through into the room. A chemical line from the chief's car was used together with hand chemicals.

Outside the damage to the room where the fire was and the tearing down of some plaster to open up partitions, the loss was small.

HEFFLON FUND $124.45

The fund for placing a memorial to the late Joseph Hefflon in the Wadleigh School, over which he was principal previous to his departure to France, where he died, has reached $124.45.

It is proposed to place a suitable memorial in the school this fall. While the larger part of the sum which has been subscribed has been given by the pupils of the school, many other friends have contributed or expressed their intention of doing so. For this reason the fund is to be kept open for another month. Contributions may be sent to the STAR office.

WINCHESTER MAN CLEARED

Mr. Howard L. Tibbetts of Wedgemere avenue was found not guilty of manslaughter in the death of Clarence Ferreira of Lowell, July 1, at that city. No criminal negligence was shown by Mr. Tibbetts in handling his automobile. The boy was struck as he ran in front of the car and was so badly injured that he died, although he was taken to the hospital by Mr. Tibbetts.

TRADERS OUTING

Party Returned in Rain as on Former Years.

The jinx which visits this section every traders day made his annual appearance on Wednesday, bringing with him his accompanying rain storm. Fair weather had been promised, and while the day was somewhat cloudy in the morning it did look as though the usual storm might not appear. Such was not the case however, and early in the afternoon a settled rain started which continued through the rest of the day.

About 235 traders, with their friends and families, made up this year's party. The outing was held at Nantasket beach. Tickets for the outing were slow in being taken up to the time of departure—and then everyone wanted them. As a result chairman Horsey of the transportation committee had to leave word to get tickets at the steamboat wharf, and he had a busy time securing and distributing the extra tickets just before the boat left.

The majority of the party left Winchester on the 8:14 train for Boston, and the whole party took the 9:15 boat for the beach. The annual outing of the John T. Connor Co., with over 600 persons, and the outing of the Walker Shoe Co., with 400, made a full passenger list for most of the boats during the day as well as filling the hotels.

Upon arrival at Nantasket permission was secured from the Metropolitan Police to hold the sports and ball game on the beach, and these events were immediately opened. The ball game was split up into a half dozen scrub games, indoor sets being used. Although this did not settle any difference of opinion concerning the ability of some local players, it gave everyone plenty of fun and was enjoyed by many of the younger members of the party until the rain started.

The sports were held under the auspices of the committee, with Mr. Everett A. Smith, and Albert B. Seller in charge. They were aided by J. Chris. Sullivan, Edward T. Wolf and Walter J. Tibbetts.

The sports and winners were as follows:

100-yard dash for girls—Rose Allen first; Edith Plummer second.

500-yard dash—Miss Margaret Sullivan first; Miss Elsie Walloff second.

100-yard dash—Vincent Boyle first; Roger Noonan second.

Relay race—Henry Moynihan, William Rogers, Fred Callahan, Raymond Hanscomb.

Tag-of-war—Married vs Single men won by single men. Make-up of winning team too numerous to mention.

Potato race for girls—Miss Margaret Sullivan first; Miss Mabel Sullivan second.

Potato race for ladies—Miss Mabel Gray first; Miss Elsie Walloff second.

Most of the party took the train to lunch while other patronized the various hotels at noon. The salt water while of an arctic temperature, attracted a few, who took a dip before lunch, others waiting until afternoon in hopes of warmer water.

In the afternoon most of the party spent the time until their return at Paragon Park, most of the crowd coming home on the early boats. In point of numbers the outing was probably the most successful yet held by the traders and had the lay remained fair the number would have probably been swelled still further by an afternoon attendance.

PURRINGTON LEAVES WOOL TRADE ASSO.

Mr. George F. Purrinton of this town, who has been assistant secretary of the Boston Wool Trade Association, has entered the business in the employ of Mr. F. Nathaniel Perkins, with whom he has been associated for several years.

Mr. Purrinton's brother, Mr. Ralph L. Purrinton, also of Winchester will act as assistant secretary of the Wool Trade Association.

COSTS $13 TO SWIM IN RESERVOIRS

The price of a bath in the Winchester reservoirs is $1.00. This has been established last Friday morning in Woburn court when special officer Marsh, who patrols the reservoirs in the Falls, had a resident of a neighboring city up for swimming in the middle reservoir.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The Board of Health reports no cases of contagious diseases for the week ending August 6, 1919.

JOHN M. L. ENMAN

Well Known Builder Died at His Home Saturday

Following the death of his wife ten weeks ago, Mr. John M. L. Enman passed away at his home on Highland avenue last Saturday afternoon after a long illness. He was 75 years of age.

Mr. Enman was a native of Vernon River, Prince Edward Island, where he was born Nov. 5, 1843. He was the son of David and Christina (MacLaren) Enman. He was one of the best known builders of this town and had made his home here for over 40 years, residing first on Elm street and later on Highland avenue.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church and also of the Master Builders' Association. His wife died on May 24, and at that time he was seriously ill. He is survived by one son, Frank H., and one daughter, Miss Elsie Enman. Two sisters and a brother also survive him.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at two-thirty from the residence, No. 212 Highland avenue, and were largely attended by old friends and neighbors. The display of floral tributes was very profuse. Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church conducted the service, and the pall bearers were Messrs. D. Webster Ives, Benjamin T. Morgan, George W. Blanchard and Joseph C. Kennedy. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

TAX RATE $20.20

Winchester's tax rate for 1919 was fixed by the Board of Assessors late yesterday afternoon at $20.20, an increase of 20 cents over last year. The State and County taxes are $85,715.11 as against $86,441.82 of last year. The increase on real estate amounts to $413,500.00 and the increase on personal $209,750.00. But five new houses have been built during the year and the total of all buildings amounts to 58, mostly garages.

WELCOME HOME FUND SUFFICIENT

Chairman Arthur A. Kidder of the board of Selectmen, in charge of the celebration of welcome for returned men in service held July 4th, announces that all bills have been paid to date and enough money is still on hand to clean up any others which may come in. There was contributed to the celebration fund $1771.72 by citizens of the town, this being in addition to the appropriation made. Of the amount contributed $1602.06 has been spent, leaving a balance of $167.76 to meet any further expenses. Since the celebration it has been necessary to purchase an additional lot of medals, many names coming in of Winchester boys desiring them who had not previously registered or been identified with the town list.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER

Otto Abrahamson has purchased from Flora A. Sawyer the 10-room house with some 18000 feet of land numbered 21 Sheffield road. The new owner will take possession September 1, and contemplates many changes and improvements among which is the erection of a two-car heated garage and the laying out of a tennis court. Mr. and Mrs. Abrahamson moved to Winchester some two years ago, having occupied the house 47 Parkway. Mr. Abrahamson is treasurer of Beauty & Co. Inc., managing director of United Hammer Co., both of Boston, and president of Atlas Box Co. Mrs. Abrahamson is a daughter of Mrs. C. E. Barnes and a sister of Mrs. H. E. Gates of Highland avenue.

JAMES BLACKHAM

James Blackham, a well known resident of Winchester for the past thirty years, died at his home on Salem street, Tuesday, August 5, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Blackham, who was 59 years old, was born in Ireland and spent most of his younger life in Scotland, coming to Winchester from Glasgow in 1889. He is survived by his wife, four sons, James W., John F., Henry L., Joseph A., and one sister, Mrs. Frank Boynton of Concord, N. H.

Funeral was held from his late residence, 13 Salem street, Thursday morning at 8:30, with solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Theodore Metcalf of Boston officiated as celebrant, assisted by Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, deacon, and Rev. Fr. John W. Corbett, sub-deacon. Interment was at Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

FATHER AND SON TOURNAMENT

Interest in the father and son tournament which is to be played at the Winchester Country Club course Saturday, and which will be the first one ever held in this district, continues to grow as teeing off time draws near. Already there have been about 10 entries received by Harry Bowler and many more are expected before the tournament opens.

There are several teams hereabouts that should be able to do well in the tournament and some low scores should be turned in Saturday. Among those that have already entered the event are R. H. and R. Z. Pierce of Brae-Burn, a team that will give any of them a battle for the top honors. Hugh Robertson and son, Jr., and Robert Burgess senior and junior are other Brae-Burn pairs already entered.

G. H. Clough and his son Robert from the home club are another pair that entered early and they will get in a good deal of practice over their home course before Saturday. Other entries include E. F. and E. H. Folsom of Wootton, Peter and M. F. Graham of Althorpe, F. M. and J. M. Batchelder of Wenham, and W. B. Uhler, senior and junior of Commonwealth.

The Winchester course has been open for practice all the week to the players that are to take part in the event and many took advantage of the courtesy of the officials of the club and played a few rounds during the week.

ENDORSE MR. COOLIDGE

Medford, Mass.,

August 6, 1919.

To the Editor of the Winchester Star: In the coming Primaries, Mr. Richard B. Coolidge of Medford has announced he will be a candidate for Representative from the 24th Middlesex District.

Mr. Coolidge has served three years as Alderman at large in Medford, and during that time has been active in the cause of sound municipal government. We believe him to be well qualified by temperament and ability to represent the District in the Legislature and, therefore, endorse his candidacy.

SUCCESSFUL SALE

The annual summer sale of the Philathea Class of the Second Congregational Sunday School occurred last Friday evening at the church. There was a very good attendance and altogether it was a very successful sale, everything being disposed of. There were four tables; Miss Florence Plummer had charge of the Candy table and sold it from a large basket prettily decorated with blue and white. Mrs. Wigglesworth sold the Fancy articles, which consisted of fancy and useful goods. The Tonic was in charge of Miss Ethel Peterson, and as the evening was warm proved a refreshing feature. The Cake was disposed of quickly by Mrs. Gladys Thompson. Miss Martha Peterson had charge of the Grah which was arranged to be drawn through a hoop. The Ladies parlor was decorated with Japanese table lanterns and for social time. There was music and singing and a good sum was realized for fall work.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell of 32 Harvard street are the parents of a daughter, born last week.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Doherty of 971 Main street at the Winchester Hospital, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Hanley of 83 Nelson street are the parents of a daughter, born last week at the Winchester Hospital.

WINCHESTER MEDALS

Winchester men who have been in the service may obtain their medals presented by the Town by applying at the STAR Office.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

August 4, 1919.

The board met at 7:30 p. m., present, Messrs. Kahner, Emerson, Cox and Spooner.

The records of the meeting of July 28, were read and approved.

Warrants were drawn for $1,957.72, and $2,974.31.

Town Hall Building: The special hall license, together with a favorable report in regard to the rating of the Town Hall building was received from the Building Inspection Department, of the District Police, and the license was ordered posted, and the report placed on file.

Town Hall Building Custodian: Acting in accordance with his request, the board voted to grant Edward J. Callahan, custodian of Town Hall Building a two weeks' vacation, beginning August 16, 1919, his place to be filled by John E. Callahan.

Town Hall Engagements. The Board voted that the American Legion of Honor, Winchester Branch, be granted the privilege of using the small Town Hall, and the General Committee for meetings, without charge, at such times as they are not otherwise engaged.

Fire Department—Fire Alarm: The chief of the fire department reported that all fire alarm boxes were tested on July 30, and were found to be in perfect working order, except school house boxes 12, 13, 14, 15, which were not tested on account of buildings being closed.

Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co.: A letter was received from the chairman of the trustees of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co., stating they would be glad to meet with the board at any time mutually convenient, and the same was referred to Mr. Emerson and Mr. Kidder.

Prospect Street Extension: A request was received from Preston Bond to oil and also, resurface, if necessary, Prospect Street Extension, Mr. Bond to make deposit for estimated cost of same, and the matter was referred to the superintendent of streets for report.

Adjusted at 10:40 p. m.
Mabel W. Stinson,
Acting Clerk of Selectmen.

AUTO TRUCK BURNED

The fire Monday night at nine o'clock was for a large auto truck at the Winchester-Medford line. The truck, a 5-ton motor of the Sterling Motor Co., back fired when ascending the hill near the Russell estate. According to the driver the first thing he knew it was all ablaze.

A telephone message was sent to the Winchester fire department, and as the apparatus went out box 27 was rung in by some person who saw the blaze. On top of this a telephone call was sent by still another person to the Medford fire department, which also rang in an alarm.

The fire burned fiercely while the gasoline lasted, but as the truck was not loaded, it did not last long and the damage was not great, consisting largely of burned out wiring.

The fire was a stubborn one to check, for the gasoline feed pipe was broken and the gas flowing all the time. It was soon seen that the chemicals could not check it, and owing to the intense heat it was thought that the tank might explode. A line of hose was run and played into the tank, and this soon put the blaze out.

THE MCKNIGHT SCHOLARSHIP

The Winchester School Committee is ready to receive the applications of any young men, members of the class which graduated at the Winchester High School last June, for the scholarship generously offered by Hon. Edwin T. McKnight, who represents this district in the Senate of the Commonwealth.

The scholarship, it will be remembered, amounts to $200; it is to be used by the recipient to help pay the expense of a year at a college of recognized standing, and it can, by the terms of the offer, be awarded only to a young man who would not be able, without such assistance to go to college. Applicants for the scholarship may present their names to any member of the School Committee or to Mr. Curtis, the principal of the High School.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

Dr. Richard W. Sheehy has purchased through the office of Thomas H. Barrett, the property No. 27 Washington street, together with the plot adjoining which extends to Francis Circuit. This property being part of the estate of Mrs. Lucy B. Woodward of New York. Dr. Sheehy will occupy the place as office and residence.

MOTHERS WANT ONE SESSION

Editor of the Star:

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly print the following lines in answer to an issue in your last week's Star.

In regard to the two sessions at the Wadleigh School, I am sure there are others that feel the same as the writer last week.

The mothers feel it is asking too much for the children who live in North Winchester to go back and forth four times a day, especially when shoe leather is as high as at the present time. We are not all so fortunate as to have a car to take the children to school and home again.

It seems to us mothers that it is going to be a draw-back for the children, for when they get home to dinner and back to school they will be so tired that the afternoon session will take no effect on them, as no one can study when tired.

Other mothers do not want their children to take their lunch for fear they may be around the centre all the dinner hour. They would much rather know where they were than to think they should have to spend a dinner hour on the street. The mothers that sign this paper do earnestly trust that the school committee will reconsider and think of the distance children would have to go cold winter days. It will without a doubt be a step back for the children and mothers—also if the children are compelled to go.

TO REMOVE TAR FROM CLOTHING

To remove tar from the hands or clothing the following method will be found effective: Saturate the tar with Carbolic, rubbing it until the tar is thoroughly loosened. Then wash with hot water and soap, rinsing last with cold water.

The above mentioned method is used and recommended by the superintendent of street.

NO FUTURE CHARGE FOR METERS

At their meeting last week the local Water & Sewer Board voted to omit the charge of installing meters in future new connections. It has previously been the custom to charge for the meters and their connection. According to the recent vote, new water connections will be enabled to have a meter without this charge.

WOBURN SERIES ARRANGED

Manager Edward McKenzie announced this week that the annual series of baseball games between the Winchester and Woburn baseball teams has been arranged, the first game to be played next week Saturday, August 16.

This year the series will consist of five games, with one in each place and a double-header on Labor Day here and in Woburn. This will leave the final and probably deciding game open.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

The demonstration home garden located on Highland avenue at the corner of Lebanon street is now ready for a second crop. The Kohl-Rabi, beets and carrots have attained a very large growth and are now ready to be pulled out and some other crops to be put into the garden to take their place.

It is planned to plant two more rows of beets for water use which will be of the Detroit Dark Red variety. Another row of Chantenay carrots will also be planted. There will probably be enough room for a row of Chinese cabbage which is a new salad green that is becoming more and more popular each year. This vegetable is a cross between lettuce and a cabbage plant and is very hardy. It will stand heavy frosts without any damage to the plant and will keep on growing up until the first of November. The row of wax beans yielded a good crop. The beans have all been picked and will be pulled out right away. A row of Rutabaga turnips or celery plants will take their place.

The summer squash and cucumber plants which were planted in between the two rows of pole beans have been shaded to a considerable extent. Some of the leaves of the squash vine and some of the plants themselves were pulled out in order to let in the sunlight and air so that the blossoms would fertilize.

The bean crop in the garden has been attacked during the last week with heavier worm which has been doing so much damage lately throughout the county. It attacks the under surface of the leaves and eats large holes in them. A spray of arsenate of lead in the proportion of two gallons of paste to 50 gallons of water should be used.

The tomatoes are now being attacked with plant lice which do so much damage about this time of the year. These are quite numerous on the stems and leaves of the plants. The leaves themselves have curled up and turned brown especially at the bottom of the plant where the first attack is. These will be sprayed with Nicotine Sulphate. Lice were also found on the squash crop but only a very few. New Zealand spinnich is one of those vegetables that resist insects and diseases almost wholly.

The row of Swiss Chard was found to be diseased with some sort of fungus growth that had spotted the stalks and leaf veins with black pits. The nature of this fungus disease and its cause is unknown but it looks quite serious. It makes the stalks of the plant unfit for food.

The cucumber vines were attacked with the melon aphid which is some what different from the other aphids. The melon aphid gathers upon the under surface of the leaves in great numbers. It sucks the plant juice from the leaves and the wilted appearance of the leaves shows that it is being attacked by the insect on the underside. As with all other sucking insects the Nicotine Sulphate spray should be used to control it.

Some actually spoil on the dealer's hands. All this represents available loss in handling. Even the wares which keep indefinitely without deterioration are a burden to the retailer who cannot sell them quickly. They represent idle money which ought to be put to work.

Any kind of advertising worthy of the name will accelerate the turnover, but some kinds will accelerate it more rapidly than others. In Winchester, the STAR is the quickest acting medium available to the merchant. A good advertisement often clears out a large stock of goods within a very few days from the time it is written. Wherever rapid movement of stocks is essential to successful merchandizing, persistent advertising in the STAR is indispensable.

"I tell you," observed a grateful patient, "Dr. — is a smart man. Last week I thought I was bound for the Winchester hospital, but he helped me out with two of his pellets." (It is to be presumed that "pellets" were meant.)

There used to be a speaker of pathetic earnestness—many here in Winchester remember him—who spoke of a melancholy figure who had been "pacing the corridors of a hospital."

One of the finest old-fashioned gentlemen of a past generation would take a nap every afternoon, and observe: "I have just taken a nap."

When these blunders are made by one who makes twenty verbal slips in a day, they are apt to be forgotten. But at times the speaker is a man of such dignity, a woman of such refinement, that one is likely to remember the error because they contrast so with the appearance and manner of the person uttering them. On second thoughts much that sounds like ridicule is really compliment. If somebody has a good South because for one lingual blunder committed five or ten years ago, it is probable that Smith has no grave error of judgment or conduct on his record.

As these words are written there comes to the Spectator's mind an old man of dignity and benevolence long gathered to his fathers. Youngsters laughed at him for a peculiarity of mispronunciation of a word that

SEEN AND HEARD AROUND TOWN

(Contributed)

We noticed an article Monday praising the new traffic officer in Woburn square. We did not think there was any one who had much on Officer Donaghey when it comes to handling traffic. Stop a few minutes and watch him at a busy time.

Anyone interested in beautiful brick work will be repaid by visiting the home of E. A. Burnham on Everett Avenue and see the artistic work being done by James J. Fitzgerald, on the steps and walk.

And speaking of Everett Avenue, there is no better kept street in Winchester than this same avenue. Each property owner seems to take pride in their respective grounds and homes. Mr. George R. Townsend who has recently purchased the Downer property at 38 has transformed the place so that people who have been gone for the summer will hardly know it when they return.

Another beautiful and well kept estate is the home of Frank Mosley at No. 36. This place with all the varied phlox in bloom is a veritable fairyland.

Selectman Arthur A. Kidder has another fine place—fenced in with an old English brick and wooden wall, covered with Boston ivy. Dorothea Perkins Ross and Wisteria while the gardens are filled with old fashioned flowers in profusion.

F. P. Thomas at No. 49 has this summer turned the swamp in the rear of his place into one of the most artistic gardens in Winchester.

Mr. John H. MacAlhoun at No. 42 has the largest place on the avenue. He has a small, well kept lawn in front, while the larger part of the estate in back is devoted to flower and vegetable gardens, with a tennis court and bowling green near the lake. Winchester people do not have to go out of town to see well kept places. Take a trip with the writer every week or so and he will show you Winchester in all its beauty.

What a nice piece of work the High-way department is doing around the town hall. It is a wonder this work has not been done before.

Have you noticed the common and Manchester Field, together with the embankment along the Aberjona and in the rear of the laundry? As citizens are you not proud of our town?

Personally I would like to see another man helping Supt. McDonald with this work. There seems to be entirely too much work for two men.

I understand the Park Dept. is going to propose the highest piece of civic development this town has had before it in years, and let us back them up in it. Who would go back to the old Whitney mill and ramshackle buildings of a few years ago?

It seems to be the general opinion of well informed and fair-minded people that we should have a moving picture house in Winchester. But the majority say it should be under the management of a Winchester man, one whom the people in general would have confidence in. The report around town says there will be an article on the ballot at next town meeting calling for a vote on it, by the town at large. While the writer respects every man's opinion, he does not think one or two men should be the judge of what is good or not for the morals of the town. As Tom Lawson says "Moll it over boys."

Chinese Sweetmeats.

The Chinese are very skillful in making confectionery and possess the reputation of having some secrets the knowledge of which our own confectioners would find very desirable. They are able to employ an ounce of fruit, candy, without one being able to find the smallest bit in the food or even a tiny bone. Indeed, they even employ an egg in this manner and fill it with a sort of almond nougat, without one being able to find the slightest break or incision in the shell.

ninety-nine persons out of a hundred always said a right he invariably came with the wrong accent. But the old gentleman now comes before the Spectator as a stately figure there were none to condemn his business record, there were none who could blame his private life, there were none who could dispute the large list of good deeds that had won him an honored place in the hearts of his neighbors.

The Spectator.

WHY BATTERIES CAN'T LAST FOREVER

"Most people can understand why a tire wears out, or why bearing points of a car work loose," says Mr. Bowen, local Willard Service Station Dealer. "But they don't quite see why a battery should ever wear out."

"Of course the main trouble is that it's harder for anybody to imagine a chemical process than a mechanical one, and the battery is strictly chemical."

"There's not much inside a battery. About all there is to it is a set of plates with insulators between each pair, and solution that covers the plates and insulators. These plates are simply lattices of metallic lead filled with lead compounds. The insulators may either be wood or Threaded Rubber."

"Before a battery can be used at all it has to be charged. The electric current coming in, causes certain chemical changes. When you turn on your lights or stop on the starter, changes start in the opposite direction and supply you with current."

"Of course, this constant changing back and forth will wear out a battery in time, just as contact with the road will wear out a tire. And even if the battery is in storage and is kept charged, some will go on, as the chemicals are all present and are never absolutely idle."

"The way to get the longest life out of your battery is to keep in mind the fact that its life depends to a great extent on how well you treat it. To recover or to add water and make a hydrometer test at least once every two weeks."

What Emptiness May Do.

When a large shell is tied into the air it leaves a vacuum or less like that of a boat missing through water. Immediately behind the projectile as it moves many miles a minute through the atmosphere there is a vacuum. The air rushes in to fill the vacuum, but of course it is more or less confused and frustrated by the unexpected arrival and passage of the projectile, and the vacuum is real for a fair portion of time. If there is an airplane coming full tilt across the wake of that fired shell immediately behind the projectile, it must run into the vacuum. Then it may be more seriously damaged than if it had been struck by the shell. The air shoots together with a force that hurts all within reach, such as clapping of the hands of air in a similar vacuum made by a bolt of lightning makes the thunder. It is better to hear it than to feel it. Airplanes have been brought down in the world war by that means. Those long American navy guns did that to a German two-seater plane, and it came crashing down into the Yankee lines. The pilot was dead.

BASEBALL

(By "Mac")

Wakefield defeated Winchester Saturday on Manchester Field 5 to 4. The game was played before the largest Saturday crowd of the season, and they also saw one of the best games of the year. There was plenty of good baseball played and also some fully bad baseball. The bad baseball had to fall on Winchester and it counted in two if not three of the runs Wakefield scored. The Wakefield team that played here was not the regular team as the greater part of it sat on the bench and one of them was sent to the bat in the 9th when Kelleher was tossed as a too dangerous batter. They were strengthened by several of the Carr Eastern team who did not play Saturday. Well, at any rate Wakefield played the better ball and deserved to win. McMahon was hit hard and Waters also, but as I said bad baseball got Waters in bad.

NOTES

Six won, five lost for a percentage of .545 and you have seen some good baseball.

The new faces were seen in the Winchester lineup, and they all looked good to the crowd.

Doherty on first base is a Woburn boy and played ball in Connecticut earlier in the season. He drove in three of the four runs.

Hillis at second is from Cambridge and played with the Watertown Army team, and led it in hitting. He seemed to be a good batter and fielder.

Sid Hynes in centre field is another good player and hitter. He made two great running catches and dropped another after a hard run. He ball was not hit by right. He is a great ground coverer.

The only weak spot we can see on the team at present is third base and I hope to be able to fill that before the winter sets in.

"Mac" played at Peabody Saturday for the United Shoe team against the A. C. Lawrence Co. The United Shoe lost 3 to 2. 5,000 or 6,000 people saw the game. We surely missed him in left field Saturday.

Kelleher who played first base for the Carr Co. the 17th of June fell in for Wakefield, and they say that boy is some first baseman and hitter. Spitz on third base was another Carr player was also Lund on the second base.

McMahon as usual pitched a heady game but there was no denying the Winchester boys, they went right after him from the start. He was lucky to get away with the game.

I tried to get the Wakefield team back here for another game next Saturday but nothing doing. I offered them the same guarantee which was more than they will take in on the field any Saturday in Wakefield.

They brought quite a few posters with them, and as usual they all paid liberally. Stoneham and Wakefield were always noted for being good sports, but how we miss the Calumet Club of Stoneham and their crowd of followers.

And poor old Reading the home of empire baseball, and George Horwicz. Nothing doing there for several seasons. I hope George has not advanced so far in his old age as to forget baseball.

Ex-Gov. McCall was among the interested spectators on the field. He was standing sometime before I noticed him and offered him a seat on our bench. The power is a great fan.

I have not seen so many prominent citizens on the field before this season. It seems we are getting them all interested again. Wait till we get our new stand and then see the crowds we will get.

The 9-11 was in great shape for the game and the two weeks layoff without baseball whetted their appetites for a game.

Woburn beat Stanton 4 to 3 in twelve innings, and won the game on an error. Gilmore who lost so many games here earlier in the season made six errors and his mates made three more while Woburn made another three. Twelve errors in all and then they tell you it was the greatest game they ever saw in Woburn. When will the Woburn fans ever stop falling for this "bunk."

General Electric, newly organized, beat Watertown 12 to 1. I don't see where this present Watertown team has a license to play any strong nine. Maynard beat United Drug Co. 1 to 0 but United Drug did not have their usual strong lineup in the field.

Braintree beat the Colonial Club of East Boston 1 to 0. The Colonial Club will be here the Saturday after Labor Day.

St. Ambrose was beaten out at Taunton 5 to 1. Shea who found 17 Winchester players two seasons ago was in the box for St. Ambrose.

Medford B. B. kept up its winning streak beating Malden C. C. 4 to 0. Lacey who played third base here last season was on third for Malden and got two hits.

Packard Motor Co. beat Elison Electric 1 to 3. Moran the Packard pitcher struck out 15. The Packard Co. has not lost a game this season and will be here tomorrow.

Murray of Everett the surprise of the season beating his team 6 to 1. G. G. of Malden struck out 19. This pitcher faced us June 17th for the Carr Co. and we had no trouble hitting him.

Cornets beat Marblehead 3 to 1 before 12,000 people at Lynn. Ray Caldwell of the Red Sox pitched for Cornets.

Noticed an article in the Globe where they had to call a game down in Maine after losing 18 balls in the river. That's what's going to happen here some day. We lost three Saturday. But the Park Board cannot remedy this as the land belongs to the state and they won't stand for a fence.

Several of you fans heard a stout gentleman standing in the rear of the first baseball seats get after me to let him play second base. Well it seems Bob Barr is also after this position. I thought we had a real man there Saturday but George Willey says no, and Bob says George can't play second with him and the only thing he has got on Bob is Wright, so if these two men can decide where they want to play we may give them a tryout.

Loftus, our old left fielder has been signed by the Braves. At present he is laid up with a broken ankle. He was a reckless base runner but a great player.

And Make It Personal.

If a rich man tells you that the greatest happiness is found in poverty remind him of what David said in his haste.

CAN YOU LIVE ON $15 WEEKLY

Government Experts Place This Sum as the Smallest Livable Income

Can you live on $15 weekly? Government experts say that the smallest weekly amount on which a woman living in what is known as a "third" class city can maintain herself decently, is $15. Could you make $15 a week cover all your living expenses, from one year's end to the other? And if you are doing it, or intend doing it, just how.

Room and Board, $6.67. Room and board, according to government figures, should cost the $15 per week tentative workers, $6.67; this sum to include lunches. Clothing is placed at $1.00, with $3.60 left for all other and miscellaneous expenditures, such as car fare, dentist and doctor visits, laundry, all purchases not actually clothing, an occasional picnic or movie, and so on. The unreckoned weekly balance of 8 cents may account for postage, but otherwise it will not go far.

War, it is to be hoped, is over forever, but changing economic conditions at any time may work hardship, to poorly or even well-paid workers. The part of wisdom, therefore, is to make some sort of provision, however slender, however ardently accomplished, for such possibility. The slither the regular financial margin, the sterner the necessity. For such necessities and emergencies, Thrift and War Savings Stamps most admirably suffice.

Purchase Stamp Weekly. The purchase of even a single Thrift Stamp weekly means $1 a month put into the safest of all investments, government securities. Four months will represent the sixteen Thrift Stamps, with a few pennies added, means later realization of $5. And even if a War Savings Stamp can be purchased but three times yearly, the future situation will be brighter by a regularly increasing contingent of income-bearing investments. It is fun to save as a future-profit-making game!

NEED $3,000,000.00 FOR EXPORT TRADE

"In entering the battle for world trade supremacy, the United States must rely upon the American people as a whole to furnish the silver bullets. The Federal Reserve Board states that 3,000,000,000 of new funds must be provided in the next few months if the United States maintains its present position in export trade. This sum must come from the children's banks, from the egg money of the farmer's wives, and from the surplus created by the people's savings."

Fight Shyster Brokers. So said William Mather Lewis, Vice-director of the Savings Division, Treasury Department, in an address delivered before the National Retail Hardware Association at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania recently.

Continuing Mr. Lewis said: "If the American people can be taught to give one-tenth the thought they devote to making money to the problem of spending and investing it wisely, the financial stability of the country is assured. Furthermore, the gold-broker and the shyster broker and banker, who are not plying their unduly traffic in separating the ignorant from their Government Bonds and War Savings Stamps will go out of business."

If the girl says "Yes" can you furnish a flat without mortgaging your wages?

The man who can marry without asking odds of the girl or the future man is his own boss.

The Government asks you to buy War Savings Stamps regularly. There you find a Savings Stamp.

Stick to Savings Stamps and you won't be stuck.

What you will be tomorrow depends on what you save today.

You are worth what you have saved. Thrift is a shield against money worries.

Saving three nickels a day with interest will amount to $1500 in about fifteen years.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A mean man seems to think that the end justifies the means.

Never judge a maxim by the man who repeats it.

A prudent man never butts into danger for the purpose of advertising his bravery.

The worst thing about the skeleton in the family closet is that it refuses to remain there.

Fair weather next Traders' Day.

From present appearances it looks as though we shall have a quiet election this fall so far as local interest is concerned. Medford has one candidate in the field for Representative honors and seems to have a clear field, it appearing satisfactory to all to allow our neighbor to have his innings at this time. The Senatorial nomination will be contested by three candidates to date, and possibly others will come forward.

The Wolburn Winchester baseball series has been arranged. There will be five games this season, with the first opening a week from tomorrow at Wolburn. It takes quite a while every year to work this series up into the proper degree of rivalry—quite like crowding a horse when everyone knows it will race, but when no one mentions until the proper time. A ball season without this series would certainly not be complete.

Practically every house owner in Winchester receives a welcome surprise with this week's STAR in the announcement that our tax rate has been set by the Board of Assessors at $20.25. This is an increase of but 24 cents over last year's rate. Predictions made last week that $22 and over would be the rate for 1919. Our Board of Assessors seem destined to be a popular crowd this year.

Many residents in the neighborhood of Highland avenue viewed with relief the renewal of the work of laying the new high service main on that street Wednesday. This work was discontinued some five weeks ago when the men on the town department struck. From then on a section of trench a couple of hundred feet in length was left open at one of the narrowest parts of the road, and as the sidewalk was blocked and considerable dirt thrown into the road, the point was a decidedly dangerous place, not only for autos, which could only pass one at a time, but for pedestrians who were obliged to walk in the street and over the heaped-up dirt. The section is a difficult one for pipe laying, owing to the deep ledge, which requires blasting. The work of laying the pipe was resumed this week, with a five hour discontinuance of water for residents in the neighborhood yesterday.

THE COUNTRY PRESS AND THE POSTAL ZONE LAW

The so-called "postal zone system," now a law until repealed, abolishes our basic postal principles established for more than half a century. This revival of the idea that cost must determine the postage rate, introduces a new element of such importance to the country newspapers of this nation that they need to be tutored with great care and precision before they blindly support the postal zone system, as some of them at least seem disposed to do.

There is no more important service than that rendered, or which may be rendered, the American people by the small country newspapers. Recognizing this fact, free mail delivery with in the county of publication was provided for the country press many years ago. This free postal service was never regarded as a subsidy to country newspapers. It was a vital public service of information and education to rural readers. It meant, chiefly, freedom of circulation to the readers, for any postal charge would be added to the subscription price, directly or indirectly.

The subsidy, if so it might be termed, was to the readers, to the people themselves, who pay for it in their national taxes. The rural delivery is for the benefit of the country newspaper reader.

Now the latest official report of the Post Office Department shows that the annual cost per newspaper on Rural Free Delivery routes is 1.4 cents per piece. As the country papers weigh approximately ten or eleven to the pound, this would mean a minimum postage charge on country newspapers of fourteen cents per pound.

The First Assistant Postmaster General last year, testifying before a Senate committee, stated that the "overhead" on every pound of newspaper mail was 38 cents per pound. Therefore, on this new rule of postal "cost," the country press of this nation will have to face the terrific total postage charge of almost eighteen cents per pound.

Of course, no country publisher can afford a postage charge of eighteen cents a pound. He must pass this charge on to his subscribers, reducing thereby his circulation.

This overturn of postal principles in existence for over fifty years will impose a very great injustice upon the country newspapers and their readers. The rural delivery is the most expensive and least profitable of all the postal departments and therefore the revival of this old postal theory will put upon the country press of America the highest rates of postage in the land.

GORDON'S CAMBRIDGE CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

Mildred Harris, wife of Charlie Chaplin, is to be seen in "Home" a new production at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Millicent Rankin, daughter of a small town plumber, believed that the greatest joy in life came from wealth and social position. Her ideas were formed on the subject while she was attending a fashionable boarding school for girls to which her parents by numerous sacrifices had been able to send her.

On her arrival at home at the end of the semester Millicent cut her parents to the heart by showing that she was ashamed of her home. But her mother's anxiety over the illness of another daughter prevented her mind from dwelling too long on the matter. So when Millicent had an opportunity to visit the richest girl in the school at her summer home Mrs. Rankin gave her consent.

Away Millicent went overflowing with happiness at the thought of new worlds to conquer—worlds which might have among them a rich man for her to marry. And she did meet a man she thought fate had ordained for her. But what a commonplace thing he was compared with true-hearted Tom Wallace. In a moment of girlish unthoughtfulness she allows herself to become compromised with the man-about-town she had picked for her husband, and she incurred the enmity of the mistress of the house, who was engaged in a little love affair with the same man. Then came a message from the girl's lover back home—"Your mother is seriously ill."

She went back home—her blessed home—where people knew her for what she was and where sham and pretence had no place.

There will be five acts of vaudeville—all stars—including Bond, Wilson & Co., a one-act farce entitled "Superstition"; Gomme and Albert in "On the Way to School"; Boothby and Everdeen in songs and travesty; Stockton's Dog Circus; and Andre Sisters and Poole.

There will be a fine organ recital by Harry Rodgers.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday there will be an entire change of vaudeville and photoplays featuring Wm. S. Hart in "Wagon Tracks."

There will be a grand sacred concert Sunday night, with new photoplays and vaudeville.

ST. HELENA WANTS 'KAISER BILL'; THAT MAKES IT UNANIMOUS

"St. Helena, the island whose speciality is the entertainment of deposed monarchs has good economic reasons for its reported desire to have the Kaiser for a prisoner," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington headquarters.

"Napoleon was its most famous and best paying 'guest,' though not the only one. Dinuzulu, a Zulu king, was a more recent exile; sent there after he led a rebellion against the British during the Transvaal in 1889. While Napoleon was at St. Helena, 'profiteering' at the expense of the Bonaparte household and the numerous members of the garrison sent to guard him, was reduced to a fine art by the island citizens.

"In fact it was the high cost of St. Helena living which created part of the friction between Napoleon and the British Governor of the island, Sir Hudson Lowe. Instead of living within the 8,000 pounds sterling allowed for maintenance of Bonaparte and the half hundred members of his entourage the bills for a year mounted to three times that sum. Upon complaint of the governor, which Napoleon resented, the ex-monarch executed a bit of 'play to the galleries' by ordering his silver and his bed broken up for wood, which, when reported in England, created so much criticism of the governor, already none too popular, that further remonstrances were not made.

"Napoleon's wants were few. His principal luxury was books; his diversions chess playing and digging in his garden. Like the former Kaiser, he spent many hours with the Bible. He professed no piety, however, frankly admitting that he was making a study of certain Old Testament books to show that monarchies and divine sanction, and he also spoke of wanting to write a monograph on 'The Campaigns of Moses'."

"Since St. Helena is some 700 miles from the nearest land, Ascension island, and 1,200 miles from the nearest African port, the extreme precautions taken by Lowe to prevent the escape of the man who once had ruled half of Europe, created considerable amusement. Sir Hudson was greatly disturbed one day to find a newly arrived Corsican priest riding horseback in a coat similar to Napoleon's believing the compatriot involved in a plot to deceive the guards. The French commissioner complained that the sight of a passing dog was enough to induce the governor to plant a new sentinel on the spot; but perhaps the most extreme of the many amusing stories of Lowe's solicitude was the occasion of his protest against Napoleon's planting some white and green beans, sensing in this combination of colors a subtle allusion to the white flag of the Bourbons and the distinctive green uniform of the general.

"Living almost wholly within two rooms and his garden, Napoleon insisted on all the pomp and ceremony possible in such cramped quarters. Since his companions necessarily were much in his presence his insistence upon their standing sometimes brought them to the point of fainting. None might speak unless spoken to and all became extremely bored with court life in a shanty involving all the burdens, without any of the splendors, of a palace."

"At first the exile rode horseback but soon abandoned that rather than have an English guard along. His seclusion is best attested by the fact that for five of his six years' stay he did not exchange a word with the governor and of the three commissioners—Russian, French and Austrian—solitarily there by the various visits of a treaty to assure of his presence one saw him through a telescope, a second looked into his face for the first time when he was to be buried, and the third saw him not at all.

"Napoleon's days at St. Helena were not wholly devoted to killing time. He dictated his voluminous memoirs, and military commentaries, wrote a number of his associates later added to these diaries, conversations and memoirs of their own, inaccurate or deliberately misleading, in large part. Now this activity would be called propaganda. It was highly effective propaganda, too. Though Napoleon's escape was prevented by vigilance to an absurd degree, and though the effect of his winning personality was guarded against by forbidding visitors to see him, his writings and those of Menothol and Las Cases resulted in the royalistic 'flaraback' that put his nephew on the throne of France. It was to Napoleon III, that Queen Victoria presented 'Longwood,' where Napoleon lived and died while at St. Helena.

"Geographically St. Helena is peculiarly fitted for an island prison. Its volcanic formation accounts for a half circle of mountains which permit only one landing place, that at the islands single port and city, Jamestown. Uninhabited when discovered ten years after Columbus sailed for America, the island was settled by British, Dutch and Portuguese. In the days of sailing vessels and before the Suez canal was opened the islanders thrived by providing supplies for passing vessels. With the passing of this market for their meats and vegetables, the island's principal industries waned and the inhabitants dwindled until there are now only about 3,500 persons, as compared with twice that many residents thirty years ago. The island belongs to Great Britain and is administered directly by the Crown."

When Ben Franklin Was a Boy

By Rene Bach, great-great-grandson of Benjamin Franklin

The price of bread two centuries ago was a penny a loaf. That was two cents, which seems mighty cheap. But one should remember that in those days the purchasing power of money was far greater than now.

This is what happened that Benjamin Franklin, a boy of seventeen, on arriving in Philadelphia, was able to buy three loaves for three-pence; and with them he walked up Market Street from the wharf, holding one under each arm and eating the third. An hour later he gave two of them to a woman and her child who had been fellow-voyagers up the Delaware.

Franklin was always generous. In fact, he was often imprudently so. During the period of his early struggles he was frequently in serious financial plight because of lending or giving money to friends poorer than himself.

Where his own expenditures were concerned he was always frugal, saving what he could out of his wages as a printer, while his fellow-workers spent theirs as fast as they got them, or faster. In this way it came about that, while a mere youngster in a printing office, he lent them money every week.

Acted as Banker.

Though the earnings of most of them were greater than his, he was the capitalist. By the middle of each week they were penniless and came to him for economy to carry them over until pay day. He would accept no interest, but each Saturday, on getting their money, they gave back to him what they owed only to repeat the borrowing three or four days later.

Of course, his board was really very small, but he was the "moneyed" man. As such, he stood on a plane above his fellow workmen not merely in an economic sense, but in the respect he was able to command from his employer and from others. Relatively, he was a person of importance. Nobody who knew him could escape recognition of the fact that here was a young man sure to get ahead in the world.

This is exactly the kind of man that is sought by employers today. They need him in their business, and he never has to look long for a job. In fact, the job seeks him.

The employer of today keeps watchful "tab" on the habits of his employees. His confidence in the man who spends all he gets as fast as he gets it is always qualified. He knows it is his business to know. On the other hand, the man who saves—whose puts part of his earnings away right along unmistakably has character and ambition. He is marked for promotion.

With this idea in mind, employees are buying War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps. It is an easy way to begin, and the plan has been found to work out admirably. The wage-earners form little "societies" for the purpose among themselves, each member contributing so much a week. This obligation for self-help having once been voluntarily assumed, everybody "pools up" regularly in response to the weekly call, and before long their savings acquire real weight.

Learn to save—Money will work for you 21 Hours a Day. THRIFT and WAR SAVINGS STAMPS provide a Safe and Patriotic method. "Get the Habit." Begin today to buy Thrift and War Savings Stamps—They may be the foundation of your Fortune.

U. S. WILL DOUBLE WEALTH BY 1934

That in the next 15 years the total wealth of the United States, now approximately $200,000,000,000 will be doubled, is the prediction made by the officials of the United States Treasury Department, who are now urging people to invest in Thrift and War Savings Stamps so that they may share in this increase of wealth.

Last year over $18,000,000,000 was paid in this country. This is called "savings for economic 'net income'." This increase in wealth the Treasury Department states was abnormal, but that we may reasonably estimate that in the next 15 years the new wealth produced will be as great as the present total wealth of the nation.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

A little girl in Somerville was working in her school garden one day last week when she noticed that the leaves of her tomato vines had been eaten off during the night. Her first thought was of the goats that were kept across the street. She ran frantically to where the supervisor was working and reported her loss. Upon inspection of the vines by the supervisor, however, it was found that the goats were nothing more than tomato worms. But the tomato vines looked as if some animal had breakfasted upon them, such ragged appearance did they present.

The tomato worm is, perhaps, the largest caterpillar with which the home gardener has to contend. It is a vivid green worm measuring three to four inches in length and nearly one-half inch in diameter. It seldom appears in large numbers, therefore it is not particularly dangerous. Nevertheless, it does no good and should be destroyed when found. This caterpillar usually clings underneath the middle rib of the leaf and feels on each side of it. It is quite difficult to locate these worms so completely do they hide themselves among the vines. Hand picking is the easiest means of control.

The tomato fruitworm is another caterpillar that usually attacks the tomato crop about this time of the year. It is different from the tomato worm and only attacks the ripened fruit by eating into it. This caterpillar is about two inches in length and is generally of a brownish-grey color. The aspenate of leaf spray is recommended for its control.

Some home gardeners have experienced already the blossom-end rot trouble on their tomatoes. This disease causes a decay of the fruit at the blossom end. It is caused by soil conditions, usually by a soil being too wet and not well-drained. Tomatoes that are shaded much by the foliage are quite subject to the disease. Plants that have been trained to stakes and kept pruned are less liable to attack by the disease.

If you have a surplus of garden vegetables on hand, do not allow them to go to waste. String and shell beans, beets, carrots, spinach, chard, summer squash and tomatoes are now obtainable from most gardens for canning. Sweet corn will be ready soon. It should be picked between the milk and the dough stage and canned as soon as possible after it is picked.

A home gardener in Waltham succeeded in destroying all of the looper worms on his beans by shaking the caterpillars from the vines and running a cultivator through the rows. If one does not like the idea of spraying with arsenate of lead, this method of destroying the worms should be tried.

During the next few weeks one may plant squash in his garden for use during the late fall and early spring. The Victoria variety should be planted as it does best in cool weather. Try some.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Broken hearts, so a prominent medical man would have the Spectator to understand, are quite out of fashion. The disease has become obsolete, and two reasons are assigned for this. In the first place, says the medical gentleman, women do not fall in love as once they did. Mere children are not encouraged to think of love and matrimony, and then women, having come to riper years and sounder judgment before they decide to marry, do not let themselves fall into that state which was supposed to produce cordial rupture.

The Spectator ventures to express the opinion that this statement is not altogether accurate. Human nature does not alter from one generation to another. People "fall in love" a thousand years ago, a thousand years hence they will be doing the same, but they woo with a difference, so will those who are to succeed us. The fact is, we do not now wear our hearts on our sleeves, and we have learned that if lovers prove untrue or unworthy there are better and more dignified ways of lamenting them than souring our tempers, or wasting away and allowing our friends and relatives to treat us as derelicts.

The Spectator.

DECREASE IN ARRESTS FOR DRUNKENNESS

Bulletin Issued by the Massachusetts
Commission on Probation

The Commission on Probation issues the following statement as to arrests for drunkenness in the state of Massachusetts during the first month of prohibition:

The total number of arrests for drunkenness in the entire state during the month of July, 1919, was 2319. The number in the corresponding month in 1918 was 7218. During the year period the number of arrests had shown a marked decline, the number in the state for the year ending September 30, 1918 being 27,433 smaller than in the year previous. Returning to comparison by months the number of arrests during July, 1917, was 11,141. This may be taken as the normal number under license. Comparison with this the number during July, 1919, the decrease is 80 per cent. But the small number for the first month under prohibition would be much smaller but for the fact that it includes the arrests on the first day of July resulting from the drinking on the last day of the old year, making the day phenomenal in the number of arrests. Boston alone having 533 on that day. This day aside, the arrests for the month in the entire state would fall below 1000 and would probably show a decline of nearly or quite 75 per cent as compared with 1917.

The foregoing figures are for drunkenness arrests only. There has been an increase in the arrests for other offenses which is explained by the probation officers in their reports to the Commission as due to a stricter enforcement of laws and local ordinances by the police and by an extraordinary number of arrests for violation of the highway traffic laws. Arrests for all offenses, which are reported daily to the Commission from 21 courts in Boston and adjoining jurisdictions, show that in Greater Boston the total for all offenses was 1105 in July, 1919, as compared with 6108 in the same month of 1918 and 9451 in July, 1917.

The great reduction in the number of arrests for drunkenness does not denote a corresponding relief of the trial courts. Under the operation of the release law, probation officers released during 1918 without arraignment 63 per cent of the persons arrested for drunkenness and in Boston the releases amounted to 75 per cent. The release law is still in effect but reports from the courts of the state

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

August 14, 1919. The board met at 7:30 p.m. Present: Messrs. Egan, C. J. Donovan and Newman.

The records of the meeting of August 11 and August 13 were read and approved.

Licenses 1919 Common Vitalists: A license of this class was granted to James F. Kenney, at the corner of Cambridge and P and streets. This license which is approved by the Chief of Police is effective until May 1, 1920 unless sooner revoked.

Citation, Rewards, Etc.: A letter was received from the War Department in regard to citations issued by the War and Navy Departments as tokens of employees' patriotic cooperation in re-employing their old service men who left to take part in the Great War. The letter asks that this matter be laid before the business men of the town with the request that they apply for this citation in cases where they are entitled to it. The letter was ordered sent to the Winchester Board of Trade.

Dance Halls: A letter was received from the chief of the district police of Massachusetts enclosing copies of posters issued in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 160 of the General Acts of 1919, being an act for the further regulation of public and private dances. These posters were ordered sent to the Chief of Police, he to have them posted in all the dance halls throughout the town.

Legislation, State (Taxes): The town council appeared before the board in regard to what action should be taken by the town pertaining to contesting the constitutionality of the new method of distributing the income tax. After considerable discussion the board voted to refer the whole matter to the town counsel with power to act. The clerk was instructed to notify Mr. William L. Allen, chairman of the committee of towns, advocating return of the income tax to the source, that this matter had been referred to Mr. Ralph E. Joslin, town counsel, whose office is at 18 Tremont street, Boston, Mass., and with whom he could communicate in regard to the matter.

Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co.: A letter was received from the chairman of the trustees of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co., stating that the trustees will be glad to meet the board on Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 12 o'clock. The clerk was instructed to write the chairman of the trustees that the board of selectmen will meet them at the stated time.

Highland Avenue: A letter was received from the Water and Sewer Board thanking the board of selectmen and accepting their offer of the services of the Highway Department to fill in the open water trench on Highland avenue, between Hancock street and Park avenue.

Highway Department (Unclassified): A report of progress was received from the superintendent of streets in regard to the cost of installing a gravel serving plant for the Highway Department.

Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co.: The superintendent of street reported that he is in company with Messrs. Walker and Ellis of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co. had inspected the tracks of this company located on Main street, from Winchester Centre to the Woburn line. He stated that both Mr. Walker and Mr. Ellis said that they would recommend to the trustees of this railway company that 1500 feet of track be thoroughly repaired and 1500 feet more be renewed, but that it is the company's policy to do nothing at all except where towns wish to repave at their own expense. This report of the superintendent of street was also embodied in a letter sent to the chairman of the board and placed in the Selectmen's files. Along with the superintendent of street's letter was a letter addressed to him from Mr. Walker of the Eastern Mass. St. Ry. Co. confirming what he and Mr. Ellis had said to Mr. Clarke on their tour of inspection. In this letter Mr. Walker states that he and Mr. Ellis appreciate the poor condition of the paving in the track zone over considerable portion of the track inspected as well as the poor condition of the track itself, but that under Section 20,

IN PROTEST OF TWO SESSIONS

I think it is an imposition on the parents and the pupils who live in the outlying districts to have two sessions in the Wadleigh school. I say Wadleigh, as that is the school that affects the writer.

To quote from School News in the STAR of a few weeks ago: "It is felt that longer period of relaxation for the noon meal with opportunity for many pupils to go to their homes will be better both for pupils and teachers." What about those who cannot go home? It is a problem for many parents to solve and we cannot see the need of changing.

"Let well enough alone" is a good motto to follow, especially in the schools. I do not believe in changes unless they bring about some material benefit.

Last year the method of writing was changed with the result that at least one pupil who was a very fine penman has lost the art of writing entirely, which is a great disappointment to her family. If these changes in methods are necessary why not take them up in the lower grades where the pupils are just learning to write, and let those who are soon to graduate go on with what they have already learned?

Now about the two sessions—what about the children who do not have time to come home—shall they take their lunches and spend the whole hour and a half in the school building or shall they get out and exercise by walking the streets until the afternoon session begins? This is the question we parents of the outlying districts are asking ourselves. We realize that it is a very nice arrangement for those who live near the center but we all do not live near the center.

I have never heard nor read any protests from those on the west side who should be interested in this matter. Perhaps the larger winter grades go to lunch and back to school again as it has always taken them to school in the morning and home when school was over.

This has always seemed unjust to me—we, of the east side have had to see our children's shoes wear out very fast or else buy street car tickets while those on the other side were carried free back and forth to school.

I hope for the good of my neighbors, as well as for myself that this two-session idea will not be started.

Mrs. Laraway,
177 Forest street.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Nathaniel M. Nichols and Mrs. Claf-In Injured Sunday Evening

There were two bad auto accidents in town Sunday night, both apparently caused by careless driving by out of town chauffeurs. Nathaniel M. Nichols, custodian of the public schools was badly cut and bruised and Mrs. Harriet A. Clafin of Kenwin road received a broken nose and bad cuts about the head and face.

The accident to Mr. Nichols occurred on Main street near Salem street at 7:10. He had just returned in his auto from a five days' trip to the White Mountains with four of his men and had drawn his auto up to the curb to unload some of the baggage from the running board.

An electric car was standing on the turn-out at this point and as Mr. Nichols was at work a car, driven by Herman Rosler of 61 Beach street, Woburn, tried to pass through the narrow space. The driver crowded so close to the Nichols' car that Mr. Nichols was caught between the autos, the only thing saving him from being killed being his grip on his steering wheel. As it was the lower part of his body was badly cut and bruised, one knee and his hip especially badly wrenched.

He was taken to the emergency room at the police station and Dr. Cutler was summoned, who after dressing his wounds ordered him to his home.

With Mr. Nichols at the time of the accident were Fred Cyr, Edward O'Brien, John McGoldrick and Paul Kirk, all of whom had been with him on the trip.

Late reports are that Mr. Nichols is resting comfortably, although what developments will come from his injured knee and hip are awaited.

Another bad accident occurred on the same evening at about the same time when Mrs. Harriet A. Clafin, 70 years old, of 15 Kenwin road, was struck by a Buick truck driven by Charles Gersmivith of 1 Holmstead park, Dorchester. The aged woman had just alighted from an electric car at Cross street. She was thrown to the street and badly injured, and examination at the Winchester Hospital, to which she was at once taken, revealed that in addition to numerous bad body bruises and cuts about the head she had suffered a broken nose.

Gersmivith was arrested by the Winchester police, and in the Woburn court Monday morning he was charged with assault and battery and operating the truck without his registration. He was held in $500 bail and his case continued until August 25th.

Still another accident smashed up two cars on Saturday night, a light truck of John J. Walsh of 19 School street, Melrose, being run into by a Ford runabout driven by Adam R. Hamilton of Loring avenue, who had three other men in with him. The truck was the most badly damaged, although both autos were considerably smashed up.

The accident occurred on Forest street near Maple road and Hamilton was arrested for operating his car while under the influence of liquor. None of the occupants were injured, and in court Monday morning Hamilton was fined $35, which he appealed.

Another case in the Woburn court Monday morning was that of Charles W. Cosman of Boston, who was charged with driving his automobile through Winchester centre at the rate of 35 miles an hour. He was fined $10.

WILL DIRECT K. OF C. BUILDING

The Winchester Council K. of C. Building Corporation meeting Tuesday evening elected the following officers: Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, president; Frank O'Hara, vice-president; Henry Longfield, treasurer; Luke P. Glendon, secretary. The members of Winchester Council K. of C. are planning to locate in new quarters and have a special committee of the council looking up a suitable location.

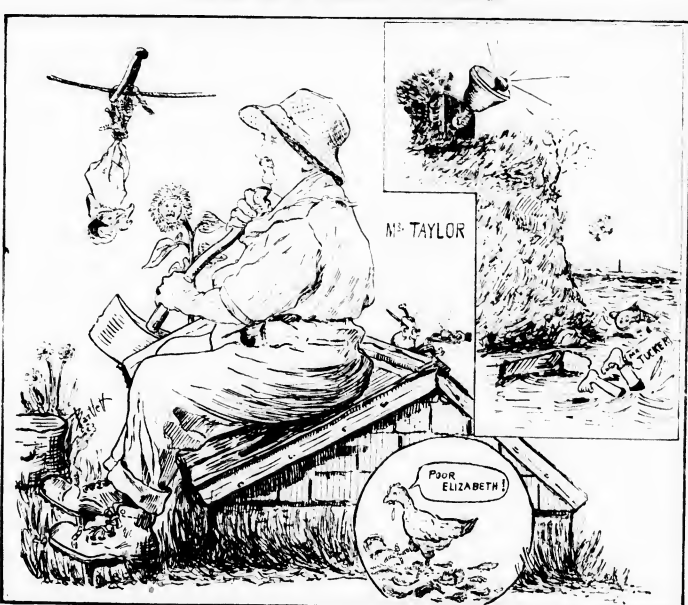

REAL ESTATE SALES

Henry W. Savage, Inc., announce that they have sold for Mrs. H. R. Gilbert her estate at No. 9 Ridgely road to Alfred P. Wellburn. This property is assessed for $8025, of which $1525 is on the land. They also report the sale of the estate of Florence W. Farmer at No. 26 Glen road to Lyman E. Snow of Boston. The property is assessed for $7300, of which $2000 is on the land.

WINCHESTER MEDALS

RUSTICATING

These two well known citizens of Winchester are enjoying the charms of Manomet Bluffs, Mass. Our genial Ex-Selectman and former member of the Water and Sewer Board, Mr. Nathan H. Taylor will have nothing but his own fresh killed chicken.

The aquatic and subaqueous stunts of this year's Secretary of our Finance Committee, Mr. Edward A. Tucker, stunts which rival those of the most accomplished inhabitants of the sea, have frequently to be brought, with difficulty, to an end by the announcement that dinner is ready.

AUTOIST IN COURT

Judge Maguire placed on file the charge of operating without sufficient lights alleged against George A. Garey of Somerville last week. Garey admitted that the lights on the truck came out, but when he told the court that he operated many times without lights and felt safe enough in proceeding to a garage to have them repaired, having threaded the roads of the fighting region in France with unlighted trucks many times, the Judge filed the case. Garey told the Judge that he was repairing the lights when the Winchester officer approached him. He said that he went to a garage to have the lights adjusted with no intention of operating without lights, except that it was unavoidable.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Thomas H. Barrett reports the sale to Louis J. Miller, of the property of Stuart W. Webb, number 25 Ridgely road. This sale comprises a modern stucco house of 12 rooms, containing 3 bathrooms, lavatories, and also a double steam-heated garage; lot contains about 10,000 sq. ft. of land. Mr. Miller, the purchaser, will dispose of a beautiful home in Winthrop center; he will occupy his new home about October 1st.

Mr. Barrett also leased the house of Blank Bros. at number 2 Eaton Court, to Mr. W. J. Williams of Pennsylvania. Mr. Williams has been employed by the Government in the Revenue Department, and is now stationed in Boston. He will make his home in Winchester about September 1st.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

Woburn comes here tomorrow for the second game of the series. We will use the same lineup and batting order that gave such a good account of itself in Woburn and we expect to get away with another win. There will be a tremendous crowd on the field and as the seating capacity is 200, you will have to get an early start if you want to get a seat.

Autos will be held back until the crowd leaves the field, so there will be no danger of accidents. Two umpires will be on the job, the Winchester man behind the plate and the Woburn man on the bases. There will also be plenty of police protection to keep the crowd in check and give everyone a chance to see the game.

KNUDSEN-WINGATE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. L. Wingate announce the marriage of their daughter, Josephine, to Mr. H. A. Knudsen on August 15, in Oakland, California. Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen will reside in Seattle, where Mr. Knudsen is to engage in business.

POST NO. 97 AMERICAN LEGION

Last week notice was given in the STAR that headquarters were open in the Brown building, and a campaign on for membership.

A number of our World War Veterans have signed up the past week, but a very small proportion of the large number from this town. Possibly an explanation of why we are anxious to get our men signed up at this time, is necessary.

The State Convention will be held in November and for every one hundred members, we get one representative at this convention depends upon paid-up membership thirty days prior to this meeting. Therefore, it can readily be seen, we have only until October 1st to get our membership. By joining prior to October 1st, one also becomes a charter member of the Post and Legion.

The dues are only two dollars per year. Every Post is obliged to pay out of this a per capita tax to the State and National headquarters.

It is hardly necessary to say what the organization represents as most every service man knows. It represents 100 per cent Americanism. That fraternal spirit kindled by the closest association during the war, will never be forgotten and can only be furthered by such an organization as this.

The Executive Committee are planning to hold a general meeting early in September, but before prominent speakers are reserved, we wish to assure them of a one hundred per cent membership.

Our neighboring Posts are outdoing us in enrollments. Winchester has never been outdone before and we feel it will not in this issue.

"Drop in and sign up."

Post Enrollment Committee,
R. W. Sheehy
L. E. Gorka
H. J. Donovan.

DISCORD IN LEGION POSTS

The controversies in many posts of the American Legion becoming widespread in Massachusetts reached a point so alarming last week that Leo A. Spillane, the Massachusetts State secretary for the legion, drew up a statement warning legion members who are exhibiting "traits of selfishness," that there is no room "for the personal ambitions of any one man or any group of men" in the legion, and eliminating the root of much of the conflicts by urging that posts be named after the locality rather than the name of a dead hero.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following cases of contagious diseases, have been reported to the Board of Health for the week ending August 21: Diphtheria 1, tuberculosis 1.

MASSÉ-RYAN

The wedding of Miss Rose Anna Ryan, a well known young woman of Winchester Highlands and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic J. Ryan of Lobanov street, to Mr. Augustus D. Masse, a Boston contractor, took place on Monday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt of St. Mary's church at the rectory.

The bride was attired in a dress of dark blue georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth C. Ryan, who wore dark blue satin and carried sweet peas. Mr. Henry McCarthy of Boston was best man.

A wedding supper at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, about twenty-five relatives and friends attending, and this was followed by a reception. During the evening there was music, both vocal and instrumental, including piano selections by Mr. and Mrs. William Cleary.

At the close of the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to Maine, and they will be at home to their friends after September first at their new home at No. 381 Summer street, West Somerville.

The tomato, without question, the most popular vegetable that is grown in home gardens. The fruit is relished by most every one. The plants are easy to raise being relatively free from disease and insect enemies. A sure crop is generally the rule. But how often has the home gardener gone into his garden to pick some ripe fruit for the table only to find some of the most perfect tomatoes cracked open at the top or a hole eaten into the side of them by some insect?

In order to avoid such damage to the fruit, it is a good plan to pick the tomatoes when they first commence to ripen. These unripened tomatoes should be placed in a moderately warm, dark place such as a covered box or a pantry drawer. Here they will ripen quicker and more uniformly than when they are allowed to mature on the vine. When tomatoes are left to mature on the vine they require a lot of nourishment in order to ripen the fruit and seeds. By picking the tomatoes before they ripen, the plant food that otherwise would have gone into ripening the tomatoes, is conserved to level up the remaining fruit on the vines.

Now that the berry season is over, it is well to give the back-yard raspberry and blackberry patches some attention. One should cut out all the canes that produced fruit this season.

This will give the new canes a better chance to make a good growth before winter. The old canes ought to be placed in a heap and burned so as to destroy all insects and diseases that they might contain.

Squash vine borers are still doing great damage in some parts of the country. The borers have infested a garden in Everett to such an extent that some were found in the stems of New Zealand squashes. This pest must be hunted down and killed. Poisonous sprays will not reach him as he attacks the inside of the stem, eating out the pith and thus cutting off the supply of plant juices to the rest of the plant. As recommended in an earlier article, slitting the stem and removing the borer is the surest means of control. A well-labeled lime sprunked around the stem of the vine will help to repel the pest.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

The following demand is made upon the Spectator for light and leading: Dear Spectator, Kindly tell me what to believe when a story is first affirmed in the columns of a newspaper and later contradicted. If the first is false why may not the second be also? How does any intelligent Winchesterer know which to believe when two opposite advocates have spoken?

Life-Long Star Reader.

Nothing is easier than to ask questions like these. The Spectator should like to propose a few of kindred nature to "Life-Long Star Reader." Why is it that few people here in Winchester or elsewhere can tell the same story in precisely the same way on two successive days? Why is it that no two persons who see an occurrence can agree concerning the details, or why do they often disagree respecting important particulars? Why is it that when reporters go out to interrogate men who know about almost any happening they find such wide variance of recollection and statement? Why is it that scores of times a person affirms the exactitude of a relation and a few days afterward not merely makes a totally contrary statement but declares that the first never was told? Why have there been instances in which individuals have written out their own statements and have afterward repudiated them? What made a certain stump speaker furnish a manuscript of his speech to a newspaper published less than a dozen miles from Everett and though no alteration was made in the publication accuse a reporter of misrepresenting him? Why do scientists and experts, and sociologists, and philanthropists and theologians, and statesmen and statisticians, not only violently disagree in their conclusions, but in their presentations of alleged facts? The Spectator might propound a few more inquiries, but these will do for the present occasion.

From the fact that our correspondent wrote to a newspaper instead of to a lawyer or a physician or a clergyman or a politician, The Spectator is led to infer that he shares in a common belief that a newspaper is peculiarly an offender in this weakness of saying one thing one day or another thing another day, or of presenting contradictory opinions on the same subject. Well, it is not. The Spectator has never counted the number of statements which are made in one issue of a large daily newspaper, but they must total far up in the hundreds of thousands, and so far as the statements for which the newspaper itself is in any way responsible are

With respect to the other question as to which to believe of two opposing advocates, the Spectator really must say that he doesn't know. If such a broad query can be answered by anybody, it certainly cannot be by a mere newspaper man. The Spectator's impression would be that each case must be settled by itself on its own merits and in connection with the circumstances which surround it. Perhaps the character and arguments of the advocates ought to be taken into the account. The question is as old one. Pilate asked it when he inquired, "What is truth?" The Spectator does not know that there was any reply on that occasion.

Clare McConney and Howard A. Brown of Everett, both riding motor cycles, collided at the corner of Forest street and Highland avenue Tuesday afternoon at 4:20. McConney received bad cuts on his chin, head, shoulder and over his left eye, and was taken to the Winchester Hospital. Both motorcycles were badly damaged.

Word received this week from Robert S. Fogg, recently discharged as a lieutenant in the aviation service, reports that he is chief engineer in the state highway department at Austin, Texas. He is engaged in the construction of a big Federal highway there and says he has 66 miles ahead of him for completion. As an example of what the state of Texas is doing in road construction it is interesting to note from his letter that 21 counties of the state each voted one million dollars to road construction, while Dallas county alone appropriated three and one-half million.

BASEBALL

(By "Mack")

We paid our annual visit to Woburn Saturday and showed the natives of that thriving city the article of baseball to have been getting here all summer. It proved to be entirely too much for their ball tossers up there, and we returned to Winchester with a goodly lot of notes. The articles of ball our team showed could not be beaten, and they simply showed to Woburn team of the foot.

Winchester made three errors in the course of the game and Woburn made five. The errors on both sides figuring in the scoring. Waters out pitched Weeber about two to one, and in the game next Saturday should do even better, as he will have the confidence of a well-bred man.

Flaherty caught him in great shape and Woburn took few liberties with his arm. The whole team played bang-up ball behind Waters and he should be able to win three games, out of five with the backing he received.

The report of the game from Woburn said "the fine pitching of Weeber was not backed by his mates." As I have said during the week any pitcher that gets nicked for nine singles and three doubles in the course of an afternoon is due for a beating whether he is "Kiko" Weeber or Walter Johnson. Remarkable fielding by Conlon saved Weeber from a larger score and also wild base-running by the Winchester boys lost us two or more runs.

The two teams will lineup again tomorrow on Manchester field and Woburn should play a more steady game. Reports say there will be a few changes in their lineup, but such little changes as that won't bother us any. It is like another tripping for Woburn from here.

The score:

Notes
8 won, 5 lost, for a percentage of .615. We should add another win tomorrow.

It turned out a fine day and the big crowd was a good one full of fight all the way through.

Winchester was well represented and more autos were in evidence from this town than at any other game.

The crowd was late in getting to the grounds and at 3 o'clock not more than 200 people were on the field, but from then on they came in droves, and between three and four thousand people saw the game.

While the crowd at Woburn was large it will be nothing compared with the one that will see the game here tomorrow. The game at Woburn gave them a sample of what is coming and you can bet they are not going to miss anything.

All the old timers were on hand and I met and shook hands with men from Lexington, Reading, Stoneham and Arlington. Some fellows know where the excitement is.

Bill Viano, the former Minute Boy manager, was on hand with a party of friends, while Fred Herbolzheimer of Reading, who formerly managed them, was also an interested spectator.

That boy Sheridan, who played third base for Winchester, is some ball player, if any of your friends ask you. That leaping catch of the line drive was surely some catch and a life saver. He had no trouble doubling the man off first base.

"Doc" Doherty had the time of his life with his Woburn friends. They were "rubbing" him all the afternoon, but if he heard them, he gave no indication of it. He got everyone's goat when he made that bare hand catch for the last out.

The more we see of Hillis the better he looks. There is one thing that he can do, and do well—hit. And his fielding at 3rd ground, covering is equally good.

Heavy played 2nd ball Saturday, but he and the second baseman got mixed on signals twice, but no damage was done. Charlie Flaherty will have to straighten this out before the next game.

Hynes error on the field was excusable. That field out where he played has a lot of the way to go to Doherty. The server gave Conlon two bases in it and failed to give Hynes an error. Why not be consistent. Connelly reached third on this error; why not give him the three bases while at it.

That Donnellan can hit Weeber for fair. The server failed to give him credit for a hit on the mix-up at the plate when Sheridan was called out. Donnellan had reached second on the throw in. It was a Woburn player he would get credit for two bases.

The gentleman who does the scoring there should get outside the netting and do his own scoring and perhaps he would get it correct; as it is he has too many assistants.

Waters and Weeber are two strike-outers each. In the same Weeber was given five and Waters four.

"Mack" played the best game we have ever seen him put up in Woburn. The catch he made of Mulcahy was the best play of the game. The two buggers to drive out would have been a home run here on Manchester field.

You know that Jim Murray fellow who lives down here in Winchester? Well he has not lost any of his affection for the old home town, and while I would not go so far as to say so, some of the boys in Woburn say his neighborhood was full of gloom Saturday night.

For that matter you could cut the gloom in big chunks Saturday night at any gathering of sports and fans; each one saying to the other "why did you tell me Winchester had no ball team?"

I do not know how much Tom McColeen got Saturday, but he should not have much of a deficit for the balance of the season. Even some of the birds on third base side came across.

I think if Weeber paid more attention to pitching and less to "crabbing" he would get better results. Hardy was equally bad on both sides in regard to balls and strikes. I saw that and said nothing.

McKinnis came in for a lot of "rad" from the crowd, but "chick" has always had a big reputation and they expect too much from him. He plays the game all the time. Some of his critics had better try that bag for a while.

Keefe at second base may be the wonder Woburn claims he is, but he failed to shine. Saturday, I had Flaherty pass him on one stage of the game, not knowing much about him only from hearsay. Then the dope worked to K. Billy Weeber framed.

Arthur Conlon was the star of the Woburn team and nobody knows what the score would have been without him at short.

Conlon belongs here in Winchester and a great many say we should have him on our team. Well there is another season coming and maybe we will.

Connelly played a good game at third for Woburn and was called out on a close play at home by Hardy. Mulcahy and Walsh were the only outfielders on the team. Billy Weeber looked very weak as a batter. I said our outfield was better in every way.

than Woburn and it showed its superiority Saturday.

McQuinn caught well for Woburn but he did not use good judgment trying to block Sheridan, when he came in. His place was at the plate, not on the base line, and an other player would not have come in to him as Sheridan did, but feet rest giving him an awful knock.

THE SITUATION

Editor of the Winchester Star:

Dear Sir: Through the columns of your paper I wish to deny a statement that has been given credence to the effect that the Horn Pond Ice Company was going to sell its ice to outside dealers. This is not so. It is true that we have had offers for our ice which, had we accepted, would have given us easy and pronounced profit; but, being mindful of our patrons, we declined the offers.

We call your attention to the year 1918, when there was a scarcity of ice, not so bad as this season but still it was serious; when nearly all the ice dealers raised their price, but we came out with an advertisement as long as we had a pound of ice we would not raise our price, but as a matter of fact, we barely got by before securing a new crop.

Our customers can rely upon us to supply them as long as our ice lasts with the same care and attention as in the past.

Yours very truly,

H. Denton White,

Treasurer of the Horn Pond Ice Co.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

When a fellow boasts that he can't be bought, it may be a sign that he hasn't been offered enough.

A man who wins never waits to follow the crowd.

You can never defeat an ignorant man in an argument.

Unless a man is willing to confess his ignorance he will never be in a position to learn.

It is almost impossible for a woman to get into the pink of condition without the aid of a mirror.

In reading the numerous announcements of 1919 tax rates one notices the repeated phrase, "the increase being largely due to the Boston Elevated assessment." This is one thing Winchester escaped.

In 1918 there were 253 children born in Winchester and 14 children under one year died of these fourteen, one was in a West Side home and the cause of death was premature birth. Two were non-residents born in the Winchester Hospital and dying soon after birth. Eleven were children of foreign born parents or parents of very recent foreign descent. Why did these eleven babies die against only one in an American home? Isn't the answer obvious? Are we doing our full duty day till we see that all the babies born in Winchester have an equal chance to develop into strong men and women? Isn't it easy to see what a Public Health Nurse could do in this field?

The injury to an aged woman alighting from an electric car at Cross street Sunday evening again brings to the fore the reckless speeding of certain automobile drivers past standing electricians. In our centre, where an officer is on constant duty, we see little of it, but outside, without any around, it is indulged in without limit. During the past few weeks we have seen several cases on Cambridge street at the Winchester Boat Club, an exceedingly dangerous spot. There appears to be no way of stopping this without placing a number of officers on the electric themselves, as the average person who escapes being struck is usually so thankful to get out of the way that he neglects to make a complaint. It would be a good thing to stop the practice if a batch of offenders were arrested and subjected to heavy fines.

Some of our citizens appear to be interested in the why and wherefore of Winchester's not placing on sale a lot of the army food-stuffs. This matter was explained in last week's "Selectmen's Notes" although perhaps some overlooked the paragraph. As a matter of fact it should be remembered that the town had to purchase 15 tons of food, amounting in cost to between $7,500 and $10,000. Furthermore there was only six or eight varieties. It was felt that the town could not dispose of this amount of food, being as it is, largely residential, and the Selectmen hesitated to take on the seemingly sure loss. Of course this decision was made by the Selectmen, but our neighboring town of Reading, after calling a public meeting of its citizens, could only secure pledges amounting to $500 and likewise abandoned the idea. Our residents have the privilege of purchasing the food by parcel post, as in other places, although this matter was not brought to public attention here through the fact that the information was not received at the local Post Office until last Friday, too late to announce this matter in the STAR. In this channel there have been no orders received by our people, and in Woburn, a much larger place and much more likely to make such purchases, but 15 orders were received up to Wednesday morning. Taken altogether it would appear that Winchester was not vitally interested in the project and if there were some residents who were disappointed, inquiry on their part would have revealed the parcel post channel open to them. It seems that the decision of the Selectmen to purchase the food, as a can of the local stores shows that although they do not sell $7,500 worth of the products offered in a year.

AN AD.

WANTED by party on Walnut Road. A maid to help with the household. Willing to sleep, wash a change of bed with a disposition that children. Not with a real that knows no rest. A wonderful maid, a fair deal. And a very exceptional power as a cook. Able to drive a Cadillac bus. Am glad to the service without a fee. Call, if you know the maid I seek. I will willing to pay about ten a week. II

SEEN AND HEARD AROUND TOWN

Have you noticed the number of people who have returned home after their summer vacation?

Prof. Henry C. Metcalf, a former member of the School Board, will leave town the first of September and live in New Rochelle, N. Y. His fine estate on Sheffield road is on the market.

Mr. E. L. Gillett, who has bought the Collier place on Sheffield road, has moved in and will shortly commence the erection of a garage.

"Rouse" O'Brien the favor of all the high school past and present to take an auto trip to the White Mountains last week.

A great many people have been asking for John F. O'Connor, our postmaster, the past couple of weeks. He has had no vacation for two years so is taking a double one.

In my travels from one end of the town to the other, I notice many times when broken bottles or broken windows are left on the street. I had to call the attention of the police Monday to a dangerous condition in front of Dr. Simons house. It was very dangerous to autos.

The busy man around town is Fred Scholl the steward of the Calumet Club. With all the improvements, and painting that is now going on, he is surely a busy man.

I have heard considerable criticism of the two-session plan of the School Board. I think there will be a general complaint as soon as school opens. Any argument the School Board can advance will not appease some of the people I have heard complain.

The Highway Department has been giving the fences around the town a nice coat of paint the last week or so. Frank Nowell takes great pride in his work.

We noticed the town has filled that ditch on Highland avenue. It has been an eyesore long enough.

Bids are being asked for sewer work and street work. The general opinion around town seems to be that it will only be a question of time when all work will be done by contractors. The town will have to pay more without doubt, but there will be less to worry over as the contractor will have to do that.

It has also been said the Highway Department will remove ashes and rubbish from the school buildings. This should not be so, unless they intend to do it all over town. If they equipment for one job they should have it for all.

The Board of Health started this season to refuse licenses for pigs, but this has been a mistake. With the ever increasing cost of living that ruling should be revoked this winter and next spring.

If not, the rule should be enforced impartially. Anyone and everyone should be allowed to keep them, not a favored few.

We noticed a complaint about the autos coming out of Manchester field after the games. I am informed that this will be remedied and the autos will not pass out until after the crowd has gone out of the entrance. Probably three minutes will be required to empty the field.

We were particularly impressed with the nice appearance of J. C. Kelley's place on Sheffield West this week. A visit to the garden in the rear will repay any lover of the beautiful.

Over on Wedgemere avenue the Hall place at the corner of Calumet road attracted our eye. The house, newly built, is a great improvement on the tennis court that was formerly there. In the rear is a fine garage and an old-fashioned garden.

Mr. Haartz, on the corner of Foxcroft road and Wedgemere avenue has another well kept place. They generally go away for the summer, but their man is left in charge and he keeps this place in great condition.

Further down at 46, we notice the R. E. McDonald place. Mr. McDonald has been to a great expense the past two seasons improving this place, but he is not satisfied yet.

Harry Cox has another fairyland. With his house of semi-bungalow style and his old English garden it makes a fine set off to the green fields in the rear, and opposite his home he has recently bought a large piece of land in the rear and will improve.

Mr. A. M. Paul, opposite Harry Cox, has another nice place. He only bought it last fall and in one season the transformation has been wonderful.

I have promised a story of the Downs' place and other nice homes in the Myopia section, but have not had the time to visit them as yet. Probably next week I want to see the Downs' place, especially at the this season.

The Starler.

MISS LOWELL URGES ARMY FOOD BE LEFT FOR POOR

Miss Amy Lowell of Brookline, sister of Pres. A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, declares she will not purchase any surplus Government food and appeals to all who can do so to follow her example in refusing to buy any of this food for themselves.

It isn't that she objects to the Government food, or that she doesn't know a bargain when she sees it. She believes the food the Government is selling at such low prices should go to the poor and those who can pay current prices without much strain, should do so, insuring to the poor the entire supply of Government food. "Much of the social unrest," says Miss Lowell, "is due to the misunderstanding by the poor of the attitude toward them of those who are better off, and perhaps those who are better off are somewhat to blame."

"We have all been obliged to make many sacrifices to bring the war to a victorious conclusion, and we shall all have to make a good many more sacrifices before peace and stability return to the world, but there are people to whom these sacrifices are almost matters of life and death, and I would suggest that the splendid voluntary rationing to which the American public submitted during the war should be carried on to the extent of denying themselves the chance of buying cheap Government food and thereby leave it to those to whom it is a matter of serious moment."

Miss Lowell believes the Brookline food committee should urge all who are not actually in straitened circumstances to refrain from buying any of the food and that the committee should sell it only to those people who find it difficult to make both ends meet.

ETHERIDGE-HAMMOND

The marriage of Miss Mildred Price Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hammond of Los Angeles, California, and Harold Lowell Etheridge of 67 E. 236th street, New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Etheridge of Manchester road, Winchester, was solemnized at 292 Humphrey street, Swampscott, at 7:30 Saturday evening, by Rev. Dr. Vannevar of the Universalist church.

The young couple were attended by Miss Gertrude Tadcoll of Northfield avenue, Salem, and Lloyd E. Aldrich of Rutland, Vt. The ushers were William D. Rowe of Swampscott and Donald Redfern of Swampscott.

The house was prettily decorated with goldenrod and ferns and an orchestra played the wedding march and for the reception, which was held during the evening.

The groom is an electrical engineer with the New York Central railroad. The young couple will reside in New York.

PICCOLO-HOLLAND

Well Known Merchant Married Sunday Afternoon

Mr. John Piccolo of the fruit firm of Piccolo Bros. of Mt. Vernon street was married on Sunday afternoon to Miss Mary Holland of this town, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt at St. Mary's rectory.

The couple were attended by Mr. Angelo Piccolo, brother of the groom, and Miss May Holland of Woburn, cousin of the bride. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Quincy House, Boston, from five until ten, which was attended by about 75 relatives of the couple. Mrs. Francis Piccolo, mother of the groom, assisted in receiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Piccolo will make their home in Winchester after their return from their honeymoon.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Cooperating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

The home gardener is now reaping the fruit of his labor in the way of vegetables from the garden. The growing season as a whole has been a very suitable one for all crops. Insects have bothered from time to time but none have appeared in such large numbers as to become very destructive, except the plant lice which destroyed several pea crops in the county. The bean borer has also caused havoc among the beans in some localities.

The weekly leafy greens which have come during the past few weeks have done much to control the plant lice that were beginning to infest many gardens in large numbers. The plant lice have been held in check pretty well so far and will not now become serious so late in the season. A heavy rain will do as much to control plant lice as well as a thorough spraying with "Black Leaf 40".

The danger from most pests is about over. The dreaded blight disease of the potato, to be feared, however. It will pay those growing many potatoes to spray with Bordeaux Mixture up until the first of September. This is just the time for late blight to strike in and ruin a crop.

It has been noted that those gardeners who trained their tomato plants to one or two stems and tied them up on stakes have had ripe tomatoes quite a good deal sooner than those who allowed their vines to grow in the natural way. It surely pays to take a little extra care of the tomato vines and follow the above method of pruning.

Many gardeners who have grown shell beans or beans for baking are now having the vines mature. It is well to cure the beans thoroughly before using them. A dry loft in the barn or shed where there is a good circulation of air is a good place to cure them. Another way is to drive two stakes into the ground about eighteen inches apart. Pull up the vine and pack them in between the stakes. The vines should be handled carefully so that the beans will not be shaken from the pods. After they have stood several weeks and have become thoroughly dry, they may be threshed.

REV. JOEL H. METCALF

MR. METCALF DISCOVERS TWO MORE COMETS

Discovery of a new comet by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, while on a vacation at South Hero, Vt., was announced Saturday by the Harvard Observatory.

It was the first comet to be discovered this year, observatory officials said, and the fifth which Mr. Metcalf has to his credit.

The new comet is visible through a small telescope in the eastern sky during the early evening and is moving rapidly northward, indicating that it is fairly close to the earth.

Discovery of a second new comet in three days by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf was announced Monday by the Harvard College Observatory.

After peering up in the Eastern sky on Aug. 20, the first of the year's new stars, Mr. Metcalf reported that on the night of the 22d, at 11 o'clock, he found in Boötes' constellation in the Western sky another uncharted body, more conspicuous than the first. The position was given as 11 hours, 5 minutes, 27 degrees and the discoverer said it could be seen with a small telescope.

Verification of Mr. Metcalf's latest find came in an announcement from Paris of the independent discovery of the same body by M. Morelli of Marcella, the night after Mr. Metcalf found it. The Harvard Observatory also verified it by visual and photographic observation.

The two discoveries of Mr. Metcalf, which are the latest of many which he has made, were both made at South Hero, Vt., where he is spending a vacation.

Important Question.

A little boy of fifteen traveling south with his parents to visit an aunt whom he had never seen. He was very curious about this relative and asked his father and mother endless questions concerning her. As the journey drew to its close the little fellow was amazed to see many negroes at every station. Suddenly a look of consternation dawned on his face and turning to his mother he cried in a voice of alarm: "Mamma, mamma, what color is Aunt Jen?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Mystic Valley Council

The council camp at Hamaock Beach closed Saturday, Aug. 23, after a successful term of three weeks. The following scouts were awarded camp letters: Malcolm Jones, troop 7, for learning to swim in two weeks so that he could swim his 50 yards as required in the first class tests.

Troop Meetings

All scoutmasters in the council are urged to communicate with the council headquarters as near Sept. 1st, as possible, stating when their troop will begin to hold regular meetings; also if there is any change in the place, night, or hour of meeting.

Out-door Activities

Camp Laraway was very popular last winter and it is hoped to make it more so this winter. Scoutmasters are requested to make suggestions that will assist the council in making up an attractive out-door program this year.

Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck of this town is the only Democratic candidate for the Senatorial nomination from this district.

YOU AFFAIRS AND MINE

A well known clergyman not a Winchester clergyman, by the way, recently gave the Spectator to understand that the average church is ruled by a boss, who is often both arrogant and entirely lacking in the better qualities of some political bosses. This preacher's position is not so uncommon as it should be though there is a reason to believe that it is less common in fact than in fiction. As the Spectator pointed out the obvious remedy for a condition which makes the preacher's position tenable only at the expense of self respect is for the preacher himself to be the boss of the church. He is the spiritual head and guide of the congregation. He represents to it the church universal. He is its chief representative in the government of the church as a human institution. He is the shepherd of the flock and, according to Christian belief, divinely commissioned. Why is he not always the boss?

The obvious answer is that in the church, as in all other human institutions, albeit of divine foundation, the power is to be able. The man who can is the man who is. The preacher who is not, with the advantage of his special commission, the boss of his congregation is a weaker man in some way than the layman who becomes boss. However, strength is not only inborn but acquired. How may the preacher develop his strength and make it so manifest that his authority will not be questioned, and no boss push forward from the pews to make impossible, without constant humiliation, the position of the man in the pulpit? The answer, to the thinking Christian laymen seems to lie in the text of Scripture which says: "Lest thou a man diligent in his business; he shall stand before kings."

The business of the preacher is to speak in his Master's name as one having authority; to warn the wicked and set before them their sins; to strengthen the weak and aid the stumbling to walk uprightly; to encourage the faltering and direct the erring aright; to arouse faith and give it reasons for existence; to hold out reward and punishment with equal hands; to set forth the joys and horrors of the life to come that to avoid one and enter into the other men may in this life leave their sins and seek after righteousness—in a word, to preach the gospel. The preacher who is not diligent in this his business—who leaves it to be a lecturer on literature and art, or to pursue the fads and freaks of a half baked "sociology" or to bring forward "ethical" substitutes for religion, or to become a political agitator—has only himself to

KNOWS ALL ABOUT HANDCUFFS

Young Man Learned Secret to His Entire Satisfaction

A well known young man of this town says he has at last learned all about handcuffs. At least if there is anything about them he doesn't know, he has no curiosity concerning it. His knowledge was gained through an enforced imprisonment of several hours.

According to the story which he desires to keep quiet, this young man, who we may call Edward, was in the police station last week and picked up a pair of handcuffs belonging to one of the officers. Not knowing that they set required a different key, he tried the pair on and closed them.

After finishing his experiment to his satisfaction, he desired to release himself of the handcuffs and asked one of the policemen to open them. This, of course the officer was unable to do, the handcuffs belonging to someone else. Chief McIntosh was appealed to, but he also was unable to free the experimenter.

Meanwhile the officer who owned the handcuffs, being a night man, was home in bed resting for another arduous round of labor. There being no other way, a messenger was dispatched to this officer's house, he was roused out of bed and his keys brought to the police station, the operation requiring over two hours. With the receipt of the keys the experimenter was quickly freed, not only of the handcuffs, but of a lot of curiosity as well.

He has learned a lot, not only by his experiments, but by the large amount of advice he has received since.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

When a man is heard cussing his auto, people wonder how he speaks to his wife.

Some people never put things off until tomorrow—they put them off more permanently than that.

Some girls are as pretty as a daisy and just as useful.

You can't do a thing today that does not have some effect on tomorrow.

The time to pay a bill is when it becomes due, not when it becomes mouldy.

Fall is on the way.

Will the next strike in town be by the school children?

A gentleman asks why the "Stroller" strolls only on the West Side. Strollers seldom hurry. Have patience, he is headed eastward.

The public schools will open on Wednesday, all grades below that of the High going back to the old two-session plan. It seems quite evident that the School Committee in making this change has been influenced by the replies received from the questionnaires sent out last spring, this being one question parents were asked to answer. That the idea will not meet the approval of everyone is quite probable; whether it will prove satisfactory to the majority remains to be seen. There seems to be considerable to be said on both sides.

Some of our citizens have to late mistaken the seats along the Common for beds. The cool shade and the subdued hum of business activities in the centre evidently make a pleasing accompaniment to the rest producing comfort of the seats, and apparently a refreshing nap is the result of a pleasant morning or afternoon spent upon these welcome seats. Unfortunately the languorous phase of the spot and its siting, receives little consideration from the police; those hard hearted minions of the law, hesitating not at all to break into the cozy dreams of the pleasure seeking citizen and bring him abruptly back to existing problems and present day turmoil. It appears most emphatically that our Common holds seats—not beds.

TWO SESSION QUESTION

To the Editor of the Star.

Sir:—Just a word, if you please about the proposed plan for two sessions in the upper grades of the Winchester schools. The school committee has not taken this action from caprice or without careful consideration. It has taken the best professional advice upon the subject and it found that advice full of excellent good sense. It believes the two sessions plan from the point of view of both teacher and pupil. A five hour session is really too long for children of ten to fourteen. They grow tired and languid as the end of the school day approaches and they almost invariably do better work as experience has shown under the two session plan. Moreover they must have some kind of luncheon during the five hour period and it is impossible to make that as appetizing and satisfactory as the noon meal they would get at home. From the standpoint of health and of education the children, the committee believes, are better off under the two session plan.

The only objection that carries any weight is that brought forward by some mothers from the upper end of the town. There is a certain amount of inconvenience for those who live a long way from the centre. If the distance is too great for the child to go back and forth, it will perhaps be advisable to have a teacher remain at the building and supervise the activities of the children who remain there. Of course, they should not be permitted to roam at will about the streets during the noon hour. In bad weather arrangements can always be made for a single session. Though on days that are really very bad there is never any school at all.

Altogether the question comes down to this: Will the plan cause more inconvenience than it does good? No one can tell without trying it. Perhaps the inconvenience will not be so great as some parents fear. The committee is by no means determined to insist on this arrangement, no matter how it affects the children and the parents.

It believes the plan is from the educational point of view, the proper one, and if it does not from the educational point of view, the proper one, and if it does not cause too much inconvenience in practice, it wants it to be followed. We hope the parents will give it a fair, unprejudiced trial, and see whether they do not approve of it.

Very truly yours,

Henry S. Chapman,
Chairman School Committee,
Winchester, August 27, 1919.

THE SEWER DEPT. SITUATION

The last of June, the men working for the Sewer Dept. requested the Water and Sewer Board to grant them a raise to $4 per day. The raise not being immediately granted, they then left their work, but on the solicitation of Mr. Sanderson, they returned to work to await the decision of the Board, as it was impossible to get the Board together at once.

Meanwhile the Highway Dept. brought in a petition to the Board of Selectmen for a raise in pay to $4 a day. The Water and Sewer Board and the Board of Selectmen held a joint meeting and decided not to grant the wages asked, as the majority of the Boards thought it was time to stop the increasing of wages. It developed at the meeting that a large percentage of the towns and cities were then paying $1 a day to their men and it seemed to the chairman of both boards that it was wise at that time to grant the raise, but the majority of both boards felt otherwise.

On learning this decision, the men went out on a strike. But after about three weeks the highway men returned to work, as these men found it to their advantage to stay with the town, as they are now employed by the year and are entitled to two weeks' vacation and are in line for a pension if they continuously serve the town. But it was different with the sewer men as they only work during the summer and fall. They immediately got employment with other firms which paid the desired wages or more.

Up to this time the Sewer Board has been unable to employ any labor at the old price. During the summer they thought it best not to disturb the other departments by increasing wages, but they are now obliged to employ a small number of men at an increased wage to make the house connections and install the necessary sewers to accommodate the new houses that have been built this summer.

SUMMER VACATIONISTS

He was taken to the hospital from his home on Fletcher street Tuesday and his conditions remains about the same up to this morning. It is expected that an operation will be performed as soon as it is deemed advisable.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

August 27, 1919.

The board met at 7:30 p.m. Present: Messrs. Kidder, Cox, Emerson, and Newman.

The records of the meeting of August 18 were read and approved.

Government Supplies: Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck appeared before the board again in regard to the advisability of the town purchasing food supplies and especially bacon. He left with the board a letter which he had received from the War Department which pertains to certain foods including bacon which can be sold direct to municipalities by the federal government.

Town Hall Engagements 1919 (First Church of Christ, Scientist): The First Church of Christ, Scientist, was granted the use of the Town Hall for Monday evening, December 15, 1919, for the purpose of conducting a lecture.

Town Hall Engagements 1919 (James J. Fitzgerald): Mr. James J. Fitzgerald was granted the use of the Town Hall on Monday evening, October 13, 1919, for the purpose of conducting a concert and drama.

Mass. State Departments (Bureau of Statistics)—Director: A letter was received from Mr. George A. Bacon notifying the board that he has been appointed to succeed Honorable Chas. F. Gettemy as director of the Bureau of Statistics for the Commonwealth.

Legislation, (State): A pamphlet containing the argument of Philip Nichols, Esq., before the Joint Special Revenues Committee on the Appropriation of the State Tax and the Distribution of the Income Tax was received and ordered sent to the Town Council.

New Hope Baptist Church: Messrs. William Smith, 9 Harvard street and William Guy, 82 Harvard street, appeared before the board in regard to having a wall on Washington street bordering property owned by the New Hope Baptist church, removed. These gentlemen were told that the board would investigate and that they would hear in regard to the matter later.

Building Lines 1919—Spruce St.: Acting in accordance with the suggestion of the Planning Board, the board passed the following vote:

Voted: In the opinion of the Selectmen public convenience and necessity require that a building line be established on each side of Spruce street, its entire length and that notice of our intention to establish such a building line and of a hearing to be held at the Selectmen's room at 8 o'clock p. m. on the 22nd day of September, be served as provided by law upon the owners of the land over which such building line is to be established.

The meeting adjourned at 9:55 p. m. George S. F. Bartlett, Clerk of Selectmen.

THE WESTERN FRONT Plates after drawings by
MUIRHEAD BONE

Part I.
This part contains drawings of the British Army at the front, the Somme battlefield, and munition works in England.

It is hoped that Mr. Bone's drawings will give a new insight into the spirit in which the battle of freedom is being fought. An artist does not merely draw ruined churches and houses, guards and lorries, doctors and wounded men. It is for him to make us see something more than we do even when we see all these with our own eyes—to make visible by his art all the strains of character and emotion that go to make up the temper of Britain at war.

Muirhead Bone is an English artist who was born in Glasgow in 1876. The "Studio," in an article on war pictures, refers to him as an artist of great competence, in some respects the strongest of them all.

EDWARD RIKAS

Edward Rikas, 49 years of age, died at his home No. 14 Winchester place, on Sunday after a long illness. Mr. Rikas had a very rare and peculiar disease; a slow paralysis of the spinal column. He was first afflicted a year ago, when he apparently suffered from a form of break down, which later affected his eyesight, and then his throat. For several months he had been kept alive by liquid nourishment. His case attracted specialists from many places.

During his residence here of five years he conducted a cubbler shop on Washington street near South's Market. He was born in Russia, and of a large family all are now dead so far as is known, no word having been received from a last surviving brother for some time.

He leaves a wife and three children, Rose, Annie and Rachael. The funeral services were held at the home on Monday noon, conducted by Ralph Jacob Stanetsky of Boston. The burial was at Montvale.

TO GET AFTER AUTO THIEVES

"The time for showing any leniency to auto thieves has passed. The wholesale stealing of automobiles must be stopped and I intend to take drastic measures to stop it," said District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County in commenting on the situation. "I intend to ask for stiff sentences for all auto thieves who are apprehended in Middlesex County. This also goes for people who receive stolen cars or who aid thieves in hiding or disposing of stolen machines. No mercy will be shown to auto thieves and I intend to make auto stealing a dangerous occupation in this county."

The regular September session of the Middlesex County Grand Jury will come in next Tuesday at Lowell. Many cases of automobile stealing will be presented to the Grand Jurors. Two organized gangs of auto thieves were captured early this month in sensational raids made at Billerica.

MARGARET ANN FITZGERALD

Mrs. Margaret Ann Fitzgerald, widow of John Fitzgerald and the mother of J. F. Kennedy of 22 Stone avenue, died at the home of her daughter, suddenly on Wednesday night of an internal hemorrhage. She was 55 years of age and was a native of New Ross, N. H., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas (Tucker) Brown. For over 20 years she had made her home with her daughter in this town.

Born Mrs. Romney, Mrs. Fitzgerald leaves five daughters and three sons—Mrs. Clarence Webster of Lynn, Mrs. Louis Smith and Mrs. Fred Graham of Somerville and Mrs. Fred Hoff of South Natick; Anderson and John Fitzgerald of Somerville and Melvin Fitzgerald of Nova Scotia. The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the residence and will be conducted by Rev. Henry E. Hodge of the First Baptist Church. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

SEVERE STORM

Winchester was visited by one of the few severe thunder storms of the season Sunday afternoon, night and Monday morning. The storm opened early Sunday afternoon after a most humid morning with much wind and hail with stones the size of large marbles. From then on the rain fell almost continuously, at times being extremely heavy. Many surrounding places suffered severely from the hail and the washout caused by the down-pour, but this town escaped much of this and only one house, that of Mr. Arthur E. French on Highland avenue, being struck by lightning. As this house the bolt struck a corner of the roof, going into the third story and ripping plaster from the walls, and then went through the partition to the second floor, where more plaster was taken off. A maid who was alone in the house escaped uninjured.

SERVICES HELD SUNDAY

Funeral services for the late John Swan were held on Sunday afternoon at 3.30 at the home-stead on Cambridge street. There was a large attendance of old friends and neighbors.

There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, and the pall bearers included Messrs. D. P. Blake, Frank S. Pratt, D. H. and David A. Conley.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE

school nurse. With the assistance of the teachers, these officials look carefully after the physical welfare of the children so long as they are in the public schools, and the town pays the bills. Where is the logic in neglecting a child until he is six years old and carefully safeguarding him after that age? The public health nurse does for the child under school age what the school nurse does for him after he enters school.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by MRS. ALONZO L. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Cooperating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and
Home Economics

Seeds for planting next year are quite easy to grow in the home garden. Home grown seeds are more dependable than bought seeds and are a whole lot cheaper. So why not save some for next year? There is almost always a surplus of vegetables in the garden. The next best plan for seeds should be allowed to ripen for seed. Leave one or two perfect cucumbers, or summer squashes, on the vines to ripen. Later the seeds may be separated from the pulp and dried. It is well to save the seeds of summer squashes as they are used from time to time during the winter. The flavor and texture of each squash should be noted when it is eaten, and then the description of such quality should be written on the paper containing the seeds. In the spring the seeds from the best squash should be planted. In a few years one can breed up an excellent strain of such by this method.

Leonard Killed in Last Drive Before Undergoing Operation

Mr. Frank Leonard of Harvard street, father of Priv. August H. Leonard of Co. E, 314th Inf., killed in the Argentine drive, 29th of last year, has received this week through the American Red Cross details of his son's death through detailed reports of officers and members of the company who were present at the time.

The report is interesting in showing the popularity of the young man in his company, a detail which would be readily understandable to the host of friends who mourn him here. Leonard was always popular in his company and in Winchester, through his unfeeling courtesy and pleasant disposition, he was liked by everyone. He endeavored to enlist a year ago last summer, but was rejected for physical disability, and it was the experience of others that when he came up in the draft he was accepted and sent to camp just before he sailed for France his father secured a permit for him to come home for a visit, but fate stepped in and another man of the same name got the benefit of the furlough, and Leonard never knew that he might have seen his father.

After reaching France it was soon that an operation was necessary, and after considerable delay he was ordered to report at the hospital. As he learned that his company was to go into action the next day, he begged to remain with his unit and go to the hospital after the night. It was in this battle that he met his death.

The following report has been received by Mr. Leonard:
Washington, D. C.
Aug. 21, 1919.

My dear Mr. Leonard:
The enclosed reports have been received by us from our Paris office and to an inquiry as to whether some time since relating to the death of Priv. Leonard. Our foreign office closed June 10th and we cannot hope for any further particulars concerning our men who lost their lives abroad.

We trust you may have heard directly from comrades of this soldier who could give some details of the battle in which he lost his life, but we are sending you the enclosed feeling sure you will be glad to have such reports as may come to us.

The Red Cross extends to you its very deep sympathy in the loss of your son who was so much beloved by his comrades, and deems it a privilege to be of service.

Yours sincerely,
W. R. Castle, Jr.

Report of Lt. William C. Little, Co. E, 314th Inf.:
"Leonard was killed by a H. E. fragment, which went through his heart at Montfaucon, on Sept. 26th. We were advancing towards Noyon with that town as our objective. He lived only a few moments and all that we could do for him was to give him a drink of water just before he died. I was standing very near him when he was hit and fell. He was an excellent soldier. At that time he was buried near the spot where he was killed, but has undoubtedly been moved to the cemetery at Romagne by this time."

Report of Corp. Benjamin Samson, Co. E, 314th Inf.:
"There was only one Leonard in our company, but I do not know his first name. He was an automatic rifleman. He was killed Sept. 27-28."

seed purposes. A few dollars' worth of seed saved each year is just so much more profit for your garden.

If you find that the weeds are good to seed in your garden it is a good idea to get rid of them before seeds ripen and drop to the ground. If you lack the time necessary to pull them up take a sickle and cut them off. They should be burned as soon as possible after they dry.

Keep your celery plants cultivated in good shape. It is well to hoe them at least once a week. Each time you go over them hoe up the earth a little higher around the plants. The soil should be banked up also around the Chinese cabbage plants. By following this practice the leaves are blanched and the plant has a greater tendency to head. The majority of Chinese cabbage plants fail to head unless banked with earth. They are different in their habit of growth than the common cabbage and require more attention. This new vegetable promises to become very popular in home gardens as soon as its sterling quality and cultural methods are understood better.

In the Argentine drive it happened about two o'clock in the afternoon, we were just going forward when a shell burst right in among them, killing him and wounding another fellow. Leonard was killed by a shell of water and that was all. He died about a minute later. We had to keep right on going. Leonard was a friend of mine. He was a well educated young man, about 5 ft. 8 in. tall, 23 or 24 years old, plain spoken, everybody liked him. He used to work in an office in Boston.

Report of Priv. Thomas Butler, Co. E, 314th Inf.:
"He was killed September 29 by a high explosive shell bursting near by. His body was not even scratched. He died for a drink of water and died before we could give it to him. It was almost instant death. He was one of the best men we had in the company. One dandy chap, and one of the replacements that was listed by old as well as new men."

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Winchester Union is to entertain the Middlesex County convention of the W. C. T. U. on September 23, and a committee is busy making arrangements for the occasion. This is the annual convention when the officers are elected and is usually well attended.

Dr. Louise Rand, who has been president for two years, is obliged to decline re-nomination owing to personal reasons and at this convention her successor will be elected. Mrs. Abbie J. Rolfe of Concord, who retired two years ago is the only woman who ever held the office having been the pre-elect elected when the county organization was formed.

Seven other counties in the State are also to choose new presidents, the present incumbents, several of whom have served very long terms, being obliged for one reason or another to retire. In most cases it is lack of health or advancing years. Many of them feel that now the prohibition question has been settled some one else can as well take up the new and important lines of work that are to be stressed. They have been faithful during the hard years and are now ready to pass the work over to others.

Americanization, Social Service, Women and Children in Industry, Child Welfare, Social Hygiene, are among the departments long carried by the W. C. T. U. which will now be pressed on a larger scale and the education of the public and especially of children on the value of total abstinence will also be emphasized. There is still great need for the work of the white ribbons and the time has not come for those who are working with full strength to relax their efforts.

HAS RETURNED TO IOWA

Miss Jessie Dodge White of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been visiting her aunts at 120 Forest street. Miss White left early this week of Des Moines, Iowa. She is to be dean of women at the Union College of Iowa, a coeducational institution of upwards of 500 students.

Miss White was graduated from Oberlin College, Oberlin Ohio in 1916, spent the following year in social service work in Brooklyn, and special study at Union Theological Institution in New York City.

For the past two years she has been student secretary of the Metropolitan Y. W. C. A. of Boston. During July and August she has been taking courses at the Harvard Summer School.

JEAN LAWSON MARRIED

Miss Jean Chandler Lawson, youngest daughter of Thomas W. Lawson, and Capt. Burgess Allison, Edwards of Boston and Marion, were married Saturday afternoon at the Lawson home, Dreamwood, Egypt. The wedding was marked with the utmost simplicity, only about 15 members of the family attending the ceremony.

The bride was unattended, while Capt. Douglas Lawson of the United States field artillery, a brother of the bride, was best man. There were no other attendants. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alexander A. Morrison, pastor of Trinity Church, Portland, one a lifelong and of the family. Following the ceremony a reception was held at Dreamwood in honor of the bridal couple.

The house in which the wedding took place was attractively decorated with white roses and hydrangeas. The bride was gown in a plain white ivory satin dress, edged around the neck with pearls, and carried a bouquet from the Dreamwood garden. She wore a white tulle veil held in place with a clasp of pearls. Mr. Lawson's gift to his daughter was three chests of silver of full pieces, and a silver dressing table equipped with toilet articles.

The bride was a member of the 1914 Sewing Circle and the Vincent Club, and during the war was an ambulance driver in the woman's motor corps. She was graduated from Mrs. May's school in 1915. She has three sisters, Mrs. James F. Lord, Mrs. Ellen B. Stacey and Mrs. Helen McFall, all of whom were married in the same room at Dreamwood used Saturday.

Mr. Edwards is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Drake Edwards, and was graduated from Harvard in 1914, where he was a member of the Hasty Pudding Club and the D. K. E. He served in the Mexican border campaign with battery A, 1st Massachusetts field artillery, and was commissioned an first Plattburgh training camp. He served in France as captain of battery B, 302d field artillery, and received his discharge last May.

A brother of Mr. Edwards, Lt. John W. Edwards, Harvard '15, who served in France with the aviation section of the signal corps, married Miss Marcelle Moch in Havre, France, last November. After a short wedding journey the newly married couple will go to Shanghai, China, where Capt. Edwards will represent Hayden, Stone & Co. of Boston.

REV. METCAL'S RECENT COMET BELIEVED TO BE BRORSEN'S

It is now believed that the comet discovered a few days ago by Rev. J. H. Metcalf of this town while summing at South Hero, Vt., is Brorsen's comet of 1847, which was not expected to return to view until 1922. Computers at the Students' Observatory, Berkeley, Calif., report that the new comet's elements are identical with that of 1847.

It is thought that some slight miscalculation was made about the return of the Brorsen comet, or that uneven attraction of the sun may have deflected it and caused its reappearance three years ahead of time. If this visitor of the skies proves to be Brorsen's comet, it will have been the only distant comet, other than Halley's comet, known to have swung around the sun for another glimpse of the earth. The comet will be nearest the sun on Oct. 16.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

People who accomplish most make the least noise.

Many a man travels over the road that leads to success on another man's hobby.

If a married man admits that he is a fool, it is the duty of his wife to agree with him.

Today's worry is the result of yesterday's neglect.

About nine-tenths of what people say doesn't amount to anything.

A disagreeable and disappointing holiday.

It is now safe to say that we can stand a two weeks' drought without injury to the crops.

Opening Manchester Field for the parking of automobiles during the base ball games has undoubtedly increased the attendance. On Monday afternoon 56 cars were lined up for the entrance on Manchester road to the end of the field.

A Boston paper contained an article last week, urging people to wear low shoes as a patriotic economy in the preservation of leather. We have worn low shoes for years (mainly from a point of comfort) and have yet to observe the economy so far as price, at least, is concerned. If the public at large, which has been questioned to wear boots, is to be educated to low shoes, there should be an inducement in price besides the saving of leather.

The statement that the men on the Sewer Department are out on a strike seems an error. Of the original gang of men working in this department all are now engaged in work elsewhere. If the men have left the department and taken work elsewhere there would be no strike in the sense that we are accustomed to. The department has simply been left high and dry, without men to work for it.

WHERE WOMEN AND CHILDREN ARE FIGHTING DEATH

Editor of the Star:
Dear Sir: Circulars of the same character of this which I enclose come to us very often, asking for financial aid for the different suffering people of Europe, and for the request that the appeal be printed in the local newspaper.

Would it be possible for you in your paper to bring it before the Winchester people even if you could give it only a small space? Just a statement of the needs as I have marked them, might bring response.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. G. E. E. Bertha A. Henry,
Winchester, Sept. 2, 1919.

Tales of suffering continue to come to us from the liberated states along the Adriatic Sea where hundreds of thousands of helpless and wretched people are fighting for sheer existence. So desperate are the conditions there, brought about by the war, that certain well known statesmen after personal investigation have declared that Central Europe faces depopulation. Lord Lansdowne, for instance has declared that the future of Slav lands bids fair to become the greatest tragedy in history.

Belgium, Poland and even persecuted Armenia cannot show records more terrible and more pregnant with horror than these wretched Adriatic

Herbert C. Hoover, Director General of the American Relief Administration in Europe, has urged the necessity of aid for Jugo-Slavia in cable messages to the American Committee working for the relief of these people, he has declared that "there is a most alarming state of malnutrition among the children of the poor. The debilitated little ones must be given special rations under special arrangements and by simple outright charity."

We can help the wretched people of Jugo-Slavia if we act promptly and generously. We know that all money given will be used wisely and effectively because it will be disbursed by the direction of Mr. Hoover or his agents. We must face the critical fact that unless help is quickly given death will reap a terrible harvest of human lives. We want to do our part for these sufferers and we want you to help us. Every dollar sent to us is specifically designated for Jugo-Slavia relief will be sent in full for that purpose without any money being deducted by us for expenses of any sort.

Send all contributions to James A. Blair, Jr., Treasurer, French Homes Lafayette Memorial Hospital, 2 West 45th Street, New York City.

SERVICES AT THE UNITARIAN CHURCH

Services will be resumed Sunday morning at the Unitarian church, meetings of both the church and Sunday school will be held at the Unitarian church. Mr. Metcalf has returned and will preach in the morning on "A Religion that is Life." The public is cordially invited.

STREETS IN FINE SHAPE

Winchester's streets are in fine shape this summer, notwithstanding the fact that since the war started little or no actual regrading has been undertaken. That they are in such good shape is due in no small measure to the care and attention given their preservation by Sept. T. Jarver, Clarke.

Just at present he is giving considerable time to the construction of Westland avenue on the west side hill, of which some 400 yards remain to be brought to grade. The steam shovel at work on this job has proven particularly valuable in pushing the work of constructing the half mile thoroughfare to its present state of completion.

The work this week has been largely in making a nine foot cut, the last cut to be encountered in the work, and it has been the worst stretch on the whole job, many large boulders being encountered in the blue gravel. One of our streets which has proven especially valuable to motorists, now that the Parkway is closed through the regrading of the river bridge below Wedgemere station is Grove street. This street had never before been put in actually good shape, and although its surface is at this time as level as a billiard table, it is anticipated that further surfacing will be done next season which will make it permanent.

New granite sidewalks are being laid on Elm street and at South Main street at Synmes road, where edge stones are also being set in place. Edge stones are also being placed at Church street and Lewis road, and a gravel sidewalk is being constructed on the north side of Grassmere avenue.

One of the new sidewalks which has been much commented upon is the tar walk on Forest street. This sidewalk is of the best construction of its kind and was much needed.

FOR THE HEFFRON FUND

August 30, 1919.
Mr. T. Price Wilson,
Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.

Please find enclosed my check for $5.00 as my contribution toward the Joseph H. Heffron Memorial Fund. I never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Heffron, but I feel that I have known somewhat acquainted with him through the letters which he wrote from France to the Winchester Star. I very much enjoyed reading these. I hope that the Memorial Committee will consider carefully whether it is not desirable, as a part at least, of the memorial to Mr. Heffron, to have these letters reprinted, bound in substantial form and placed in the Public Library and in the school libraries of the town.

Of course, with a memorial in the Wedgemere School also in mind, this will require a larger fund than has at present been gathered, but a little additional help from the community will probably secure the necessary funds for this purpose.

I should not care to have any publicity given to the letter unless my name is enclosed.

Very truly yours,

CARBONNEAU-KELLEY

Mrs. Mary Eleanor Kelley, daughter of Mr. James H. Kelley, of Harvard street, was married on Sunday evening at seven o'clock to Mr. Henry Roy Kelley, of Northford, by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, rector of St. Mary's church. The ceremony was performed at the rectory. Mr. Bernard McCall of Northford was the best man and Miss Mabel R. Kelley, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The bride wore a dress of white georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her sister wore pink georgette crepe with a white picture collar.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, the couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. Kelley and Mrs. Mary Kelley, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carbonneau, parents of the groom. They will make their home in Winchester.

SERVICE MEDAL APPRECIATED

My Dear Mr. Editor:
I wish to thank you very much for the medal which was received in road order August 29.

It is a very elegant souvenir and one of which anyone should be justly proud. I am most grateful to you for it.

If an opportunity ever presents itself I wish you would please extend my sincere thanks to all who had a hand in making it to me.

Again thanking you for this and the past favors you rendered me, believe me, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Francis A. Flanagan,
223 South Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

WINFIELD S. HOLDEN

Mr. Winfield Scott Holden, aged 75 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank P. Hollock, 123 St. Vernon street, Sunday.

Mr. Holden was a native of New Richmond, Ohio, and had spent the larger part of his life in Cincinnati, where for 21 years he had been a deputy collector of U. S. Internal Revenue.

He came to Winchester about two months ago and had planned to make his home here. He was at 324 Centre street.

He leaves a widow, Miss Elizabeth Batteff of Cincinnati, and a son and daughter residing in Detroit, besides several grandchildren. He also leaves four brothers.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday at Highland Cemetery, Cincinnati, Ky., where the remains were interred.

RED CROSS

The Red Cross noon 9 Mt. Vernon street, will open Monday, September 8, at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Thinking Man

Does the decreased purchasing power of your investments trouble you? Would it not be wise to add to your life insurance and thus strengthen your estate?

The varying forms of settlement made possible by it may be adapted to meet almost any conditions that the future develops. I would be glad to talk the matter over with you.

There are several high-grade life insurance men in Winchester, representing good companies.

If you do not wish to take it up with me, see one of them. Think, then act.

VENIZELIS, THE "GREEK CLEMENCEAU"

Not so conspicuous at the Peace Conference as the treaty with Germany focused the world's attention, but emerging into the limelight now that Balkan problems are in the forefront, is Premier Venizelos, of Greece.

The career of this "Greek Clemenceau," reckoned among the foremost statesmen of Europe, is described in a bulletin from the National Geographic Society based on a communication from George Higgins Moses, as follows:

"Eleutherios Venizelos is a Greek of the Greeks, with a long line of distinguished Hellenic ancestry. Educated at the University of Athens and in Switzerland, he established himself as an attorney in Crete, and was active in the revolution movement which brought on the Greco-Turkish war of 1897.

"Upon the establishment of the High Commissioner's regime in Crete, Venizelos and Prince George were not in accord, and the prince's withdrawal from the island followed—an incident which led the court party in Athens to regard Venizelos as an arch-revolutionary and to render his task more difficult.

"The Greek people, however, have never wavered in their support of him. He is their idol, and he justified their idolatry. Summoned to the prime ministry much earlier than he had believed himself ready for such power, and knowing full well that he owed his preternatural rise to the wishes of the old political leaders who had conceived the notion of choking him to death with power, he confounded his enemies, amazed his friends, and justified all the fond hopes of the people, who regard him as the embodiment of their future and who have never ceased to hail him as the savior of Hellenism.

"His ministry was forced to appeal to the electorate—once by his own wish to test Greek public opinion and once because the constitutional limit had run against his government. In each case he was swept back into office with a majority of cumbersome proportions—and he has rightly counted himself as a man with a mandate to reorganize Greece.

"Under his guidance the constitution has been revised, the chamber has been liberated and set in the way of constructive legislation, while the electorate has been given a wider privilege of choice of their representatives. The courts have been given tenure and removed from political control.

"The ministries have been reorganized and purged and the civil service has been set upon a merit basis. Agriculture and commerce have been taken under the charge of a new ministry. Municipalities have been granted new rights and charged with new duties; and a general quickening and efficiency have been infused into all branches of the administration."

We published last week an interesting incident wherein Master Whitford Sanderson, son of Mr. Edmund Sanderson, found an advertising pencil of Mr. A. Miles Holbrook's at the falls back of the New Mt. Washington House. Speculation was made as to who was the owner of the pencil, and it has developed since the STAR was issued that it was the property of Mr. Henry Weed, who had visited the Falls a short time before Mr. Sanderson. It pays to advertise.

Burglars sneak thieves, false key workers, and other types of bush league criminals had better watch their step. Numerous cases of breaks have reached the office of District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County and the district attorney serves notice that he intends to make the going hard for these types of crooks. Some time ago there was a regular epidemic of hold-ups throughout the county. A crusade started by Tufts resulted in many of the offenders being apprehended and as a result they are now serving long sentences in jail. Severe sentences will be asked for and no mercy shown to the above mentioned variety of crooks who are doing considerable work throughout the county.

It is about time now that Jack Frost paid us a visit. The damage he does in early September can be avoided somewhat if a few precautions are taken.

In most home gardens there are always a few vegetables that have not reached maturity when the first frost arrives. These can be attended to so that their frost-free period may be prolonged until the very heavy frosts occur. It is well to cover such plants when a frost is expected with burlap bags, old pieces of cloth or other such material.

Plants that have been frost-killed may be brought back to a normal condition again if they have not suffered too much. Such plants should be sprinkled with water early in the morning before the sun strikes them. The frost will then be drawn from the tissues of the foliage without causing any harm.

Winter squashes should be picked after the first frost strikes them. The first frost but usually kills the vine but does not harm the squashes as they are protected by the foliage above. The second frost, however, will affect the squashes as they have no protection than from the leaves of the vine. Keep the harvested squashes in the sun and at night cover them if a heavy frost is expected. It is very essential that squashes be thoroughly cured before putting them in winter storage. The harder the shell of the squash, the longer it will keep.

All green tomatoes that are not wanted for preserving should be allowed to ripen in the cellar. After the first frost the vines should be pulled up by the roots. Hang the plants in the cooler portion of the cellar. The green tomatoes will ripen from time to time and ripe tomatoes may be obtained until very late in the fall.

If your shell beans have not matured by the time the first frost occurs, do not worry over it. The green ones should be separated from the dry pods when they are being picked. Then dry them in the sun for a few days. They will not keep so long as the very dry ones and, therefore, should be used first.

engaged in combat. Of the total, 61,000 died of wounds, only a handful by disease, while 200,000 were wounded. It will thus be seen that the American losses were nothing like as great as in the fighting of 1861 to 1865. Nevertheless they were engaged in greater battles than during the Civil War, for almost a million American soldiers fought in the Arizona battle, while at Gettysburg, the greatest fight of the Civil War, there were only 158,441 men engaged with total casualties of 31,112.

LANE-LEITH

An attractive wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey I. Leith of Providence, R. I., on September 6th, when their daughter Mary Helen, was united in marriage to Mr. Roland Peter Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lane of this town. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Asbury Knox, D.D., of Benedictine Congregational Church of Providence.

The bride was groomed in white crepe de chine trimmed with dutech lace and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. George H. Campbell, as matron of honor, and by Miss Constance Lane, a sister of the groom as maid of honor. Eleanor and Mildred Campbell, the bride's nieces were flower girls. Mr. Franklin J. Lane, brother of the groom, was the best man.

The ushers were Mr. George W. Lane of Salem, Mr. George H. Campbell and Mr. Sewell Messenger of Providence, and Mr. Edward Andrew of Pawtucket.

Miss Helen Getchell of Cambridge, Miss Jessie Blaine, Miss Veronette Sherry and Miss Harriet Eastwood of Providence held ribbons for the bridal party and served hors d'oeuvres during the reception, at which time the bride and groom received the guests, assisted by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey I. Leith and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lane.

W. C. L. NOTES

Friday, September 12, at three o'clock, in the vestry of the First Congregational church will be held the first meeting of the coming season. Owing to the fact that the final details of the plans for the county convention, to be held the following Tuesday, must be worked up, there will be no special speaker. It is expected that Mrs. Hamilton will be present, having returned from her sad visit to her former home, Moncton, New Brunswick, where she spent three weeks.

The details of the convention have been in the hands of Mrs. J. C. Adams, and everything is well arranged. The county president, Dr. N. Louise Rand of West Newton and Mrs. Gleason, state president have arranged the program, which promises to be full of interest. Full particulars will be given in next week's STAR.

The past week has been one of encouragement for those who are interested in prohibition enforcement. The Senate has made fewer changes in the bill than were expected by all but the very sanguine and it is soon to become a law. The falling off in commitments to Deer Island has called for a recommendation that the city give up the reformatory there and let the State use the plant for a state institution. One of the causes for the decrease in "boarders" at Deer Island is said to be prohibition. The lesser cost will go a long way to offset the loss of license money which was to have such disastrous effects, although so far they have failed to materialize.

The efforts of the anti-prohibition forces are meeting with poor support in spite of their frantic appeals. One of the Senators, more forceful than elegant in his diction, said to a delegation urging him to oppose the drastic provisions of the bill: "Nothing doing. It is time you people saw the light." And he voted for the bill.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARTIN

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan H. Martin, aged 73 years, wife of William Martin, took place Friday afternoon at the family residence, 94 Church street. Rev. Mr. Rankin, pastor of the Baptist Church at South Berwick, Me., and a former pastor of the Harlow Memorial Baptist Church of Chelsea, of which the deceased was a member, officiated at the service assisted by a noble quartet which sang appropriate selections.

There were more than 60 floral tributes, including several large pieces from the business associates and employees of Mr. Martin in manufacturing concerns in Chelsea and Boston, as well as from the family and a wide circle of friends. The pallbearers were Walter L. and Alfred W. Martin of Chelsea, and Archibald T. Martin of Woodchester, sons of the deceased, and Edmund A. Hopkins of Woburn, a nephew. The committal prayers at the grave in Woodland Cemetery, Everett were offered by Rev. Mr. Rankin.

For Biliousness

Biliousness is a common form of indigestion. It is brought on by food-waste which the stomach, intestines and bowels fail to expel. If you will take a few doses of Beecham's Pills, when bilious, you will soon rid yourself of the impurities, relieve sick headache, stimulate the liver and bile and tone the stomach. Healthy conditions are quickly re-established by using

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Those who don't pay their money often take their choice.
The way of some transgressors is altogether too smooth.
Every old lady likes to tell how beautiful she was when she was a girl.
Wise men and fools may wear hats of the same size.
No man with a knowledge of law ever mistakes the law for the deed.

The person who has been praying for rain seems to have quit for the week again.

The Congregational church clock gave up working again Monday night. It is not possible that this old timer has been won over to the American Federation of Labor?

We note that "Bart" Stephenson of the Winchester Country Club was a recent winner in the tennis championship tournaments at Boothbay Harbor, Me. Mr. Stephenson went the whole way and downed a number of crack players who spent the summer in that neighborhood.

If Winchester centre has not kept pace with the rest of the town in beauty and cleanliness, it soon will do so. Our empty stores and vacant fronts are all undergoing renovation. It will be but a short time when this feature, which has proved so annoying to our residents will be a thing of the past.

The present situation in Boston brings to a head the culmination of a growing tension in this vicinity covering many months. As we see it, the state we are now experiencing is what we would experience anyway, and to many people it is a relief to know at least that the crisis has arrived, even though the future is as unsettled as ever. The State of Massachusetts may be counted as the most conservative in the Union; its population probably ranks among the most intellectual of the Nation; what the outcome is here may be taken as what will be the attitude of the Country at large. The rioting and looting in Boston is a feature which never should have happened and the responsibility remains to be placed, but by some at least, it will not be forgotten in a long time, whether the fault is political or otherwise. With the first wave of lawlessness passed, we may now trust that the irresponsible element will come to its senses, and a repetition of the scenes of the first of the week will probably not be repeated; if they are, it will not be in a similar manner and the class of law breakers will be of a different nature; like wise they will probably be met with a more belittling reception. The main trouble from the protection viewpoint has been the assumption all along that nothing would happen; after trouble has happened the protection lugardly appears, usually too late to be of service. That our present turmoil will be satisfactorily settled is the hope of every one who has any thought of patriotism over personal gain, and if we may judge from the attitude of our own citizens at least, it will be, for the true American lacks one trait so noticeable in Russia,—he has little to say when he is thinking over his problems. America, we believe, is determined it will never follow the path of the Bear, even though it crened the gates which allowed its present leaders to entice it along the path of ruin.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. E. A. Sheldon of 475 Main street, announces the engagement of her daughter Eleanor C. to Corp. Benjamin Knudson, Jr. Corp. Knudson has recently returned from France and Germany where he served with the 18th Infantry, First Division.

Mr. Sherwood Hall of this town is acting with Chester I. Campbell, secretary of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association in the organization of an auto traffic squad of volunteer policemen to handle the street traffic during the strike.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

The board met at 8 o'clock. All present.
The records of the meeting of September 2 were read and approved.
Winchester Men in Service: A letter was received from the Winchester Board of Trade enclosing a copy of a letter which it has sent to the War Department in regard to re-employment of service men.
Licenses 1919, Bowling Alleys and Pool Tables: On the approval and the recommendation of the chief of police, Edward McKenzie, 5 Middlesex street, was granted a license to conduct a bowling alley on Park street in the basement of the Star building. This license is effective until May 1, 1920, unless sooner revoked and subject to the usual fee of ten dollars.
Coal: The board refused to approve until it has investigated, a bill for coal approved by the Poor Department of the town, owing to the fact that the charge was at the rate of $12.00 per ton and also in view of the fact that the Poor Department refused to join other departments of the town earlier in the season to contract for their season's coal at $10.45 per ton. The board feels that this is an unnecessary expenditure of the Town's money.

State Elections—Primary, Sept. 23, 1919: Under suspension of its rules the board appointed the following persons to serve as Election officers at the State Primary to be held on Sept. 23:

Republicans

William Adriance
Ralph Arnold
Edward F. Parmelee
Harry Y. Nutter

Democrats

Bernard F. Mathews, Jr.
Charles F. Newell
James H. O'Connor
Robert H. Sullivan

Acceptance of Streets—Glenwood Avenue: A report was received from the town engineer in regard to Glenwood avenue. This matter, at a previous meeting, was laid over until Sept. 22.

Building Lines 1919, Crescent Rd: The board passed the following vote in regard to the establishment of building lines on Crescent road:

VOTED: That in the opinion of the Selectmen, public convenience and necessity require that a building line be established on each side of Crescent road, its entire length, and that notice of our intention to establish such a building line and of a hearing to be held at the Selectmen's room at 8 o'clock p. m., on the 24th day of September be served as provided by law upon the owners of the land over which such building line is to be established.

Meeting adjourned at 9:30 p. m.
George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

It is not every boy, or man either, who can celebrate his birthday in the manner of young Winslow Rice, the son of Mr. Calvin W. Rice of Montclair, N. J., formerly of this town. Winslow is the grandson of Mr. Edward H. Rice of Eaton street, and we print from the Bridgton News (Me.) the account of his celebration:

"Master Winslow Rice, of Montclair, N. J., who has been visiting his aunt, Miss Laura Folsom, performed a very brave deed on his fourteenth birthday anniversary, in saving the life of Harriett Whitney, who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Ridlon. Three little girls were playing on the steamboat wharf in Harrison, when Harriett, the youngest, six years of age, fell in. The other two children were so frightened that they could not even scream for help. Just as Harriett was going down for the third time, Winslow Rice came on the wharf. He saw the little one going down and immediately leaped into the water, dove under her, grasped her and brought her to the shore. He attempted to use first aid methods to force the water out of her lungs, but the other little girls were so anxious to carry her home, that they did so. After a few days, she was as well as ever. Winslow is a splendid swimmer and he also acted very quickly, or the child would have drowned. All feel that he was a very brave boy and the little girl was very grateful to him, coming to see him when he went away and bringing him her picture as a farewell gift."

AMERICAN LEGION

The Executive Committee of the Winchester Post of the American Legion is calling a very important meeting of the Service men in the town hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 18, at eight o'clock.

A speaker from the State Headquarters will address this meeting and a distribution of Victory buttons will be made to those present.

A FORTUNATE INTERVIEW

Mr. C. C. Dibble, our Toledo agent, pencilled on his card to a man who imagined he was too busy to see him. "You have a policy in the Northwestern you are not getting what you are paying for."

The interview took place. He explained that the insured had not selected any option of settlement offered in the policy, and incidentally wrote him for ninety thousand more.

The man died from appendicitis six months later. We are paying his widow $1500 annually, holding principal sum in tact through her life. If she dies before her two little boys reach age 35, same option will be effective with income divided until age 35 is attained, when each will receive fifty thousand dollars.

RICHARD B. COOLIDGE

Richard B. Coolidge, candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the 25th Middlesex District, is already known to many voters in Medford and Winchester, having lived in the District for about twenty years.

Mr. Coolidge was born in Portland, Maine, in 1879 and comes from an old Massachusetts family. He is a graduate of Tufts and the Harvard Law School, from which he entered the Boston law office of his uncle, the late William B. French of Winchester. This office he still continues. In Medford, where he has lived for twelve years, he has served three terms as Alderman-at-large, and has polled a vote among the highest throughout the city. In the city government he has stood for sound, municipal government, and has shown ability, fairness and independent judgment. As a member of the Finance and Ordinance Committees he has been put into touch with various municipal problems. As chairman of the latter committee he has been active in the pending Revision of the city ordinances, a difficult task carried forward with thoroughness and promptness.

Mr. Coolidge is a member of the Middlesex Bar Association, the Boston City Club, the Corporation of the Medford Savings Bank, Mt. Hermon Lodge A. F. & A. M. and is secretary of the Republican City Committee of Medford.

Herman N. Baker,

WINCHESTER POLICE OFFICER MARRIED

Miss Josephine O'Donnell, daughter of Mrs. Hannah O'Donnell of 250 Main street, Woburn, was united in marriage to John F. Hogan, son of Mr. Patrick Hogan of Garfield avenue, at St. Charles parish residence, Woburn, at 5:30 on Sunday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John P. Gorham.

The bride was exquisite in white georgette with a large black picture. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Agnes O'Donnell, a sister of the bride. She wore white georgette and a black hat, and carried a shawl bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Mr. Michael Hogan, a brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, the young people held a reception at the home of the bride's mother, at which only the immediate families were present. They left at 7 o'clock on an extended wedding trip.

Before her marriage, Miss O'Donnell was employed at the J. H. Winn's Sons plant at the Highlands, and is a much admired young lady. Mr. Hogan is a member of the Winchester police force having recently received his appointment. Both young people have been prominent among the social festivities of Woburn's young folk, and have many friends who extend sincere wishes for their happiness and good luck.

Mrs. Edwin U. Harrington and Miss Hester Harrington of Warren street returned the first of the month from Harwichport, Mass., where they had been spending the summer at Snow Inn.

Prof. Currier was an authority on American and European history. Constitutional law and municipal and town governments and wrote many articles for magazines. Notable among these were his contributions on the Single Land Tax question in opposition to the views of Prof. Lewis J. Johnson of Harvard University, who favored the Single Land Tax. This controversy attracted considerable attention about a decade ago in educational and economic circles.

Prof. Currier was a member of the American Academy of Political Science and also of a number of historical and kindred organizations.

He always took an active interest in town affairs during his 22 years' residence in this town, and served for eleven years on the School Committee between 1908 and 1915. He was a member of the Planning Board in 1915, a member of the Appropriations Committee in 1908, a member of the new High school building committee and the committee on grounds, and served on the Chapin school committee besides numerous other bodies.

He was an ardent supporter of the old fashioned form of town government, and the defeat of the proposed system of town manager form of government a few years ago was largely due to his brilliant arguments and support of the old form.

He gave up his duties as professor of history at the Institute of Technology two years ago, after a service of 30 years, taking a leave of absence on account of his health.

When a boy he was injured by a fall from an ox cart on his father's farm, injuring a leg. This accident resulted in the amputation of the leg ten years ago.

He married Miss Florence M. Morton of East Somerville in 1892, and she, with one son, Mr. Francis M. Currier, a professor at the Middlesex School, Concord, survive him. During the war his son served with the personnel force of the United States Intelligence Service. He was formerly an instructor at Technology and during the summer a teacher at the Harvard Summer School. One other son, Charles B. Currier, died a number of years ago.

Prof. Currier also leaves a brother, Mr. J. Frank Currier of East Kingston, N. H., and one sister, Miss Belle J. Currier of Haverhill.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon from the residence and were private. A simple service was conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational church, of which Mr. Currier was a member, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. There was an abundance of floral offerings, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held by a multitude of friends. The burial was in Willowood cemetery.

EX-POLICEMAN STANDS WINCHES-TER VOLUNTEER

John J. McTiernan, who gave his address as Holden street, Dorchester, and who was said by policemen to have been a patrolman of the Jay street Station up to the time of the strike, was arrested at City Hall avenue Wednesday night and booked on a charge of drunkenness.

It is alleged that McTiernan accosted one of the volunteers, who was driving an automobile, and began started with him for the service he was performing. Following this, it is claimed, McTiernan became offensive and finally the volunteer, who was John H. McLaughlin, Jr., of Main street, Winchester, a young man drew his revolver.

McTiernan is alleged to have dared McLaughlin to shoot. A crowd collected and Capt. Sullivan of the City Hall avenue Station sent some men out in the street and ordered McTiernan brought in and booked.

MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

All interested in the Winchester Schools are cordially invited to attend a meeting of the Mother's Association in the High school assembly hall, Wednesday, September 17, at three o'clock, when Mr. John R. Faussey, superintendent of schools, will speak about some important features of a modern educational program, that are being realized in the Winchester schools and Mrs. Helen Ebbel on Barr will sing.

A social hour and tea in the library will enable parents to become better acquainted.

Re-insulating a battery is about the most expensive repair there is.

And there's only one kind of battery in general use that isn't practically certain to be re-insulated—or junked within the next year or two.

That one exception is the Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation.

Come in and we'll tell you why.

MR. PRESTON POND'S BUNGALOW

SEEN AND HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Have any of you citizens ever stopped and watched Officer Shea in the evening as he directs the traffic? There seems to be more traffic from 7 to 9 p. m. than any time during the day, autos coming from all directions.

Thanks, Mr. "Town Pump." Glad to see others have noticed the conditions in the centre. Absolutely no necessity for such a condition.

I met Dr. Allen the other day and told him I was glad to see him educating the people on the Public Health question. The doctor and I have failed to agree on many questions, but I'll admit he was right nine times out of ten.

The centre of the town is looking better now than any time this season. The green lawn and fine trees of the Congregational Society, with the well kept common, are very attractive to passers through the town.

Speaking of the common, I hope the Park Board another season will put at least two more men on the work. How Supt. McDonald and his man have accomplished so much is a mystery.

The two best kept buildings in the centre to my way of thinking are the Star Building and Hovey & Lane's blocks. The owners motto seems to be "If a building is worth owning it is worth keeping in shape." Both these buildings are a credit to the town. The windows always bright and clean, the sidewalks swept, and best of all the tenants take as much pride as the owners.

In the Lane Building the National Bank has very attractive quarters, and inside everything is spick and span, with accommodation for every one.

The town is completing the work on Westland avenue. This street runs from High street in the rear of the Sunburn estate, over the Edwards property, and opens up acres of the finest building land in Winchester.

The town had $3000 to spend on it and decided to put a team shovel on the work. There has been all sorts of stories around town about this work and what was not being done there.

I spoke to the chairman of the Board of Selectmen about it and he had Supt. Clark take me up and see what has been done there. The town has five men and four double teams, he sides the team shovel at work. When I visited the spot the shovel had been working 21 actual working days, and I want to state that if the town ever gets as much work done here again for the money expended we can consider ourselves fortunate. It is the most remarkable piece of work done in the town in years, and who ever is responsible for bringing the shovel here deserves a vote of thanks. So much for Westland avenue.

I also was taken over the work on Grove street. This street was in very bad shape all winter and spring, but at present from Symmes Corner to the Medford line it is a fine piece of work and it stands the town about $500.

The tax rate in Winchester is a fraction over twenty dollars. This may seem high, but a tax rate at that figure will never deter anyone from making a home in Winchester. On the other hand it will help bring the class of citizens we all want to see here.

While on the town subject I want to call your attention to a place we very seldom visit but which should attract our attention once in a while. That is Wildwood cemetery. Here in our city of the dead we have a beautiful spot and kept in wonderful condition. The superintendent, Mr. Mackesy, has been there since he was 16 years old, and it is his particular delight to show visitors around the beautiful grounds.

Sunday, I thought the East Side was due for a visit from the Stroller, and I picked Forest street and Highland avenue for my walk.

The first place I visited was the home of Mr. James Hinds, our town engineer. This house is well over 100 years old and was built by one of the Richardson family. The house is of southern Colonial design, and the exterior still retains its original form, but the interior has been completely changed and the home as it now stands is complete in every detail and one of the finest in Winchester. Mrs. Hinds has been an extensive traveller and the house is filled with works of art from other parts of the world. I noticed in passing through the house, a well filled library of all the classics, including Dr. Elliott's five-foot shelf. The grounds are in keeping with the house, and I have had any number of people ask me why I did not visit this place. In the rear of the house is as large a peach and apple orchard as there is in Winchester.

The last place Mr. Pond showed me on this estate was the celebrated studio, where all the political deeds of the past two decades have been hatched to let some of these politicians tell it. Men of Mr. Pond's stamp are not trying to hatch anything that will be a detriment to the town, and I am always willing to follow their lead when it leads to civic betterment.

I do not know of any citizen who is doing more to keep our town where it should be than Mr. Pond, although he does not get credit for it.

Mr. J. P. Tucker of the Boston Traveler, will please accept my thanks for his kind notice of my attempt to keep Winchester on the map.

Finally, during my stroll I met Sgt. McCarthy and one of the officers at least half a dozen times. This shows we are being well protected.

The Stroller.

Mr. Hinds has already taken on baskets of peaches, with the apples yet to pick. He has also generously given his land to people to plant, and over 500 bushels of potatoes will be taken off them this season. As told there are about 10 acres in the place, all of which he has acclimated by hard work and no one wishes him more success and prosperity than the writer.

There are any number of well kept places on Highland avenue, and I will mention and write more about them in another edition of the STAR, as my space is limited each week.

As I came along Highland avenue I met Mr. Preston Pond, and as I was going in his direction I thought it would be a good time to see his fine place. I got the surprise of the afternoon when I arrived at his grounds. This place cannot be seen from the street, and a visit to the grounds is the only way to get an idea of what a beauty spot it is. His place as I remember it years ago was not large, with the greater part on Prospect street, but by purchasing land in the rear he has developed the nicest piece of property on Prospect street. Mr. Pond and the writer came in to the grounds from the rear, and the view from the hill when I started this column, you do not need to go away from Winchester to find beauty spots. The fine terraces and beautiful walks are banked with flowers of every description. I was completely taken back with what I saw. What attracted my attention as I was walking around the grounds is a small pool filled with lilies, gold fish, frogs, and turtles - nature in all its glory.

REV. FREDERICK H. MEANS

REV. FREDERICK H. MEANS

The Rev. Frederick H. Means, a member of the staff of the American board of missions, died on Wednesday afternoon after an illness of several weeks.

He was born in Dorchester in 1867, the son of the Rev. James H. Means and Mrs. Charlotte A. Means. About 25 years ago he was married to Miss Helen C. Goff, daughter of the late Joshua C. Goff and Mrs. Goff of Highland avenue, who died in 1912. For nearly 25 years Rev. Mr. Means made his home with his family on Highland avenue. Mr. Means was a native of Winchester, Mass., and later at Massena, Me. For several years he was executive secretary of the missionary education movement, and for the last year had been a member of the staff of the American board of missions.

A sister, Miss Marian B. Means of Dorchester, and two brothers, Paul H. Means, a Harvard medical school student, and Robert C. Means, an aviator, were the proud exceptions in the year class, who narrowly escaped death, last year in a bomb explosion at the Mass. Institute of Technology. Mr. Means was a student at Harvard.

Miss Josephine Winchell, Private Kindergarten, of the American board of missions, died for two years. He was a native of Winchester, Mass., and was a member of the staff of the American board of missions.

He married Miss Sarah Dyer of Winchester, and they have two sons and two daughters. Mrs. Dyer, who was a native of Winchester, Mass., died in 1912. Mr. Means was a student at Harvard, and was a member of the staff of the American board of missions.

EDWARD D. WARREN

Old Resident Died at Hospital on Tuesday

Edward D. Warren, aged 77 years, died at the Winchester Hospital on Tuesday of heart disease. He had been ill but a short time.

Mr. Warren was widely known to the residents of this town, where he resided for many years previous to taking up his residence with his daughter at Stoneham six years ago. He was a native of Westport, N. H., his parents being Dexter and Harriet (Green) Warren. He came to this town as a young man and engaged in a tinning business, learning the trade in local shops. For a period of 36 years he was in charge of the Dow tin factory of Winchester, later going west, where he was employed for many years, and was for Mr. Albert H. Thompson of this town as H. J. Perry.

He later went into the insurance business and travelled for a New York firm for 12 years, and he retired ten years ago. He was never affiliated with any organization, or fraternal society.

He married Miss Sarah Dyer of Winchester, and they have two sons and two daughters. Mrs. Dyer, who was a native of Winchester, Mass., died in 1912. Mr. Warren was a student at Harvard, and was a member of the staff of the American board of missions.

Winchester Grange has been dormant during the war period, it is now starting afresh and plans as being made for a harvest whist party to take place on Tuesday evening, September 30, at Lyceum Hall.

The regular meeting of the Winchester Grange was held at Lyceum Hall, Tuesday evening. The first and second degrees were conferred on a large number of candidates. The degrees were worked by officers from neighboring Granges. It was the scheme of Deputy Frank T. Marston, Past Master of Everett Grange, to have each local Grange of the Tonnage Grange represented in the degree team. A most enjoyable evening was spent and after the degrees were given, refreshments were served.

SCHOOL GARDEN EXHIBIT

Display by School Children Attracted Many to Town Hall

The Winchester town hall was the popular center of attraction on Saturday afternoon and evening, the occasion being the annual school garden exhibit. Although the intensive farming and gardening which was carried on through the War has subsided so far as popular sentiment and public agitation is concerned, the exhibit gave ample proof that many of our residents still carry on their gardens, while the scholars of the public schools seem to have as much interest as ever in the yearly competition to see who can grow the most and finest vegetable tables.

The display this year was fully in keeping with previous years. There was an abundance of vegetables and a great number of varieties, and great interest was taken in the exhibit by the school children, to say nothing of parents and friends. Credit for the showing is largely due to Miss Mabel E. Ryan, supervisor of the gardening, and also Messrs Russell and Symmes, as well as to the various teachers of the schools, their splendid and efficient help holding the interest and creating the enthusiasm among the children.

Prizes were awarded the young exhibitors, and all, whether prize winners or not, should bear in mind that they did their part in making the exhibition a success.

The following were prize winners:

REV. HENRY E. HODGE RESIGNS

After a pastorate of twenty years, Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church, resigns, the resignation to take effect October 1st. Before coming to Winchester, Mr. Hodge was assistant to the pastor of the First Baptist church of Boston. The total accession during the pastorate in Winchester exceeds the total membership of today, 334, the largest membership in the history of the church. The church has been marked for its missionary spirit and giving, and several young people have chosen Christian service as a life work. The missionary giving of last year nearly doubles that of any previous year.

During his pastorate Mr. Hodge has been called upon to serve the denomination in the state in various secretarial capacities. For eight years he was secretary of the New England Baptist Library Association; for five years secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Social Service Commission; for two years secretary of the Apportionment Committee. For ten years he has been secretary of the Conference of Baptist Ministers in Massachusetts, which cares for the pensioning of retired ministers. He is vice-president of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention.

Also during the pastorate the meeting-house has been renovated and the grounds improved.

PRIMARIES TUESDAY

Don't forget to attend the primary election Tuesday. The polls will be open at the Town hall from 8:45 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Winchester voters should attend to a man.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

For the fourth consecutive week no cases of contagious diseases have been reported to the Board of Health.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

September 15, 1919.
The Board met at 7:30 p. m. Present Messrs: Kolder, Cox, Emerson and Newman.

The records of the meetings of September 9 and 10 were read and approved.

Sidewalks (Granolithic) 1919 Main Street: Mr. Laraway asked that a sidewalk be constructed, if possible, in front of his property at the corner of Main and Park streets. He stated that he would be willing to pay one-half of the estimated cost of constructing this sidewalk and of course would pay for any granolithic which would be laid solely on his property.

Surface Drainage—Cross Street: Mr. Nelson of 82 Cross street, called the attention of the board to the poor surface drainage conditions in front of his property on Cross street. He stated that in the spring and the late fall the surface water from Loring avenue and Wendell street damaged his property, and he thought that the board should have something done in regard to the matter.

Building Lines—Crescent Road: Mr. William R. McIntosh, constable of the town of Winchester made his return of service under date of Sept. 15 of notice served on the abutters on Crescent road, calling their attention to a hearing to be held on September 23, 1919 in regard to the establishment of building lines on this street.

Licenses 1919 Explosives and Inflammables: Messrs. Jonas A. Laraway, C. F. Cogswell, George A. Barron, Jacob Cohen and H. C. Howe, representing the Jenney Mfg. Co., appeared at the hearing called to consider the granting of a license to the Jenney Mfg. Co., for permission to keep and store gasoline in underground tanks of a total capacity not to exceed 3,000 gallons at 610 Main street, Winchester, and also to sell the same from a pump in connection with these tanks. The board voted to hold up the granting of this license until such time as plans are received from the Jenney Mfg. Co., showing just what they plan to build in this neighborhood.

Sidewalks (Granolithic) 1919, Ravenscroft Road: A petition was received from Mr. Wallace Blanchard asking for the construction of a granolithic or concrete sidewalk in front of his lot at 3 Ravenscroft road. This matter was referred to the town engineer for a report and estimate. Final consideration of the matter was laid over until later in the year.

Sidewalk Obstruction: A letter was received from Mr. Frank A. Cutting stating that in walking around the streets in town he had found many places where shrubbery is planted too close to the sidewalk, and many places where branches of trees obstruct the sidewalk. A copy of this letter was ordered sent to the tree warden, and the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Cutting of this action by the board.

Building Lines (General Subject): A letter was received from the town counsel explaining at some length the building line law, and the procedure to be followed in connection with obtaining releases from owners of land upon which the line may be established. This letter was ordered filed, and the clerk was instructed to send the town counsel a copy of the forms used in connection with the establishment of building lines which were approved by former town counsel Dutch.

The meeting adjourned at 10:15 p. m.

George S. F. Barrett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

BUILDING PERMITS

The Inspector of Buildings has issued the following permits for the week ending September 18:

Mrs. Catherine O'Connell of 3 Middlesex street. Addition to present wood frame dwelling 14x14 feet.

F. F. Woolley of 6 Falls road. Hollow the garage at same address 24x19 feet.

Moore & Sperry Co., of 29 Payson road. Erect one-story block garage at 50 Yale street 12x20 feet.

Joseph Ryan of 5 Cliff street. Alterations and addition to present wood frame dwelling at same address. Addition 10x23 feet.

ALLEYS OPEN TOMORROW

The Winchester Alleys, under the management of Edward McKenzie (Cormie Mack), will open for the season tomorrow afternoon directly after the ball game on Manchester field. During the past week the alleys have been put in first class shape and a number of the local bowlers have been anticipating their opening. All five alleys have been resurfaced and have had new pin buttons, and are in first class shape. Mr. McKenzie plans to give local bowlers the best alley service this town has had yet.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE

The most valuable organization that has come to more for the people in this town than all others put together is the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association. The school that its nurses have accomplished can never be measured. The organization has been a leader in the field of Preventive Medicine from the first. It began the work of the School Nurse and supported it all the School Department took it over. It began the home work among our tuberculous victims and kept it up till the Board of Health assumed the burden. It early recognized the great importance of keeping the babies well and its efficient Baby Clinic has been an important factor in reducing our infant mortality rate. Long ago it began discussing the advisability of employing a Public Health Nurse and over a year ago voted to employ one.

Then began their troubles for Public Health Nurses do not grow on huckleberry bushes and the demand for them is so enormous that they are snapped up as fast as the schools can turn them out and the supply does not begin to equal the demand. Scarcity is not the only trouble. Education is but a small part of what is necessary to make a successful Public Health Nurse. Unless she can win the love, confidence and respect of the people she visits, she is a dismal failure and neither she nor any one else can know whether she can do this till she tries. The Association has hesitated to experiment with a newly graduated nurse and pay her well while she was finding out whether she could do the work or not, and until lately no one else has been obtainable. Now they have found a woman who has been tried out and proved herself a success. They have hired her and she begins her work October 1. The Association will pay her salary till such time as the town through its Health Department decides to undertake the work. It speaks for her the hearty cooperation of whom she will try to serve and an increased financial support of the Association employing her.

Clarence J. Allen, Health Officer.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL SUSTAINING FUND

In connection with the appeal that goes to the public at this time, Sept. 18th, it may be of interest to the friends of the hospital to know that our annual deficit is about $5000. The Finance Committee already have the sum of $2250 pledged to them annually as a Sustaining Fund. It is the aim of the committee to make this sum $5000 as soon as possible. It is hoped that the interest of our townspeople is such that many will want to identify themselves with this organization by subscribing to this fund, and in this way help to make our hospital one of greater service to the community and to humanity. Any sum will be gratefully accepted. Kindly make all checks payable to M. Alice Mason, treasurer.

For the committee,
(Mrs. H. C.) Carolyn E. Sanborn,
Chairman.

The Finance Committee of the hospital are indebted to the following names for their valued assistance in connection with Envelope Day:

MRS. WALTER JACKSON BROWN

Mrs. Leslie Dillingham Brown, wife of Mr. Walter Jackson Brown of 29 Calumet road, died suddenly last Thursday at the summer home of the family at Crow Point. Her death was due to heart disease.

Mrs. Brown was widely known in this town, where she had resided since her birth. She was 41 years of age and was the daughter of the late Elisha (Dillingham) and Mrs. Georgianna (Skillingham) Bangs. She was educated at Miss Winter's School of this town and Miss Barr's School of Boston.

Besides her husband and mother, she is survived by three children, Georgianna, Leslie (Chillingsworth) and Mary McRehobal. The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at Mt. Auburn chapel, and were conducted by Frank Woolbury Jones, reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this town. The interment was at Mt. Auburn cemetery.

BOWLING OPENS SOON

Calumet Club Schedules Opening Night and Tournament

The bowling season opens this month at the Calumet Club. The committee in charge, after spending considerable time during the past few weeks in placing the alleys and equipment in order, has now announced the opening plans for the fall tournament. The big opening night will be Saturday evening, Sept. 12th, when the evening the Club will open the alleys for the season and will award prizes for a variety of points.

The annual fall tournament will begin on or about the first of October, and entry cards are already in the hands of the members. The entry list will close on Sept. 23d.

It is anticipated that the entry this season will be the largest the club has seen in many years, and the bowlers will be given the privilege of making up their own teams as in the past. Already a number of the crack organizations of previous years have entered their members as a unit, while it is reported that there are to be some new groups which will make the older teams sit up and take notice. Last year great fun was occasioned by the contest between the teams for a dinner, held at the close of the tournament. This dinner was contributed by the losing teams to the winning teams. Owing to its popularity, the committee are asking the bowlers to signify on their entry card whether they again desire this feature this season.

The bowling this year is in charge of the following committee: Arthur W. Pittman, chairman; John A. Tarbell, secretary; John A. Maddocks, William H. Bove and S. W. H. Taylor.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

Next to Last Game for This Season

Final game with Arlington tomorrow. This game and the one with Woburn will wind up our season and both these games will attract big crowds. Arlington will try hard for this game at Winchester, but with Waters going at the same speed he did in Arlington, there can be only one result.

I hope to be able to beat Arlington and also keep the championship of Greater Boston in Winchester by winning the game from Woburn. Everyone should be on hand for these games and encourage the team in every way. I do not think I ever saw such an interest in baseball as is present in Winchester. All over the town everyone seems to be alive to our team, and make it a point to get to the field Saturday afternoons. This Saturday, if it is pleasant, will attract a big following as everyone is home for the season and having read so much about our team will want to be on hand to see it. Game at 3:30. Dale and Woollock umpires.

RED CROSS

A Warning Against Impostors To All Organizations:

It appears that a man named H. W. Washburn and two women, one of whom is a Mrs. Perry, wearing white and Red Cross insignia, are selling flags. The rumor is that they have taken in quite a lot of money. These persons are unauthorized to collect money for the American Red Cross. Should they appear in your community the Red Cross insignia should be taken from them and notice of their activities given to the police.

James Jackson,
Division Manager.

A CORRECTION

To the Editor
Winchester Star,
Dear Sir,

Under a political advertisement in the Star of September 12, it appears that the Winchester Trust Company is recommending the candidacy of Mr. Frederick N. Kerr for the office of State Treasurer. This is not so. The bank is not in politics. The directors have not been consulted in this matter, therefore have no consented to the use of the bank's name.
C. E. Barrett, Clerk.

JASPER N. JOHNSON
Candidate for Representative in the 25th District

I am a practicing attorney with offices at 1045 Tremont Building, Boston, and sometime acting city solicitor of Medford. I am 42 years of age and a member of the Winchester-Woburn Branch of the Johnson family, which settled in this section in 1655. My education was obtained in the public schools, Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard College and Harvard Law School. While at Exeter and also at Harvard I took an active part in debating and was president of one of the debating societies which defeated the Brown University team. Was assistant secretary of the Good Government Association of Cambridge, which waged a successful contest in the municipal election.

I have been a member of the Medford Republican City Committee, New England Historic Genealogical Society, Washington & Euclid Lodge, A. F. & A. M., a communicant of Grace Episcopal church and a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

My friends in the Medford end of the District were among the earliest and most enthusiastic supporters in securing the first nomination of Mr. Kneeland, who has so ably represented our district during the past three years. We repeatedly urged him to stand for re-election this year, and only after his final refusal did I permit my name to be used as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

I have been a Republican all my life and have during the some twenty years I have been a voter, faithfully worked in the party ranks, neither seeking nor receiving party reward.

If nominated I shall do my best to maintain the high standards heretofore upheld by the party nominees of this district.

STATE GUARD STILL ON DUTY

The Winchester unit of the State Guard, Machine Gun Co., 12th Reg., is still on duty in Boston. The boys have their headquarters at the Cambridge armory as last week, but are liable to be moved at any time. Owing to their being quartered at the Armory, they have not had need for their field equipment, and this has been distributed largely among other units of the Guard less favorable quarters.

During the week the local company has received a steady stream of enlistments, many of the old members who served during the duration of the War, re-enlisting, while numerous others have offered their services to Capt. Tompkins without binding themselves to the enlistment period of one year.

Since last week Wednesday some 30 men, many of them ex-service men, have enlisted and the company is now reported at full strength.

The Winchester Ladies have been prompt in lending their support to the company, the Special Aid Society sending down a great quantity of wool socks last week to the boys to replace their thin stockings during the wet weather. Needless to say they were very welcome, especially to many who were wearing light socks.

Lieut. Nason, an overseas veteran, of the Tophfield Company was in town with a sergeant Tuesday after spare harness belonging to the local company, his unit not being completely equipped.

WINCHESTER MACHINE GUN CO.

About 15 or 20 more recruits for the Winchester Machine Gun Co. are desired. Free transportation to Cambridge Army. Further information can be obtained at the office of A. Miles Holbrook, 28 Church street, Winchester.

Ex-service men are particularly urged to enlist.

WATCH OUT FOR POTATO WART

The potato wart disease, the most serious fungus pest that has ever threatened the potato crop, was found in Pennsylvania last year. It has been known for a number of years in Europe, where it is constantly becoming more common, and has more recently become thoroughly established in Newfoundland, but so far as is known it does not exist in any State in the United States except Pennsylvania. It was to keep this disease out of the country that a quarantine was placed on foreign potatoes in 1912, and the outbreak in Pennsylvania is undoubtedly due to potatoes brought there from Europe prior to the establishment of the quarantine. The Plant Disease Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture is endeavoring to discover whether or not the disease exists anywhere else in the country. Its findings will have much to do with determining the kind of campaign to be waged against the pest. Everyone who grows potatoes, whether on a large or small scale, should be interested, and should promptly report any suspicious tubers to the County Farm Bureau or the State Experiment Station.

How to Tell the Disease

The disease attacks only the tuber. At first small, brownish spongy outgrowths are seen, later the whole tuber may become a mass of bluish and warty outgrowths which quickly rot, either in the field or in storage. It does not eat into the potato like scab, but causes diseased outgrowths. Circular 32 of the United States Department of Agriculture, to be had from the Department, from the State Plant Pathologist, or from your County Agent, gives pictures and full description.

What Reason Have We for Suspecting the Disease May Be Found in Massachusetts?

Foreign potatoes from diseased areas in Europe were shipped into Massachusetts in 1912 and earlier. While they were mostly eaten, a few may have been planted, or the potatoes fed to hogs or chickens, or thrown into the garden, and in some such way the disease may have become established. In the countries on the Atlantic coast it is not impossible that potatoes from Newfoundland may have come on shore from passing ships and carried the disease with them into our soil.

Will It Be Serious in This State?

No one knows. The chestnut bark disease is a foreign fungus pest, and it is far more serious here than in its native country. We know that the potato wart disease can be very serious in Pennsylvania. Don't take a chance.

Whom to Notify if the Disease is Found

Send word at once to your County Farm Bureau or to the Plant Pathologist, Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

Philadelphia for a time, Mr. Wood at present being located in Watertown through his connection with the Stone & Webster Co., as chief engineer of the fabrication department, Emergency Fleet Corporation, at the Hog Island ship yard.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Senator Arthur W. Colburn of Draught, representing the Lowell-Draught district in the upper house of the Legislature, candidate for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner of Middlesex County, owns and manages a farm of one hundred and sixty acres in Draught. He is one of the new generation of business and scientific farmers and is a graduate of New Hampshire Agricultural College, class of 1897. In public life he has served as Representative from the 14th Middlesex District in 1915 and 1916, and was honored by election to the Senate for the years 1917, 1918 and 1919. He is a Past Master of Draught Grange, No. 216, Patrons of Husbandry, a member of the Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F., Lowell Board of Trade and Lowell Driving Club.

For the past two years he has served as Senate member of the Committee on Social Welfare.

Senator Colburn has already visited most of the cities and towns in the County, we understand, and it is reported that he is receiving many encouraging promises of support in the primaries. In Lowell and Draught, where he is best known, it is anticipated that when the votes are counted he will be high man by a large margin.

MY GARDEN

Following is a garden story by a 6th grade gardener:

In a plot of ground about 10x20 feet, my garden of corn, squash and tomatoes was planted.

First, the corn, five rows, in hills of six kernels, was put in on April 18th. In about ten days the first shoots appeared, and it was very difficult to tell which was corn and which grass. With a weekly hoeing the corn grew well. When the first tassels appeared there was great rejoicing.

Next came the tomatoes, four plants, a present from father. These were set out in the early part of June.

Five hills of squash came last, planted in the latter part of the same month.

The first tomatoes were picked in late July. And the first picking of corn brought a delicious treat on August 11th. Everybody said he had never tasted better corn. Over four dozen was the full harvest.

The squashes were not ready until the first week of September. There are still some blossoms which I hope will mature.

Altogether it was a satisfactory garden.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION FOR ANNAPOLIS

Congressman Ballinger will hold a preliminary examination for the selection of two cadets to go to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, in the rooms of the Civil Service Commission, First Civil Service District, Custom House Tower, State Street, Boston, on Saturday, October 18, 1919. This examination will be open to young men who have passed their sixteenth but not their twentieth birthdays on or before April 16, 1920, and who are residents of the Eighth Congressional District, comprising the following cities and towns: Arlington, Belmont, Cambridge, Lexington, Melrose, Medford, Somerville, Wakefield, Watertown, and Winchester.

Candidates should apply in person to the District Secretary, Custom House Tower, State Street, Boston, where arrangements will be made for their physical examination without expense.

Only those physically qualified will be permitted to enter the preliminary examination, the subjects of which are algebra, geometry, grammar, geography, U. S. History and arithmetic. The first three subjects will be given in the forenoon and the three latter in the afternoon, three hours being allowed for each group. An intermission of one hour at noon will be allowed for lunch.

Applications should be filed as soon as possible with the District Secretary, Custom House Tower, State Street, Boston.

IN MEMORY OF FRED CLARK

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Calumet Club, the first meeting for this season, held at the club house Saturday evening, the following resolution relative to the death of Mr. Fred Clark was voted: RESOLVED: that as it has pleased Almighty God to take from us Fred Clark, our fellow member and Governor, the Club, by his taking away, has lost a member whose high qualities, genial disposition, and unflinching generosity endeared him to all, a man among men, ever ready with counsel and material assistance to help in time of trouble, and that by his death the Club has suffered an irreparable loss. As a tribute to his many virtues this testimonial is offered.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

(From the Boston News Bureau.) The organization and work of the War Camp Community Service is to be maintained indefinitely under the name of Community Service, Inc. The war activities of this organization consisted of directing the use of the leisure time not only of the soldiers and sailors both in the neighborhood of the camps and in the large cities, but of the employees of the large manufacturing plants as well.

The work was carried on in 260 communities, including practically every city of over 50,000, by 2,700 trained workers and 60,000 volunteers. This organization is to be preserved to carry on the work for soldiers and sailors in peace time, and in the great industrial communities to try to meet conditions of labor unrest by providing for the best use of the leisure time of working people.

The national budget is $2,000,000, which is planned to raise from 15 of the important industrial states. Massachusetts' share is $200,000, which is being raised by a committee of which John F. Perkins is chairman and Allan Forbes is treasurer. Joseph Lee, of Boston, who has been the national head of the War Camp Community Service will continue as the president of Community Service. The national treasurer is ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, and the national finance committee includes Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Lawrence, John Hays Hammond, Charles Hayden and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

Miss Betty Ryan of 6 Lebanon street is expected home Sunday after spending two weeks' vacation traveling through Washington, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Albany and Birmingham, N. Y., visiting relatives.

Paint Before Winter!

Soon there will be no foliage to screen the shabby house. And soon heating rains, driving snows and freezing winds will search out cracks and crevices and every bare spot and start decay. Paint is indispensable in winter.

Insects are going; woodwork is thoroughly dry; the sun is no longer blistering hot; it is the best time of year to paint.

If you intend to paint next spring, do it now and get the benefits of a protecting coat of paint through the winter months and when you paint, paint right. Pure Paint—pure White Lead and pure linseed oil—mixed to your order, tinted to please you and spread by experienced painters, is cheapest in the end.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A girl often discovers that the man after her own heart doesn't want it.

Smartness enables a man to catch on and wisdom enables him to let go.

Women will never make good on juries until they get to be as ignorant as men.

Adam had a childish experience with little green apples after reaching manhood.

A woman who is popular with other women is seldom a reigning favorite with men.

Not a case of contagious disease for four straight weeks. We are making a record.

We wonder how the striking policemen of Boston, who stood by and failed to stop the rioting and looting last week, would have felt if the State Guard had allowed anyone so disposed to loot a policeman's house.

Yesterday morning at 7.30, was a little cool. Our neighborhood sleeps out of doors, and as the kids next door shivered into their clothes the following hour from between chattering teeth drifted over: "Well, they tried to drown us and now they're going to freeze us to death."

Members of the local machine gun company of the State Guard, now on duty in Boston all have a warm spot in their hearts for Harry Norton, president of the association. Mr. Norton has spared neither pains nor trouble since the company was called for duty in looking after the comfort of the boys. Not only has he supplied them with snacks and other little necessities, but he has made a personal endeavor to visit many of their employers and arrange for their absence for the duration of their service, smoothing over difficulties in several instances which might have resulted in later hardship.

A gentleman interested in the growth of our town has brought to our attention the erection of private garages throughout the residential section. Their growth has been so rapid that their erection of construction receives but little attention, and many residents are quite content to place on their estate a box of any kind which will hold an automobile, regardless of its appearance, either as an addition to their property or the neighborhood. He suggests that more attention be given by property owners to the style of building they erect. There is slight difference in cost, whatever the style of architecture, and according to his viewpoint, some of our residential property is actually depreciated in value by the erection of unsightly garages.

The State primaries come next Tuesday, September 23. The polls open at 5.45 in the morning and continue open until 4.30 in the afternoon. Our voting place is the Town hall. Winchester has never had the reputation of turning out a large vote except in times of a contest between local candidates. This year should prove the turning point. Every voter in this town should attend the primaries and take part, not only from a party viewpoint, but from a patriotic impulse. This is a democratic nation, now in the midst of a turmoil and upheaval, due to the aftermath of the great war. If every man exercises his national right to voice his opinion in the direction of its affairs and votes for the type of candidate who will administer its government in a wise and intelligent way, we will reach the path of peace and prosperity which lays invitingly awaiting us.

While we have no local contest in the primaries this year, we have at least the interest due to local candidates. Our Representative, Mr. William A. Kneeland, is retiring after serving the town and district in a gratifying and satisfactory manner. We now turn to our neighboring city of Medford—or rather the West Medford section of Medford—for our next Representative. A candidate who is widely known to many of our citizens is Mr. Richard B. Coolidge, and he has received the endorsement of a large group of voters. Mr. Fred N. Kerr of Lakeview road is another candidate who should receive a large local vote. Mr. Kerr, who is running for the nomination of State Treasurer and Attorney General, is well fitted for the office. He has held responsible positions in his home town, and in the business and financial life of Boston is well known through his important connections. For Senate, Edwin T. McKnight, the present president of that body, will doubtless be returned by a large vote. He has been honored by his associates in the Senate and his return will again see him in the position of presiding officer. As such he has wide influence for legislation for the benefit of his district, which influence he has wisely and judiciously exercised during his term in the president's chair.

PURCHASE OF SUPPLIES FOR THE TOWN

Editor of the Star:
Last spring the Board of Overseers of the Poor refused to join with the other departments of the town in the purchase of the year's supply of coal. As a result the town has this week paid a bill for this department of $25.50 for two tons of coal, which could have been contracted for last spring and delivered as ordered for $20.50, thus saving the town $4.00 in the purchase of two tons of coal.
I can buy now, all the coal the Overseers of the Poor will need from now until April 1st, 1920 for $11.50 per ton delivered as ordered in one ton or half ton lots, thus saving the town from $18.00 to $15.00 per ton, and this coal is just as good quality as what the Overseers of the Poor are now buying.

If all the departments of the town were conducted in this manner what would the tax rate be? Perhaps this is one of the results of having the Board of Overseers of the Poor consist of two persons as it does now, instead of three as the voters intended it should.

TWENTY YEARS A BUSINESS MAN OF WINCHESTER

On September 10, 1900, Mr. George F. Arnold opened a flower store at his present place of business on Common street, and he has built up a nice business for himself by trying to satisfy his customers; always courteous and obliging. Mr. Arnold wishes to thank all those who in the past or present have helped him by their patronage and good wishes, and says that in the future he will give the same close attention to all who might want his services, guaranteeing them the best goods at the lowest possible prices and prompt delivery. Mr. Arnold started in the florist business in December 1878, and has devoted his whole life to flowers and plants, having grown plants from his apprenticeship to 1900, when he opened his present store and he is always glad to give information and advice to all who may care to ask him for the same.

MR. HERRON APPOINTED DIRECTOR

Mr. Schuyler F. Herron, former superintendent of schools and recently with the American Expeditionary Force in France, has been appointed Executive Director for Educational Institutions in the Savings Division of the First Federal Reserve District. This includes the public, private and parochial schools and colleges of New England. He will supervise the thrift movement organized primarily to further the sale of War Saving Stamps and, since the war, continued with broader scope to emphasize the importance of thrift and to teach the habit of saving.

It has been demonstrated to be of sufficient value to warrant the attempt to place it on a permanent basis as a part of the regular educational program. The Winchester schools began this work with the first issue of War Saving Stamps and have made an exceptional record. Mr. Herron's office will be at the headquarters of the War Loan Organization, No. 65 Milk street, Boston. During the coming week Mr. and Mrs. Herron will move to No. 2 West Cedar street, Beacon Hill, Boston.

MRS. PATRICK NELSON

Mrs. Annie Nelson, wife of Mr. Patrick Nelson of the Winchester Highway Department, died at her home, No. 255 Swanton street, Monday night. Her death, which was very sudden, was due to heart trouble. She was 64 years of age.

Mrs. Anne (Kelley) Nelson was a native of Ireland, coming to this country in 1864, and residing in this town for the past 52 years. She was married to Mr. Nelson 41 years ago. She leaves her husband and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Gallagher of East Boston. She was a member of the Married Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's church.

A wealthy man over sixty years of age recently purchased a large amount of Life Insurance.

For part of it he chose the following settlement: Wife Beneficiary; daughter, contingent Beneficiary; at his death Principal Sum held intact by Company through entire life of wife, if daughter is surviving. Company is now paying $12,000 as such income. At death of wife, daughter becomes Beneficiary under same option until age 10, at which time, and thereafter, she may select a larger income payable in 20 annual installments, certain, and continuing through her entire life. If she dies before receiving 20 installments, balance will be commuted and paid her estate. If mother survives daughter, she may at age 60 or thereafter take cash, or choose other options of settlement.

O'Melia has now returned from New Hampshire, where he was recuperating since his return from France, and will assume active direction of the Post. The new Legion buttons were distributed at last night's meeting, and steps were taken towards the organization of a band.

Walking along Tremont street yesterday, came a blow on the shoulder from behind, which might well have been delivered by the heaviest "centric" who ever played. Turning around, it proved to be D. W. Kimball of Winchester, familiarly known to all as "Dan," even though he's going to celebrate his 70th birthday in November. "Dan" served during the rebellion in the 44th Massachusetts and as a member of that regiment did guard duty during the Cooper street riots in '63. Just to satisfy himself he was as fit for guard duty today as he was then, he tried himself out Thursday by walking out to Winchester, a distance more than eight miles, in a little more than two hours. He's full of "pep" and nothing he would like better than to have the chance to put on a badge, grab a billy and "get into the thick" of anything that might happen. ["Seen and Heard."] Traveller.

ROWLEY FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

A State-wide reduction of taxes, five-cent car fares on the street railways, and a more economical administration at the State House, are among the planks of Clarence W. Rowley's platform in his campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney general of this Commonwealth.

Through his twenty-five years experience as a lawyer and through his acquaintance of conditions at the State House, he knows where it is possible for the attorney general to accomplish what he proposes through the planks of his platform.

Candidate Rowley has been before the juries prosecuting and defending civil and criminal cases during all his years in the legal profession. Five years ago he conducted the successful prosecution of the money sharks on behalf of the State and secured a prompt conviction and sentence in every case. He knows it will be possible to drive the food profiteers out of business the same way and put them where they belong.

Rowley is a typical Roosevelt candidate for office. He was a close friend of Roosevelt and named one of his sons Theodore Roosevelt Rowley. He was also a life-long friend of "Buffalo Bill." He hunted with him in the Rockies and rode horse together. The rabbits foot, which Roosevelt carried with him through Africa was presented to Theodore Roosevelt Rowley.

As an Attorney, Rowley is regarded in the profession as a live-wire. He strikes while the iron is hot. His supporters throughout the Commonwealth say that a man of the Rowley type is necessary at the State House during the coming year when warfare will be conducted against the high cost of living.

AMERICAN LEGION

The meeting of the post last night in the town hall was most encouraging to the organizers of the Legion and many new men were signed as charter members. We still are a little behind in our quota, but fast approaching it, and it is the hope of all that we can far surpass it, which ought to be easy with our exceptionally large number of service men.

Among the features of the evening was the distribution of the Victory Service pins by Capt. Angell of the regular army, and also a short but interesting talk from Mr. McLaughlin of the State Headquarters of the American Legion.

Service men not already members are advised to sign immediately as no more charter members can be admitted after October 1st. After this time all men will have to be voted to membership by the Executive Committee.

NOTED ENGLISH PREACHER TO SPEAK IN WINCHESTER

At the First Congregational church next Sunday evening the Reverend Donald MacFadyen, Ph.D., formerly pastor of Hanley Staff's Tabernacle, Stoke-on-Trent, England, and later pastor of the Highgate Congregational church London, will give an address on Great Britain and the United States.

Doctor MacFadyen is the secretary of the British American Committee on Friendly Relations, and is one of the exchange preachers between the two nations. He is a writer of distinction, being the author of "Christian Certainties" and several other books.

The service will be held in the church auditorium at 7 o'clock. The Schubert Male Quartette will furnish music and Mr. Metraff and Mr. Ford will conduct the worship. The public is cordially invited to hear him and to assist by their presence in welcoming him to America.

SEEN AND HEARD AROUND TOWN

This has been a trying week for Boston and the entire State, but law and order will prevail in the end.

This column seems to meet the approval of the citizens of this town but during the week I met a certain gentleman who did not seem to agree with me. Well this same gentleman cuts a very small figure in the councils of this town and his opinion on any matter cuts a small figure with me. Single track minds never make a hit with me.

I prefer to speak and write of citizens in general while they are able to read and know what they think of them, and not wait until we have to send their family a spray of pink and tell what a fine fellow the head of the house was.

The hospital has asked for their annual collection this week and are entitled to all they get. The Starler visited this fine institution Sunday and the good citizens who are responsible for it, deserve credit. It is something our town should feel proud of.

I have noticed particularly this season the great amount of weeds growing in our ponds, especially Wedge Pond and upper Black Ball. It is only a question of time when this matter will have to be taken in hand and something done to remedy this condition.

I spoke to Mr. Daniel Beggs this week and asked him why his concern had stopped filling in the pond in the rear of their property? It seems several years ago some one complained to the State authorities, and they have not allowed any filling since. This upper pond could have been filled up in a few years and would help remedy a very bad condition.

In passing along Highland avenue with its fine homes and well-kept grounds I came to the Highland school, and of all the disreputable looking buildings I ever beheld, this one beats them all. A coat of paint would help wonderfully and a scythe or an ax would do some great execution on the grounds. If the school board has not the money for such work, ask for it. Any citizen seeing the condition of some of the schools and grounds in this town would never vote against such an appropriation.

The fire house in the centre looks fine from the outside, but the interior needs a thorough renovation. The chief told me that it would take $500 to put the interior in good condition, and as I said last week if property is worth owning it is worth keeping in shape.

A gentleman suggested to me last week that it would seem very nice to have some sort of a light between Park street and the end of Elmwood avenue at the junction of Main street.

This seems a good suggestion, as I have noticed this space is very dark.

During my visit to Highland avenue I stopped at Mrs. Woodside's garden. While the blooms have gone by for the season, I could see what it must have been during the summer. This lady has taken entire care of her fine garden, depending only on what little help she could get in the evenings from one of our Italian fellowmen. She has plenty of courage to tackle such a large proposition.

On the opposite corner are two well kept lawns and lawns owned by Mr. French and Mr. Henry.

Further down was Mr. Rondina's place, with well trimmed hedges and rolling lawn.

Frank Winn's place on the corner of Euclid and Highland avenue is also a credit to the avenue.

Mr. Rohman lives in the former H. T. Brown place, and he keeps his place looking as well as Mr. Brown did.

Now, Mr. Wadsworth, what's the idea of putting the "For Sale" sign in front of your nice place? I don't think I would go very far to get a better looking home than you have got there.

Felix J. Carr, almost opposite Mr. Wadsworth, has another nice home with well-kept grounds.

Mr. Arthur G. Williams and Mr. Tucker at the head of Eaton street on the avenue are two of the well-kept places in that neighborhood. Both of these places have a fine piece of green space between the street and sidewalk. Here are two pieces of property worth at least $35,000 together, and directly opposite is the Highland school that I have already referred to in another part of this column.

Next week I will refer to places from Mr. Vernon street to Herrick street.

The last place on the avenue I stopped at was Mr. Frederick S. Snyder's large estate. This is the largest private estate in this town, comprising over 200 acres of garden, woodland, and meadows. The house is of brick and modern in every detail, containing everything an architect's skill can devise. During the past four years Mr. Snyder has planted over 50 peach, apple, plum and pear trees on his grounds and the peach trees are weighted down with fruit at present. He has also had all the old apple trees pruned and grafted, so that at present they are all propped with the weight of apples. As I walked along with Mr. Snyder I saw the first grand arbor in town. This arbor is loaded with grapes of all varieties. In the center of his grounds is a small pond stocked with trout which at present weigh from half to one and one-half pounds. He has resided in the former stable into one of the best combination garage and stable in Winchester. The town has lately built a fine drive from Highland avenue all around his house and to the garage. This work was under the charge of Foreman Patrick Kenney of the Street Department, and you can leave it to Pat to do a good job.

As I came down Herrick street to Main, I could not help but notice Mr. Francis E. Getty's well-kept grounds and garden, while next door to Mr. Getty was Dr. Bennett's attractive place, kept equally as well.

Have you citizens noticed what a busy man our chairman of the selectmen is? You can generally find Mr. Kilder around some part of the town any day. There is one particular good point in Mr. Kilder's favor and that is, he is a mighty good listener. Any citizen is given a fair and square deal when doing business with him.

I saw the new forms that the town has recently purchased for sidewalk construction, and they are a great improvement on the old style boards. The foreman Mr. Callahan said they save one third of the time in construction.

While throwing a few bouquets at the Highway Department, I would also like to ask them why not get rid of all the old junk in the way of horse wagons, etc. that are taking up valuable room at the town yard? They are absolutely of no value to the town and some means should be taken to get rid of them.

I met an officer of the American Legion the past week, and inquired as to the results they are getting. Well, it seems up to Sept. 15 there has been 64 paid-up members out of 650 enlistments from this town. Now I want to hand you boys who did your bit something to think over. This town has as good a personnel as any town in Massachusetts, and it is to the everlasting shame of every sailor and soldier boy in the town that they don't join. Wakefield has 207 members, Arlington is going to have a home so is Melrose, and here you fellows stand idly by and watch the rest of the towns put something over on you. Don't you think if you were in some other town and came to pass a Legion home that it would feel good to visit it and get a nice reception? Well, that's what it means to belong to this organization. Come on boys, wake up and get in with this great American institution. Winchester never fell down in anything yet and it won't fall in this membership drive for the Legion.

I dropped in on Fred Schell at the Calumet Club this week, and everything is ready in this center of social activity for this season, which opens on the 27th. For those citizens who do not have the pleasure of being members of this fine club, I would advise an early application. I failed to ask whether there was a waiting list or not, but I think there is. Anyway this club is a credit to the town and a visit there is sure to be enjoyed. I have been in a number of clubs in different places and the Calumet compares with the best of them. The club is very lucky to have such an able steward as Mr. Schell, and the house shows the results of his careful work. The entertainment season will be in charge of a committee with Claude M. Crafts as chairman. The booking season opens Sept. 27 and Mr. A. W. Peman is the gentleman in charge there.

Finally along comes C. McInerney and Sergeant McInerney in their auto, covering the floor as usual. They picked up the Snyder and I covered with a piece of the rug with the "I don't mind riding in the 'Black' and 'Trot', but it sure gets you when you are asked the next day what you were 'up to' for."

How We Go At It

First we look into the battery to see if you put water in it.

Then we use the hydrometer which is the one reliable way of knowing the condition of its charge.

Then, if no special cause of trouble appears we put it on the line to see if it will take a charge.

But if there is plain indication of serious trouble we open the battery up and find out exactly what's what.

Don't trust your battery to amateurs or artists in guesswork, who claim they can tell inside condition by outside inspection.

Come here where you find adequate machines and apparatus to really inspect, charge and repair any battery.

STATE PRIMARIES

Light Vote Again Pooled in Winchester

Another light vote was pooled in Winchester at the State Primaries, Tuesday. The total number of ballots cast amounted to but 715, but 47 more than were polled last year during the war and epidemic. One reason for this was the rainy weather. The disagreeable day being many a day. The lack of a contest of any local interest was another contributing factor.

The Republican vote was 629 and the Democrats polled 56, the latter party showing a falling off over last year, when 100 votes were cast. Calvin Coddige for Governor received the largest vote, 619. For the office of State Treasurer, Frank S. Perkins, the soldier candidate, ran first with 329 votes, Fred N. Kerr, following with 149. J. Weston Allen was the popular candidate for the Attorney General nomination with 176 votes, and Richard B. Coddige was nominated for the office of Representative with 351 to Jasper N. Johnson 244. Robert N. Turner, leader of the State Committee list with 147.

The Democrats had but one contest and Richard H. Long was the popular candidate for Governor, receiving 61 votes. Dietrick received 12 and Foss 2. Whitfield L. Tuck, besides receiving one vote for Governor, was well supported in the uncontested nomination for Senator and State Committee. The results were as follows:

Republican Vote

Governor	Calvin Coddige	619
Lieutenant Governor	Channing H. Cox	605
Secretary	Albert P. Langtry	584
Treasurer	Fred J. Burrell	88
	Charles L. Gifford	19

Last Saturday the Winchester Red Cross sent 50 packages to the Cambridge armory, where the Winchester Machine Gun Company is stationed while serving during the Boston police strike. Each Winchester man was given one of these packages which contained 3 bath towels, 6 handkerchiefs, cake of soap, tooth brush, and a tube of tooth paste.

Mr. T. Grafton Abbott greatly assisted in the selection and purchase of these articles. Mr. George Davidson took Mr. Pond and the 50 packages in his machine to Cambridge, also a good supply of apples from Mr. Pond's garden, which the men greatly enjoyed. A few days later a large quantity of chocolates was also sent by the Winchester Red Cross to the company, and Capt. Tompkins was told that the local branch stood ready to assist the men in any way which would add to their comfort and happiness. Many of the Winchester company are serving during the strike at great inconvenience and sacrifice, in both personal and business affairs, and the community should surely do what ever is possible to help them.

It is urgently requested that all layettes and knitted articles be returned to the Red Cross room as soon as possible. There is a good supply of wool on hand for children's stockings and sweaters for which there is still a demand. There is also sewing to be done, and it is hoped the Winchester women will continue to respond to the call for sewers.

CALUMET DINNER NEXT MONTH

The annual dinner of the Calumet Club has been planned for the 15th of October it is reported. The dinner will be held as usual at the club house.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

The Board met at 7:30 p.m. and present.

Jurors 1919: The chief of police appeared with a venire calling for two traverse jurors for the Superior Court to be held at the bridge station and for the County of Middlesex on the first Monday of October. Messrs. Daniel Keiser, 117 Broadway, and George H. White, 107 Washington street were drawn. The chief of police also presented a venire calling for two traverse jurors for the Superior Civil Court to be held at Lowell within and for the County of Middlesex on the first Monday in October. Messrs. George Jackson, 30 Irving street and Carl Larson, 393 Main street were drawn.

Licenses 1919: Unclassified: A letter was received from the chief of police calling the board's attention to an act passed by the Legislature this year in regard to the purchase and sale of second-hand motor vehicles. This act which is chapter 250 of the Acts of 1919 provides for the licensing of dealers by the selectmen and takes effect on Sept. 26, 1919.

Building Lines, 1919, South Main Street: It was the opinion of the Planning Board that building lines should be established on South Main street, from the Parkway to the Melford line, and the board was of the same opinion.

Building Lines, 1919, Washington Street: It was also the opinion of the Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen that building lines should be established on Washington street from Lebanon street to Main street.

Sidewalks (Granolithic): Mr. Kidder called the Planning Board's attention to the same.

MACHINE GUN COMPANY MOVES

The Machine Gun Co., 12th Regt. M. S. G., the Winchester company, which has been stationed during the police strike in Boston at the Cambridge armory, moves this morning to the Dudley street police station. What the new duties of the company will be are not yet announced.

The members of the company are all in the best of health with the exception of Stable Sergt. Harry Dutton who is at his home here ill with the grip. The boys are all gaining weight and are much interested in their service work. Capt. Maurice C. Tompkins took his first vacation since being called to service, Thursday afternoon, coming home and spending the night with his family. He returned yesterday morning. Many other members of the company have been on equally long terms of duty. The local organizations, including the Red Cross, Special Aid Society and other groups, have all been active in caring for the comfort of the boys and their attentions have been greatly appreciated. The Red Cross has supplied each boy with one of its kits and the Special Aid has contributed warm socks and other articles. Many of the citizens have also visited the company and contributed various articles of comfort.

WINCHESTER HORSES TOOK PRIZES AT LYNN

Winchester horses took a number of prizes at the Lynn Fair and Horse Show last week and a number of local riders participated in the event, the largest of its kind in this vicinity held since the war.

Mr. G. N. Kimball of Winchester avenue won first in pairs of saddle horses with Happy Boy and Radium. Happy Boy also took the silver cup in the high jump, and all together Mr. Kimball won three firsts and two thirds with his horses.

Harry Good of the Winchester Riding School had his string of horses entered and came out with six firsts, five seconds and six thirds. A most enviable record. Little Ruth Good took a silver cup with her pony Snap, and she was the youngest rider at the show. Harry Good's Bob won three firsts, two seconds and three thirds, while Snap took two firsts and one second.

BUILDING PERMITS

The following permits have been issued by the Inspector of Buildings for the week ending Sept. 25:

Alphredo McKelney of 11 Clark street. Steel garage at same address, 9x13 feet.

Luther Conant of 91 Bacon street. Alterations to wood frame dwelling at same address.

Paul D. Pond of 15 Calumet road. Terra cotta block garage at same address, 12x24 feet.

WELCOME HOME RECEPTION

Waterfield and Rebekah Lodges, I. O. O. F. Hold Big Event

Waterfield Lodge No. 231 and Victoria Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., united in holding a welcome home party and reception to members and sons of members who served in the war by giving a big supper and entertainment in their hall on Monday evening. There was an attendance of almost 175, the evening proving one of the events in 1919 following during the year.

Many invited guests attended and there was a good turnout of the sixteen old service men and one woman. Decorations in charge of the committee from Rebekah Lodge transformed the hall, large fans and the national flag being effectively used both in the banquet and entertainment halls.

The program opened with a supper, previous to which Mr. Fred T. Dutton, chairman of the committee in charge, made a welcoming address and Rev. A. B. Gifford of the Methodist church asked divine blessing. The long tables were very attractive, with their red, white and blue colors, flowers, napery and silver, and during the supper, which occupied two hours, community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Dr. J. Churchill Himes, accompanied by a three-piece orchestra.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church was a guest for the evening and he gave a most interesting talk, using for his subject "What the boys want to and what they come back to." At the conclusion of the supper the whole company united in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

The entertainment occupied an hour and a half and was given in the main hall, a two-man minstrel show furnishing much pleasurable diversion for all. Dancing followed this program until a late hour.

During the evening the roll was called for both Waterfield and Rebekah Lodges by Noble Grand, Miss Ethel Jewett of Victoria Rebekah Lodge, everyone responding either personally or by proxy.

The affair was in charge of a joint committee appointed by the two lodges. Mr. Fred T. Dutton was chairman and the members from Waterfield Lodge included Messrs. George H. Hamilton, George A. Ambler, Theodore W. Hartley, James Johnston, Messrs. from Victoria Rebekah Lodge were Messrs. Edward T. Wolf, chairman, Miss Ethel Jewett, Mrs. Violet Stevenson, Mrs. James Johnston and Mrs. J. Albert Hershey.

Altogether the two lodges had sixteen in the service. Of this list four were members at the time the armistice was declared and one, Miss Elizabeth Smith, was a yeoman.

The roll of honor includes the following names:

Miss Elizabeth Smith
Mr. Alvah Cross
Mr. A. H. Razeo
Mr. Arthur Bolville
Mr. Arthur Cameron
Mr. Lester Davis
Mr. Harold Dover
Mr. Loring Hawes
Mr. Ralph Hartley
Mr. Robert Hamilton
Mr. J. Leslie Johnson
Mr. Warren Johnston
Mr. John McKingon
Mr. Fred S. Mitchell
Mr. Lee Mellett
Mr. Stanley Mobbs
Mr. Walter Gorham
Mr. H. C. Peddie
Mr. Allen Richardson
Mr. Harold Meyers
Mr. Perry Johnson

EXTENDED PARKWAY

Within a short time motorists will be able to travel from Charlestown and Somerville to Lexington with a first-class park or State road from here to the end of the trap without using busy Massachusetts avenue. The last piece of road needed to make possible this trip is under construction. It is a short stretch of parkway, being built by the Metropolitan Park Commission from the Mystic Valley Parkway, at Melford street at the south end of lower Mystic Lake, to Mystic street in Arlington, where it will connect with the new state road which has been between Arlington and East Lexington.

The new construction will connect the parkway with the East Lexington State road. For a considerable part of the distance this route follows very closely the actual route taken by Paul Revere in his memorable ride, and it will be therefore of much historical interest.

ALFRED C. VINTON

ALFRED C. VINTON DEAD

Mr. Alfred C. Vinton died at his home on Main street yesterday afternoon of pneumonia. He had been ill since Sunday.

Alfred Clarence Vinton, lawyer, was born in Stoneham, Mass., July 16, 1874, being the son of John Adams and Laurinda (Richardson) Vinton.

He attended and graduated from the Boston Latin school and then entered Harvard College graduating in 1896 in the same class with the late Elsha D. Bangs, Albion Case and William E. Skilling, all present or former residents of Winchester. He attended Harvard Law school and studied law in the office of Charles Theodore Russell and Edward S. Rand, and was admitted to the Suffolk Bar, Jan. 21, 1871.

Mr. Vinton was counsel for the Massachusetts Title Insurance Company of Boston from 1887 to 1895, at which later date he resigned this position and formed with Arnold A. Rand, John Lathrop Wakfield and Edward A. Wilkie, the law firm of Rand, Vinton & Wakfield, of which he was a member at the time of his death. He had been Conveyancer of the Metropolitan Water Board, and its successor, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, since December, 1895.

Mr. Vinton had always been prominently identified with Winchester affairs, having moved here with his parents in 1870. He was one of the trustees of the Winchester Public Library for six years and a deacon of the First Congregational church from 1881 to 1889, when he declined a reelection.

He was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society, Congregational Club of Boston, of which he was secretary for five years; Mystic Valley Club, Boston Bar Association and of the Abstract Club of Boston.

Mr. Vinton was an assiduous student, and very learned in the law. He made a specialty of conveyancing, and he was more accurately and thoroughly grounded in the laws of titles and real estate than any other lawyer who ever resided in Winchester.

Mr. Vinton married Miss Emma Frances Mills, daughter of the late James Mills of Boston, Oct. 11, 1872, and he is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Mabel Laurinda Vinton. Two other children, Helen M. and Stanley, had previously died. The funeral services will probably be held on Sunday afternoon from the residence, No. 477 Main street, at 2 o'clock.

AMERICAN LEGION

Winchester Post No. 97 is fast reaching her quota of 260 members. However, the Executive Committee will not be satisfied with this membership from this town. There were close to 700 men in service here and the committee feel it not out of proportion at all to get 600 Charter members for Winchester Post.

A committee was appointed at the last meeting of the Post to make arrangements for a grand rally for members next Monday night, Sept. 29, 1919. They are now preparing to get a good band, plenty of torch lights and want all the service men possible to be present and we will parade through part of the town and wind up at the Town Hall for our meeting, followed by a dance.

At this meeting we want to get all those men who have not yet signed up. We will also elect our delegates to the State Convention at Worcester, Oct. 15-16. We are entitled to one representative for every 100 paid up members. Therefore boys, let us get together and send five or six delegates from this Post so we will know what is going on around us.

Oct. 1st, the date of closing Charter Membership is close approaching. After this date a member will have to be voted on by the Executive Committee before he can join. Why not save this trouble and sign up now, thereby having your name entered as a Charter Member of Winchester Post No. 97, The American Legion.

We will have a complete list of our Charter members printed in the Star in the near future. Do not, on account of carelessness or indifference, fail to have your name listed with the other Winchester boys, who did their bit. It is going to be a source of pride to you, your family and friends later on to see your name on this Charter as one who fought for the principles of Americanism and Democracy and are still helping to preserve those principles. This is what you are doing when you pledge yourself a member of this great organization, The American Legion.

Below are a few excerpts from the constitution and by-laws:

To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, State and Nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good-will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

While requiring that every member of the organization perform his full duty as a citizen according to his own conscience and understanding, the organization shall be absolutely non-partisan and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles or for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment.

WINCHESTER MEDALS

Winchester men who have been in the service may obtain their medals presented by the Town by applying at the STAR Office.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

Tomorrow we go to Woburn for the final game of a very satisfactory season, about which I will have more to say when I make reports of the summary. This game at Woburn will be the rubber game and will attract as usual, the large crowd which attends any Woburn and Winchester game. Connolly or Weaver will pitch for Woburn and Waters or some other semi-pro pitcher will be on hand for Winchester. I will have to make a few changes in my lineup, but I am not certain what they will be at this writing. We will try our best to get away with this game, for winning the series with Woburn causes the fans to forget all other wins and losses. The game will start at 3:30, and as stated, indications point to the largest crowd of the season and early arrivals will get their seats. Hardly and Woodcock will umpire.

FIRST VESPER SERVICE OF THE SEASON

The first of a series of monthly vesper services will be held at the First Congregational church, Sunday, Oct. 26th at 5 p. m. The Smalley Trio, consisting of a flute, harp and cello, have been engaged as the artists.

The personnel of this trio, Marion Jordan, Rae Kilmer and Ralph Smalley are well known to the musical-loving public of Greater Boston. To those who love the beautiful and unusual in music, this combination of instruments will be especially appealing. They will be assisted by a vocal quartette, and the Rev. Howard J. Chidley will deliver a short address. The public is cordially invited.

ACCIDENT TUESDAY FORENOON

An accident occurred shortly after nine o'clock Tuesday forenoon on Forest street when a disabled truck towed by another truck was in a collision with an electric car. As a result George Adams of Woburn was taken to the Winchester Hospital suffering from a bad wound on his head.

The disabled truck was owned by the Stoneham Ice Co. and Adams was at its wheel. It was being towed by another truck driven by Thomas O'Connor of Woburn and owned by the Bates garage. When in front of the Gregory residence the trucks met an electric car in the direction of Stoneham, the disabled truck colliding with it.

The truck was quite badly damaged, one front wheel being smashed and the windshield broken. The electric car was somewhat damaged but was able to continue on its trip, and no one outside of Adams was injured.

NO CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

For the fifth consecutive week no cases of contagious diseases have been reported to the Board of Health.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by
MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street
Co-operating with the
Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Home gardeners who have grown beans for baking purposes should take the precaution of fumigating them before storing for winter. This is to guard against the damage of the bean weevil which usually attacks the bean crop quite generally throughout this section.

The bean weevil attacks the bean while still growing and does not stop when the crop is gathered, though in the beans. The weevil deposits its eggs in a jar in the pod or opening through which the egg is thrust. The larvae, or grubs, develop within and soon after the beans are harvested the weevils begin to develop according to the temperature.

The bean weevils vary in color. The common bean weevil is dull gray with reddish legs. None of these insects is much more than one-fifth of an inch long, and some are shorter. Bean weevils cannot be controlled in the field. They hatched continuously from dried seed, and it is therefore advisable to harvest the crop and fumigate with carbon disulfide (from drug stores). Place the beans in a tight box or can and use one teaspoonful of the disulfide to each cubic foot in the box. Place the disulfide in a small dish set on top of the beans, close the box tightly, and leave for twenty-four hours. Then open and air the beans for an hour, and put them away for storage. Do not use this treatment in a room where there is a fire, as the gas produced catches fire easily in the presence of fire, even of a lighted cigar or pipe.

SEEN AND HEARD AROUND TOWN

Well, how did the result of the primaries suit you? It seems the intelligent voter (2) fell down in several of the results.

After the Stroller arrived at the jail, Bob Sullivan, who has been doing duty at the gate was still there, with that great voice of his. Bob has been handling that gate for 14 years and group just as well as ever. Politicians may come and go, but Bob goes on forever.

Last week a prominent auto owner called the Stroller's attention to a bad condition at the junction of the Parkway and Washington street. He said a number of his friends have also spoken of it. The shrubs on the High school grounds obstruct the view of autos coming in either direction. They claim there will be a severe accident some day at this corner.

A dentist in Winchester recently spoke to me about the need of a dentist in the schools. He said that the town pays for two dentists and does not see any reason why the dentists should be asked to give their services free. There seems to be no argument there.

I notice that the owners of the Post Office block on Common street have started to give this building a much needed coat of paint. They tell me around town some of the other owners might follow suit without doing any damage to their property.

I notice we still have considerable open work around the square. The labor question seems to be a good alibi.

The police called my attention to a new safety lock for autos during the week. Barnum was right, there's one a minute, and four looking for Jerry.

The two Sullivans, Jim and Jerry, the Cambridge screen manufacturers, showed the Stroller a new way to start an auto. Their crank pin broke and Jim jacked up the rear wheels and gave it a quick turn, starting the engine at once. Try it some day when the old flivver refuses to work.

Speaking with one of the Water Board during the week I was given considerable data on our water system. I do not know whether the people of this town appreciate what we own in the way of water supply. The State will take this at no distant date, and when they do, my informant told me that the town should get $25,000 for it.

The reservoir seems to be a favor, it spot during the warm evenings for the nurses at the hospital.

Supt. Dutton had the greatest garden of asters I ever saw planted in front of the gate house at the North dam.

The cemetery department is reduced to a working force of one man, besides the superintendent. There was a prominent citizen of our country who made a statement at one time that "a condition, not a theory confronts us." If the cemetery commission or any other department think they are going to not labor for what they did live to ten years ago, they have not another thing coming.

Now the police here is a body of men, working 70 hours per week for $26.00 or a fraction over, and the fellow with the pick and shovel gets $21 to $27 for 14 hours, and pay for overtime. If we are to have good men for our police department we have got to pay them. Surely it seems a policeman has as much responsibility as a laborer. The policemen's association are going to ask every town and city in the state for $3.00 per day.

Since last week I have been informed that the Selectmen have funds and that the fire and police station will soon be put in good condition. The only reason it was not done before was waiting for a favorable time to do the work with heat inside the building.

Someone "booted" one Tuesday when they failed to ring the fire whistle for the school. We don't all own autos, and children should not be compelled to go to school on any such a morning.

The Poor Department say that the Selectmen, or some of them, wanted this department to purchase 60 tons of coal early in the season and pay cash for it. This seemed poor business to the chairman of the Overseers of the Poor, as he saw no reason to pay $700 or $800 out when it might be drawing interest for the town. Also they did not know whether they would use 60 tons or a half ton, all of which seems reasonable enough.

James Murray has built one of the nicest places in that section at the corner of Cutting street and the Parkway. I thought some millionaire was putting up the place, and was surprised when I found out Jim owned it. He formerly lived in Woburn.

Philip Blank, who has done so much for the improvement of Highland avenue has remodeled the old Folsom place until it is now one of the best on the avenue. He resides there himself.

F. Manly Ives has another nice home under the fine oaks which surround his place.

E. J. Johnson and Marshall Jones are two more of Winchester's prominent citizens who are helping to keep our town beautiful with fine homes and attractive grounds.

The Stroller.

WINCHESTER LOSES STARS TEMPORARILY

Whipping the Winchester High school football team into battle array has been halted temporarily through the calling out of the state guard for police duty in Boston during the strike of the city's policemen. For four of the veteran members of the team are numbered among the guardsmen. The soldier players are Cullen and Ginn, Inneson, and Hart and Parker, ends.

Up to the temporary interruption, prospects for a fast and powerful eleven were exceedingly bright and the players were training faithfully with the championship of the Myrtle Valley league the goal in view. Although the first game on the schedule is Sept. 27, the initial league contest does not come until Oct. 18, so the absence of these players is not expected to hurt the team's chances for the league title.

In addition to its league games Winchester has arranged contests with Marlborough High, Sept. 27; Wakefield High, Oct. 1, and Woburn High, Oct. 11.

TUITS AFTER CRIMINALS

That District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County is determined to drive the crooks out of his bullwink was evident when Harry Berwin, with a long list of aliases and also a long list of records, known to the police all over the country as "The Master Burglar" was given 7 to 9 years in State's Prison by Judge O'Connell in the superior criminal court at East Cambridge. Berwin pleaded guilty to 9 out of 10 indictments for breaking and entering. He was released in November, 1918 from the Pennsylvania State Prison where he had served 8 years for burglary. He is also wanted by the police of Newark, N. J.

District Attorney Tufts stated to Judge O'Connell that Berwin was a professional crook of the very worst type, and asked that he be given a very substantial sentence. "He is no longer entitled to any sympathy, he is a menace to the community," said the district attorney. Police officials from Cambridge, Belmont, Woburn, Newton, and Medford testified against Berwin.

WINCHESTER GRANGE

The last meeting of Winchester Grange, P. of H. was held in Lyceum hall on Tuesday evening, Sept. 23. Seven candidates received the third degree which was conferred by a combined degree staff composed of ladies from Melrose and Cambridge granges.

The fourth degree was conferred on the same candidates by a degree staff composed of members of the Metropolitan past masters. The work was under the direction of Past Deputy Frank T. Marston of Boston.

Besides delegations from the granges named above, Sammis Grange planned a truck ride and brought a delegation of about twenty members. At the previous meeting of F. W. Winchester Grange the first and second degrees were conferred. A unique feature was an All-Star degree staff for conferring the first degree. This was composed of one officer from each of the neighboring granges, supposed to be the best officer in that position in the district. Nine different granges were represented. Refreshments were served.

A whist party will be held by Winchester Grange, Tuesday evening, Sept. 30th.

GARDEN SUMMARY

Miss Mildred Benson of the Washington Street school garden, and Miss Francis McKee of the Parkway school garden have been present at every session of the respective garden classes. Classes have met twice a week all summer.

Individual plots at the Parkway garden have yielded about two dollars' worth of produce, while slightly larger plots at the Washington street garden have yielded four or five dollars' worth of produce.

Paint Before Winter!

Soon there will be no foliage to screen the shabby house. And soon heating rains, driving snows and freezing winds will search out cracks and crevices and every bare spot and start decay. Paint is indispensable in winter.

Insects are going; woodwork is thoroughly dry; the sun is no longer blistering hot; it is the best time of year to paint.

If you intend to paint next spring, do it now and get the benefits of a protecting coat of paint through the winter months and when you paint, paint right. Pure Paint—Pure White Lead and pure linseed oil—mixed to your order, tinted to please you and spread by experienced painters, is cheapest in the end.

BASEBALL

(By "Mack")

We failed last Saturday to follow up our brand of ball that was played at Arlington, and instead our team got an abject as poor an article of ball as we have seen since all the season. Even the Arlington pitcher failed to show up, and the game was held up ten minutes until Calahan and Warner got up, and a proved a wise move for Arlington. Winchester was unable to do anything with Calahan, while Arlington hit Waters at the first base, and by the time we were getting started, they had a lead that Winchester could not overcome. The umpiring of Dine was very satisfactory, and on three different occasions he called plays against us that a blind man would be ashamed to call. The crowd was another Saturday home and 71 autos were parked on the grounds from the street to the bridge. Tomorrow we see Mr. Webber for the final game of the year.

WINCHESTER ALLEYS NEWS
"Mack" opened the Winchester Alleys Saturday after the ball game, and they proved a success from the start. The five alleys have been in constant use ever since. Different organizations, factories, etc. are speaking of forming teams, and it looks like a busy bowling season. The bowlers are delighted with the condition of the alleys, and with service received. Two prizes are offered each week for high and second high strings. This is also proving attractive to the bowlers. In fact, everyone, who's who in bowling have been in since the opening. Come at some evening and see the busy crowd on the alleys.
There will be a column during the season devoted exclusively to the Winchester Alleys.

GRANGE NOTES
Winchester Grange, No. 343, P. of H., conferred on the third and fourth degrees on a number of candidates Tuesday evening in Lyceum hall. The ladies who did the degree work formed a mixed team, one half the number were from Cambridge Grange and the other from Melrose Grange. The work was splendidly done and highly appreciated by Winchester Grange. The fourth degree was given by a degree team composed of past masters of neighboring granges led by Worthy Master Thomas Carter of the Middlesex Essex Pomona Grange. Deputy Frank T. Marston, past master of Everett Grange was lecturer and Chester Phillips, past master of Winchester Grange, the chaplain. Refreshments were served after which the regular meeting was resumed.
Mrs. Alice T. Caldwell was elected to the office of lecturer of Winchester and is to be installed at the next meeting.

The Worthy Master of the State Grange is to be the guest of Winchester Grange at the next meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 14.

Winchester Grange will entertain the Middlesex Essex Pomona on Tuesday afternoon and evening Oct. 28, at which time the fifth degree will be conferred on those wishing to take it.

NOTICE
The Ladies G. R. Tournament which was to be held at the Country Club on Tuesday, Sept. 23, is postponed until Tuesday, Sept. 30.

To the Editor of the Star:

In your issue of Sept. 12 was a political advertisement in regard to my qualifications for the office of State Treasurer. Underneath was the following statement:

"We the undersigned, hereby recommend Frederick N. Kerr as a candidate for State Treasurer and Receiver General."

Winchester National Bank
Winchester Trust Co.
On Sept. 19, the following correction was made by C. E. Barrett, clerk:

A Correction
September 18, 1919.
To the Editor,
Winchester Star.

Dear Sir:
Under a political advertisement in the Star of September 12, it appears that the Winchester Trust Company is recommending the candidacy of Mr. Frederick N. Kerr for the office of State Treasurer. This is not so. The bank is not in politics. The directors have not been consulted in this matter, therefore have not consented to the use of the bank's name.
C. E. Barrett, Clerk.

This undoubtedly gave the impression to some of the voters of the town that I was trying to obtain votes under false pretences.
I herewith submit a copy of an abstract from my endorsements obtained when I announced my candidacy.
Frederick N. Kerr.

GOOD POLICE WORK BY OFFICER SHEA

Good police work by Officer Shea Sunday night at 8:15, the centre of the town was treated to some excitement. All sorts of rumors were flying around and no one seemed to have the right story. The police auto was on the go for 20 minutes, back and forth from the station, and at last Officer Shea with Officer O'Connell in the rear seat with a coat and hatless prisoner. It seems there was some sort of a future mother-in-law argument in the Italian colony and mother-in-law got a punch in the face from her intended son-in-law. He was then set upon by other members of the family and made a quick getaway. Officer O'Connell was notified and by quick work got the station. Officer Shea was sent in pursuit of the assailant, who was finally cornered in a house on Spruce street, but after considerable hunting by Shea. And still they tell you the police have a fine job—7 days a week.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A new resident can generally get credit, and that is one of the two reasons why some of them move frequently.

Some men can prove anything and not convince anybody.

The way to see if you can do a thing is to see if you can.

There are more men who tell you how they told the boss where to get off at, than there are bosses.

Every man intends to have his own way after marriage, but quite often his wife relieves him of a false impression.

What was the cause of murder, bloodshed and chaos in Russia? Ignorance! What is the cause of nine-tenths of our strikes of today? Ignorance!

We learn from Mr. Jasper N. Johnson, recently a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative from this district, that he has sent to Mr. Richard B. Cuddehe, the successful candidate, a letter of congratulation, assuring him of his support in the election.

It has been suggested that the parents of children about town should take steps to prevent the marking of the new tar granolithic sidewalks which the Highway department are constructing at this season. The department has already been put to considerable expense repairing new work for this reason. Children have taken up the idea of marking the fresh surfaces with their initials and other characters, much to the detriment of the surface and with little addition to the attractiveness.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

Resolutions Passed on Rev. Henry E. Hodge, Wednesday Night

A special meeting of the First Baptist Church was held on Wednesday evening at the church, at which time the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Henry E. Hodge, was accepted. Rev. Mr. Hodge recently tendered his resignation to take effect October first.

He came to this town twenty years ago, on December 1st, 1899, and during his pastorate has made a host of friends, not only among his parishioners, but throughout the town.

In accepting Mr. Hodge's resignation the church passed the following resolutions:

Where-as, our pastor, the Rev. Henry E. Hodge, has tendered his resignation, the same to take effect October 1st, 1919, and

Where-as, he has been the faithful pastor of our church, the First Baptist church of Winchester, Mass., for almost twenty years, having entered upon his duties as pastor on December 1st, 1899, and

Where-as, during this long period, his service has been marked by loyalty to the Word of God, and to Jesus as Saviour and Lord; by earnest efforts for the salvation of the young people and their dedication to the cause of world-wide missions; by thoughtful attention to the comfort of the sick, and the spiritual growth and well being of all members of the church; and

Where-as, his going will be regarded as a real loss by friends outside as well as inside the church, we express ourselves by the following resolutions: Resolved: That we, as a church, are sincerely thankful for these years which have been so full of service, faithfully performed, and which have been such a blessing to church and community.

Be it also resolved: that we do assure our pastor of our purpose to remember during the years that are to come, his labors of love and his faithful presentation of the Word, while he was with us.

Be it also resolved: that we heartily and unreservedly recommend him to any church desiring a pastor, and that our prayers will follow him to the new field of labor.

Be it finally resolved: that a copy of these resolutions as voted in business meeting of the church this 24th day of September, nineteen hundred and nineteen, be given to our pastor, a copy be sent to the Winchester Star, and a copy spread upon the records of the church.

HEFFLON FUND CLOSES

Contributions to the fund for placing a memorial to the late Joseph H. Hefflon, who died in France while doing war work in the Wadleigh school, where he was principal, have practically ceased. The sum subscribed to date, $147.45, while not as large as had been hoped for, or sufficient for the memorial planned, will be turned over to the committee Oct. 1st. It was hoped that upon the return of Winchester residents from their summer homes, the fund would be materially increased and the sum finally subscribed would be ample to place a fitting memorial in the school. If there are any residents who still desire to contribute, they may leave their donations at the STAR office up to October 1st.

WEDDED A SECOND TIME AT LOS ANGELES

Dudley Murphy, Marries Miss Harnden

For the second time in two months, Dudley Murphy, son of Hermann Dudley Murphy of Lexington, a noted artist of Boston, and Miss Harnden, a motion picture actress, were married Sunday night by the Socialist minister, Rev. Paul Jordan Smith, at an unusual ceremony at Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were married Aug. 25, this year, but decided to have another ceremony performed by a minister, the first having been performed by a justice of the peace.

Miss Harnden is a daughter of Mrs. Ada Chase Dudley, of Rochester, N. Y., a social leader, and a sister of Miss Anne Harnden, a magazine editor. Miss Helen Harnden, another sister, is a football favorite in New York.

Mr. Murphy, who served in the Aviation Corps during the war, is well known through his residence for many years in this town.

PATRICK NELSON INJURED

Mr. Patrick Nelson, a member of the town Highway department, was quite badly injured Wednesday afternoon when a five-ton truck skidded on freshly tarred street and crashed into a tip-cart from which he was shovelling sand. He received two broken ribs and was taken to his home.

The Highway department was tarring Forest street, at the electric car turnout. One side had been tarred and sanded and the other side had been tarred and the sand was being sprinkled on it. A five-ton truck of the A. H. Hewes Co. of Cambridge, driven by F. A. Mann of 75 Wadsworth street, that city, ran onto the fresh tar. It immediately got out of control and crashed into the tip-cart containing the sand. The cart was overturned and the horse thrown down. Mr. Nelson, who was at the back, being hit with the cart as it went over.

He was taken to his home and attended by Dr. McCarthy, who found two ribs broken besides numerous bruises. Mr. Nelson suffered the death of his wife only last week and his accident is most unfortunate. The horse was not hurt other than being lamed and the dump-cart had one shaft broken.

JOUETT-KINGSLEY

The wedding of Miss Gladys Anne Kingsley of Somerville, daughter of Mrs. Fannie G. Kingsley, and Mr. Mark R. Jouett, Jr., of this town, took place on Wednesday at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. William H. Peters, rector of the St. James' Episcopal church of Somerville, officiating.

Owing to the recent death of the groom's mother, the ceremony was very simple. The couple were attended by Dr. Fred R. Jouett of Cambridge, brother of the groom, and Miss Anne Lee of Beverly.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett will make their home in this town, and will be at home after November first at 16 Brooks street.

CARD OF THANKS

Many thanks to the kind lady lovingly on Lloyd street for the motherly interest she has shown in several of her neighbors, myself included, also for the telephone calls, used in our behalf during the summer months. Gratefully, Geo. Bgley.

Big meeting and dance. American Legion, Town Hall, Monday Night. Everybody Welcome.

tention to the fact that the Board of Selectmen had received several petitions for granolithic sidewalks where the abutters were willing to pay half the cost of constructing the same, but that owing to insufficient funds the board was unable to construct these walks. Mr. Kiddler further stated that he felt that provision should be made each year in the appropriation for sidewalk construction which would take care of such petitions where the abutters were willing to pay their part of the expense.

Traffic Rules. The board passed an order in regard to rules and regulations governing the use of vehicles, however propelled in the streets of the Town of Winchester.

Ordered: That the following rules and regulations are hereby made and published by this board to govern the use of vehicles however propelled in the streets of the town of Winchester, said rules and regulations to supercede all other rules and regulations now in force, and to be effective and to apply to every person having charge or control of a vehicle in said town of Winchester on and after October 3, 1919. A copy of the traffic rules is printed elsewhere in this issue of the STAR.

The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock p. m. George S. F. Bartlett, Clerk of Selectmen.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY JUMBLE SALE

On Friday, Oct. 3rd, the first of a series of Jumble Sales will be held in the Parish House hall from 2 until 5 p. m. Any article of clothing, new or partly worn, furniture or ornaments, which you are willing to pass on, old pieces of china, boots and shoes, if part anything which has become a superfluity in your house and might be useful in the house of another, will be welcomed by the committee on Friday morning.

Tea will be served, and every purchaser will find plenty of bargains. Members of the parish are cordially urged to come and bring their friends. The money raised will be used toward a fund to buy a moving picture machine which will be a source of unending pleasure and profit. Old and young may help earn the money and later on will enjoy the pictures.

ANDREW VAYO

Andrew Vayo, father of William H. Vayo of this town, passed away at his home at Uxbridge, Sept. 21, at the age of 85 years. He was a resident of the town for fifty years. He was a Civil War veteran, and served nearly four years. During his service he was wounded several times. Mr. Vayo was a member of the H. H. Legz Post, G. A. R., which now has but three surviving members.

CLEVER CATCH BY POLICE

The Winchester police made a clever capture this week and somewhat surprised the managers of the J. O. Whitten Co. when they returned a 500-pound barrel of refined gelatine. The whole incident occupied only an hour and a half. Learning that Charles W. Bailey of 17 Harvard street, an employee of the company, had a barrel of gelatine in his room, Chief McIntosh visited the premises and went to the Whitten Co. and had it identified as their product. They also admitted that two barrels were missing, they thinking them misplaced.

Taking a Whitten company truck, the chief went back to Harvard street and took the barrel to the factory, where it was identified as one of those which were missing. Bailey was immediately arrested, and he confessed that he had stolen the barrel Sunday night, rolling it down the railroad tracks and carrying the contents in his room in sacks, replacing it in the barrel again. He said he had previously taken 65 pounds of gelatine, which he had sold to a man in Boston who made ice cream. The barrel was valued at about $200.

In the Woburn court Tuesday morning, Bailey, who is 34 years of age, and the father of four children, was sentenced to the House of Correction for six months.

BOWLING OPENS AT CALUMET

Preparatory to opening the regular tournaments at the Calumet Club, it is planned to hold a big night tomorrow to enable the bowlers to get in shape for the coming contests. As announced last week there will be a list of special events which will include all handicaps and interest all bowlers from the novices to the experienced rollers. Prizes are to be awarded for each event and it is expected that it will be a big night on the alleys.

Extensive repairs were made on the alleys at the club last season, and with the rolling of last winter, coupled with the resurfacing and chances deemed advisable by the committee for this year, they probably have never been in better shape to start a season.

ST. MARY'S PARISH HONOR ROLL

The town hall, on Monday evening, Oct. 13th, will be the scene of a splendid entertainment and dance. The affair is to be conducted by the Associated societies of St. Mary's Parish, and the proceeds are to be used to defray the expenses of the new Honor Roll which has recently been placed in the church vestibule.

It has been the universal opinion of the many hundreds who have viewed the St. Mary's Parish Honor Roll, that it is the finest of its kind and the committee in charge esteem it a pleasure to aid in the work of raising funds to pay for it.

The cost of the Honor Roll and the fitting up of the vestibule to receive it reached a total of $2,300, $1400 of which has already been subscribed by the parishioners individually. So to the raising of the balance of $900, the committee and parish at large are devoting their time and labor.

It is expected that the entertainment will be unique in its line. It is in good hands and its details will be announced later.

The committees in charge are headed by the following chairman:

Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, General chairman.
Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, publicity.
Miss Mary A. Lyons, tickets.
Mr. Charles J. Harrold, entertainment.
Mrs. George R. Poland, music.
Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, refreshments.
The societies which have charge of the work of raising the money to defray the expenses of erecting this splendid testimonial to the members of St. Mary's Parish, who had a part in the great World War are: Santa Maria Court, D. of I. Winchester Council, K. of C. Winchester Court, M. C. O. F. John Redmond Branch, I. N. F. Lady Redmond Branch, I. N. F. Sarah Curran Branch, I. N. F. Winchester Division, A. O. H. Ladies' Sodality, St. Mary's Parish. Holy Name Society, St. Mary's Parish.

VENTURA-MESSINA

Dominico D. Ventura and Catherine Messina, both of Swanton street, were united in marriage at the town hall by Town Clerk George H. Carter on Monday.

BOYS WHO ENTERED SCHOOLS CAUGHT

The Winchester police had Charles Allen of Woburn and Harry Veniot of this town in court at Woburn last week charged with breaking into various school houses in this town and stealing articles of clothing, such as sweaters, shoes, athletic shirts, etc. The boys, who are about 15 years of age, had entered the Prince, High, Mystic and Chapin schools. In addition to taking clothing the boys emptied the fire extinguishers at the Chapin and Mystic schools, doing much damage by spraying the chemical over the walls. They were both given suspended sentences to the Lyman school.

INURED ALIGHTING FROM ELECTRIC

Alexander Zirille of 35 Tremont street was quite badly injured Sunday night when he was run into by an automobile as he was alighting from a Woburn bus electric. He received a broken rib and was badly cut about the face.
Zirille left the car at the corner of Main and Swanton streets. As he stepped off he was struck by a Cadillac touring car containing six men. The car was owned by Daniel J. Keane of 7 Monument square, Charlestown, and was driven by his son.
Zirille was taken to the Winchester hospital by the Keane party under the direction of Sergt. McCauley, who was a passenger on the electric. He was treated by Dr. Sheehy. Keane was summoned for a court hearing.

THROUGH FIVE STATES ON A FURNITURE TRUCK

Editor Star: Thinking that a little sketch of a trip that two of my furniture trucks took last week might be of interest to some of the STAR readers, showing the modern way of moving furniture as compared to the old way of crating and shipping by rail, with its week of noise and discomfort while packing, and from one to three weeks waiting for goods to arrive at destination, and the old story of unpacking and getting settled again.

We loaded two trucks Saturday, Sept. 13 for New Rochelle, New York, about 230 miles; left Winchester at 1 a. m. Sunday, going by the way of Waltham, Marlboro, Worcester, Leicester, over Leicester hill, known as one of the hardest to climb with a load in Massachusetts, through Warren, Palmer, into Springfield. From there to Hartford, Conn.; then to New Haven, New Haven to Bridgeport, then through Greenwich and Portchester to New Rochelle, arriving there at 12 o'clock Sunday night; and believe me, after 23 hours at the wheel of a 3 1/2 ton Federal truck with about a 4 ton load, a man does not need any stunner soon to put him to sleep.

Monday at 3 o'clock, furniture was all in house and set up ready to go to housekeeping again. Having two loads in Lebanon, N. H., to bring back to Wakefield, we came back to Springfield and from there to Greenfield; Greenfield to Brattleboro, Vt.; then to Bellows Falls to White River Junction, then to Lebanon.

Leaving Lebanon at 1 o'clock Thursday, two bad detours, one around Dublin Lake, delayed us somewhat. From there we came down through Keene, Windham, Fitchburg, unloading in Wakefield at 7 o'clock Friday night, going through five states, which completed the round trip, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, about 600 miles.

This Friday we load for Hartford, Connecticut. The first week in October, two loads go to Montclair, N. J., with a return load from Brooklyn, N. Y. We run three Federal trucks which we consider second to none, any make or any price, in ability to stand up to heavy loads.

The 3 1/2 ton truck on this trip was driven by Bill MacKinnon and Sergt. Bill Lynch, 5th Marines, who say campaigning in France has nothing on touring New England on a furniture truck, and the 2-ton truck driven by Eddie O'Connell and Eddie Cullen. Eddie says they spent in the "green room" two nights, or in other words, in the trucks in the woods at the side of the road.

Town of Winchester

IN BOARD OF SELECTMEN

Sept. 22, 1919.
ORDERED: That the following rules and regulations are hereby made and published by this Board to govern the use of vehicles however propelled in the streets of the town of Winchester, said rules and regulations to supersede all other rules and regulations now in force and to be effective and to apply to every person having charge or control of a vehicle in said town of Winchester on and after October 3, 1919.

ARTICLE 1.
Vehicles in Motion.
Section 1. Every person having charge or control of a vehicle in motion shall drive said vehicle as follows:

- (a) A vehicle, except when passing a vehicle ahead, shall be kept to the right and as near the right-hand sidewalk as possible.
- (b) When a vehicle meets another vehicle it shall be driven so as to pass upon the right.
- (c) When a vehicle overtakes another vehicle it shall, in passing, be driven to the left, but it shall not be allowed to leave the line of the right unless there is a clear way of at least one hundred feet in advance on the left.
- (d) When a vehicle is turned to the right into another street it shall be kept as near to the right-hand sidewalk as possible.

(e) When a vehicle is turned to the left into another street it shall be driven to the right of and beyond the center of the intersecting street before turning.

(f) When a vehicle is driven across a street from one side to the other it shall be done by being turned to the left so that it shall heel in the general direction of the traffic on that side of the street.

(g) No person having charge of a vehicle in the business section shall allow any vehicle in front of it when approaching or passing over a crossing where a pedestrian is about to pass.

(h) Every driver of a vehicle in slowing up or stopping shall, by up-lifted hand, give a signal to those behind.

(i) In turning while in motion or in starting to turn from a standstill a signal shall be given by the driver of the vehicle about to be turned by raising a hand, indicating the direction in which the turn is to be made.

(j) Before backing, ample warning shall be given by voice or hand, and while backing increased vigilance must be exercised by the driver not to injure those behind.

(k) Drivers of vehicles of all kinds shall, in approaching a crossing or in passing a corner or curve of a public street, sound their signals in such a way as to give warning to the occupants of other vehicles and to pedestrians of their approach.

(l) Vehicles must be stopped so as not to interfere with or prevent the passage of pedestrians at crossings, and at all times drivers of vehicles must stop the same on a signal from a police officer.

(m) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the north side of Mt. Vernon Street in front of the store now occupied by Piccolo Brothers and the corner of said street formed by the junction of Main and Mt. Vernon Streets.

(n) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the south side of Mt. Vernon Street in front of the store now occupied by one of the gas and oil stores and the north side of Main Street near the letter box.

(o) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the south side of Mt. Vernon Street and a point ten (10) feet south of the hydrant on the westerly side of Main Street in front of the barber shop now occupied by one Matthews.

(p) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand in front of the Fire Station on Mt. Vernon Street.

(q) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between a point on Common Street sixteen and 6-10 (16-10) feet from the pole at the corner in front of Knight's drug store, and a point on the North side of Church Street sixteen and 6-10 (16-10) feet from the above mentioned pole.

(r) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand within ten (10) feet of any hydrant.

(s) In all other parts of the business section of the town no vehicle shall be allowed to stand more than twenty (20) minutes in one place, except as provided in Article 2, section 4.

(t) The exact locations of the posts and points hereinbefore referred to may be accurately determined by reference to a map entitled, "Plan of Winchester Centre, April, 1919, James Hinds, Town Engineer," which, insofar as it may be material to the correct understanding of these rules and regulations is made a part hereof.

(u) Provision of foregoing sections, m, n, o, p, q, and s shall not be in force and effective between the hours of 7 P. M. and 5 A. M.

(v) Every driver of a vehicle in slowing up or stopping shall, by up-lifted hand, give a signal to those behind.

(w) In turning while in motion or in starting to turn from a standstill a signal shall be given by the driver of the vehicle about to be turned by raising a hand, indicating the direction in which the turn is to be made.

(x) Before backing, ample warning shall be given by voice or hand, and while backing increased vigilance must be exercised by the driver not to injure those behind.

(y) Drivers of vehicles of all kinds shall, in approaching a crossing or in passing a corner or curve of a public street, sound their signals in such a way as to give warning to the occupants of other vehicles and to pedestrians of their approach.

(z) Vehicles must be stopped so as not to interfere with or prevent the passage of pedestrians at crossings, and at all times drivers of vehicles must stop the same on a signal from a police officer.

(aa) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the north side of Mt. Vernon Street in front of the store now occupied by Piccolo Brothers and the corner of said street formed by the junction of Main and Mt. Vernon Streets.

(ab) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the south side of Mt. Vernon Street in front of the store now occupied by one of the gas and oil stores and the north side of Main Street near the letter box.

(ac) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between the sign on the south side of Mt. Vernon Street and a point ten (10) feet south of the hydrant on the westerly side of Main Street in front of the barber shop now occupied by one Matthews.

(ad) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand in front of the Fire Station on Mt. Vernon Street.

(ae) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand between a point on Common Street sixteen and 6-10 (16-10) feet from the pole at the corner in front of Knight's drug store, and a point on the North side of Church Street sixteen and 6-10 (16-10) feet from the above mentioned pole.

(af) No vehicle shall be allowed to stand within ten (10) feet of any hydrant.

(ag) In all other parts of the business section of the town no vehicle shall be allowed to stand more than twenty (20) minutes in one place, except as provided in Article 2, section 4.

(ah) The exact locations of the posts and points hereinbefore referred to may be accurately determined by reference to a map entitled, "Plan of Winchester Centre, April, 1919, James Hinds, Town Engineer," which, insofar as it may be material to the correct understanding of these rules and regulations is made a part hereof.

(ai) Provision of foregoing sections, m, n, o, p, q, and s shall not be in force and effective between the hours of 7 P. M. and 5 A. M.

The Job of Insulation

Ordinary insulation nearly always gives way before the plates do, and the battery has to be reinsulated.

Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation protects the plates from the very beginning of the battery's life, and protects the car owner against the need of having the battery reinsulated.

Drop in, and we'll tell you about some of the long-life records that Threaded Rubber Insulation has made possible.
